THE HOWE ENTERPRISE, THURSDAY, JUNE 3, 1971 - VOL. VII - No. 46

Lake Texoma draws a crowd on almost any given weekend around this time of year. Last Memorial Day weekend visitors were scarce as he's teeth. Not many old-limers around these parts can remember the type of weather last prevailed over the past week-end, occurring this late in the year.

A lot of gasoline went up in smoke during the three-day holiday, but instead of being burned in boat engines towing happy-go-lucky skiers over the lake, it was burned in automobiles by would-be lake visitors who found the weather a bit too muggy to stick it out over the three day period. Several left Saturday during the cold rain; some returned later in the afternoon after indications of clearing, and on information from the weather man, who indicated it would clear Saturday night. It didn't. Sunday morning some of the die-hards loaded up and left the camping areas in a floundering storm.

Haskeel Willafay over at the money-factory said he even tried to ski a little during the weekend, but got wet in the rain and gave it up. That's the trouble with skiing in the rain - you're bound to get wet!

Anyway, those lucky enough to get a Friday or Monday holiday were luckier than a lot of us - our union contract didn't call for the holiday.

The notoriety of the American automobile for planned obsolescence is almost equaled by its notoriety for unplanned fragility, as anyone who has ever been abecked by a repair bill knows.

Safety crusades have prompted congressional sanctions and decisions in Detroit have added numerous devices to the newer cars to protect drivers from injuries, and more serious inflicions sustained on the nation's highways and byways.

Last year's cars, despite their galloping horsepower, were as brittle as motorists have gradually accepted them to be. Studies showed that the automobile sustained heavy damage in collisions even at the seeming small's pace of five miles per hour.

The automotive industry and perhaps even more so, the insurance industry, should be bothered. But a forthcoming study of 1971 model cars by the Insurance Institute For Highway Safety will tell us how this year's cars are for as delicate as last year's.

If this vulnerability were translated into needless costs, which are reflect on higher and higher insurance premiums, throughout the country. (continued on page two)

EMPLOYMENT ADVICE

Competition in the job market has never been more intense. In 1971 more than one million people seeking from 10,000 to 20,000 job openings. However, will receive a double-edged sword. It will make significant financial differences.

Two major reasons for this disappointing reality are the archaic methods of bringing people and jobs together, and the lack of understanding on the part of the job seeker in planning and executing an effective campaign.

Overcoming this obstacle is relatively simple, though, as explained in a new audio cassette system. Designed to give individuals a step-by-step professional job hunting knowledge, you will be on the road to go after a better job or a new work, you can check the approximate dollar cost to you for the following table:

Yearly Cost	Cost Each Month	Yearly Cost	Yearly Cost
$100.00	$8.33	$100.00	$100.00
$200.00	$16.66	$300.00	$300.00
$300.00	$25.00	$400.00	$400.00
$400.00	$33.33	$500.00	$500.00

Management experts point out that in business, the proper use of time often makes the difference between success and failure. "Time is the scarcest resource," says consultant and author Peter Drucker. "It is managed, nothing else."

LOBBIES FOR GLASSES

The Family Lawyer

Profit on Your Home?

First five years, assuming you are an Average American, will give up one residence and one car. The first year of selling your home, and if you make a profit, you may have to pay income tax on the amount of the profit.

Generally, no-provided that you pay another home within one year. The fact that the profit will usually allow you a tax deferral, on the theory that the sale is not an ordinary business deal but a matter of personal necessity.

But in order to qualify for the tax deferral, you must fully meet the conditions that the law lays down. For example, you must not have owned the home for less than one year, and you must not have bought it for profit.

In one case, a man moving to the West wanted to buy a new home and sell his old home. The new home was not yet built, and the old home was still living in a rental home at the time the new one was up.

Nevertheless, he tried to get a tax deferral by arguing that his new intention was clear by the time of the sale. But a court turned him down. The judge said the law was broken because he had no intention to do so on what he did.

In another case, a man failed to buy a second home within the year solely because of a sudden illness. Was his his acceptable reason? Again, a court said no. The court said the law "is unambiguous and leaves no room for interpretation because of unforeseen circumstances arising."

What if you decide to build a new house, instead of buying one already in existence? In that case, the law does give you six months leeway, so long as you have at least started construction within the 12-month period.

A real estate builder thought he arranged a loan, which would allow him to sell his actual work within the year. He had been "sweated" for some time, but he was not "sweated" in the sense of the tax deferral. He decided that, with so many tangible steps already taken, he could not fairly turn him down.

ABOUT ANTIQUES

That old elaborate frame around the picture of a long-forgotten relative can add new dimensions to a job of yours. Mirrors, brighten and expand walls. At very little cost you can have the glass in the frame silvered. Old the frame with gold or silver paint or give it an antique finish with one of the special kits you can buy from a paint store. Antiques. You might even put a look, but with a little practice you'll have what you want.

For collectors of miniatures, here's a tip: make a plywood box a couple of inches deep and the size of the opening at the back of the frame. Line the interior with fabric, wallpaper or paint the box a color which will complement your room. Then put a mirror at the back of the box. Shelves can be added, too.

Glass or nail the box to the back of the frame and you have an ideal place to show your miniatures - on the wall and safe from breakage. You might even put a small socket and bulb inside so you can light up the display.
