HOWE'S

THAT

Well, football season is almost over—in the professional circles, that is. That means it's about time for them to start Spring training again. So this weekend is the day of the Dallas Cowboys—even they don't have any idea of winding up in the Super Bowl 1, at least five or six games back they didn't. But, just they have as much night as anyone else not to know what they're going to do next.

It is kind of ironic, the way the Vikings laid it on the Cowboys; then the 49's strapped on to the Vikings; then the Cowboys beat out the 49's after squeaking past Detroit, 5-0.

I used to think I was poor, then someone told me I wasn't poor. I was needy. Then they told me it was self-defeating to think of myself as needy, that I was culturally deprived. Then they told me deprived was a language, that I was underprivileged, then they told me underprivileged was overused, that I was disadvantaged.

I still don't have a dime, but I have a great vocabulary.

Remember last year when all of us thought COPE was a corpse, and buried for all time?

Or, do you remember what COPE was?

To refresh your memory, COPE was a committee advising the Governor and the Legislature on how to upgrade (their version) the educational system in Texas. In short, they were a group of businessmen and government centralization in everything using the yardstick of "It's not going to be fixed." Also, they were advising the state government to exercise big, big calling on all citizens. What things are best for them and see to it they got them whether they want them or not—that is, unless the provisions crown in on the two authorizers, Mosley and Vota.

Well, COPE as such is still uncoarse in its coffin somewhere, interested by a weakened public who is dire under their representatives in Austin. But, the same people, who can casually disregard the wishes of the majority of people, are back at it again this year—cut nearly by half, not asking communications media for a helping hand, certainly not trying to convince the law makers that everyone really wants it probably because all these methods fail pretty fast anyway.

The people's coppe is a corpse, but its spirit walks the land again.

Recently submitted to the Legislature was a carefully prepared list of proposed legislation called "Recommendations to Legislative consideration of Public Education." And, it was carefully and guardedly worded inside under "School District Reorganization" (page 22-23) and under the authors' stated local control by elected trustees lives it will be a sound idea in Texas. It will be a mass of modern education have increased, suits in non-accidents occurred, and continued on page 2.

City Election Set Two Councilmen Mayor, Judge

City Election was officially called by Council at last Thursday's regular monthly meeting. The election is scheduled Saturday, April 3, same day as the school trustee election.

Terms of two councilmen, and the mayor expire this year. Councilmen are Overton E. Jay and Jimmy Don McMillon, along with Mayor Doug Weathers, who stated he would not be a candidate for re-election. Holdover Councilmen are Buddy Baker, R. L. Jay and J.W. Reed. Also to be elected is a Municipal Judge, a post which has been filled by the mayor, who resigned that post at the meeting, and appointed Councilman McMillon to the job until the election.

Deadline for filing for the four positions is 30 days prior to the election, which is March 8.

In other business, the council approved the annual audit by Albert W. Brown, CPA (see separate story).

Passed an ordinance pertaining to food handlers in public establishments (see separate story).

Discussed repairs to the General Telephone building project in the city and to the building. Present day city hall building is to be used by the Police Department and Fire Department.

Council Passes Food Ordinance

An ordinance establishing minimum rules and regulation for operating food establishments in the city of Howe was approved Thursday night by City Council.

Among requirements of the ordinance is the obtaining of a permit from the Grayson County Health Department, a written application, and a health inspection by the department. The ordinance also requires food handlers to obtain a food handlers certificate by a reputable physician residing in this county, or by the director of the County Health Department.

Other areas covered by the ordinance include combination and installation, features, doors and windows, lavatory facilities, water supply, working surfaces and equipment, garbage collection and disposal, refrigeration, insect and rodent control, cooking and heating devices, electrical, plumbing and fixtures.

Complete text of the ordinance is available at City Hall.

A&M Meeting

Several persons from this area are at Texas University through today studying problem and practices peculiar to agriculture in the Texas Blacklands. Included in the group are Gene Spegal, Stanley Oakley, Charles Patkinson, Bill Dyer, Marcus Brown, Roy Chambley, Robert Welch, Phanny Morrison, John K. Hynds and Charles Fry.

The trip to College Station involves farmers ranchers and agribusinessmen from 12 counties in District 4 of the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. In these counties since late 1901, agricultural practices have been based mainly on guidelines and goals written into the Blackland Income Growth Program, known more familiarly as I & G.

The trip will also be one of many efforts in the Blacklands now and in the future to reach the goal of "3.76 in '76" a program established 12 months ago by the Texas Agricultural Extension Service to help all farmers and ranchers in the state add $1 billion annually by the end of crop year 1976.

At the end of crop year 1976 the total cash farm income was $2-76 billion at the end of crop year 1969. Coordination of I & G throughout the 39 Blackland counties is Ted Martin of Denton, supervisor of Extension District 4, who said efforts to double farm income in the I & G area include the efforts that will also help farmers and ranchers reach the goal of "3.76 in '76." Martin will preside at opening session Thursday.

Discussion cover new weed control measures for Blackland crops and pasturelands, insect and disease control, the production of cotton and grain, and the nutrition and reproduction of beef cattle, management of food crops, and the production of small grains, and the threat of downy mildew and southern corn blight to grain crops.

Each State Has Own Welfare Plan

"In effect, this country now has 50 different welfare programs."

It was the conclusion of a recent study, "Improving the Public Welfare System," released by the Committee for Economic Development. It states that each state must decide whether they wish to accept all or part of the available Federal matching grants for the elderly, the blind, the disabled and dependent children.

States also have considerable latitude in making regulations and in determining levels of payment without regard for the impact on other states or the nation as a whole. The study also follows disparities in present state welfare systems.

More than twenty states do not accept all the Federal funds available to help needy families because of their reluctance or inability to appropriate matching funds.

Gay, age 17 1/2, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jim Rogers of Hoope, Grandfather are Mr. and Mrs. Ed, Edwin, Edna, and Mrs. M. Ed Rogers of Sadeville.

Welfare Makes Changes

The new year will see some major changes in the State Department of Public Welfare operation.

Welfare Commissioner Burton C. Hickey recently announced the following changes due for implementation on January 1:

1. Use of a simplified eligibility application in the adult program of Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, and Aid to the Permanently and Totally Disabled and a "simplified application" form in the Aid to Families with Dependent Children (AFDC) program.

2. A switch in social service from a long-term needs to meeting short-range, specific goals.

3. A change in staffing pattern to allow the Department to meet the needs of the aid to families with dependent children as well as the aged.

The simplified method for determining eligibility works much like the decoration system for income tax.

The applicant fills out the form himself, eliminating the need for a face-to-face interview with a caseworker.

The procedure has built-in controls to guard against error and fraud, said J. Keith, regional director in Fort Worth. Informative tests in these regions will show how the new system will work.

Examples of what the social service workers might do now were given as these:

Help a expectant mother find the right kind of medical care and enroll in a pre-natal class. Help her contact an agency that will provide a home visit while the family hospitalizes or try to get older children to stay in a

$100 Billion Yearly Capital Is Needed—NAM

Raising the productivity of the economy will require a capital investment of at least $100 billion a year for the next five years, according to Manufacturers.
In a statement to the President's National Commission on Productivity, the NAM said that the average industrial worker in 1969 was producing $20,000. A capital investment must keep pace with expansion of the labor force in the 1970's, the NAM said, in order to expand capacity, to translate technology into productivity gains, and to counter upward pressures on cost.
The NAM urged the Commission to consider the need for "depreciating depreciation reform" to encourage productive investment, and the capital formation needed to produce gains in productivity.

The Commission was also urged to devise better measures to raise productivity and its relation to employment and unemployment and also to improve progressive training and education programs for a labor force.
The NAM said that "the most serious cause of our present productivity growth is the normal in-actives operating in a free enterprise economy," the NAM said. "These include the profits motive for companies and the desire of individuals to improve their own lot."
"I know where the money goes these days. It goes to the bank. It goes beyond my means as it used to."

YES, IT'S HARD TO REFUSE TO CASH A CHECK
But if a social security card is the only identification offered, a refusal may save you headaches later on. Honest people will understand if you explain that a social security card is for social security purposes only—NOT FOR IDENTIFICATION.
That little card is the key to old-age insurance payments and to survivors insurance payments for the family in case of the breadwinner's death.
