The Sound Sleep of Good Health.

The restorative power of sound sleep can not be over estimated and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southers, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "For a long time I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness of kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley's Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock. I eat and enjoy my meals, and my general condition is greatly improved. I can honestly recommend Foley's Kidney Pills as I know they have cured me." For sale by all Druggists.

NO RULES FOR LONG LIFE

Simple Habits Undoubtedly Tend to That End, But Cannot Be Relied On.

The majority of the centenarians have been poor people who led a very simple life. A few rich men, as Sir Moses Montefiore, who lived to be 101, have reached a very high age, but they are very exceptional. In spite of the enormous difference in numbers of the rich and which makes comparison difficult, one may nevertheless affirm that wealth does not tend to promote a long life. Poverty carries with it sobriety, especially in old men, and it has been settled that sobriety tends to prolong life, and that most centenarians have been men of very sober habits. They have not all followed the example of the famous Cornaro, who ended by consuming only 12 ounces of solid nourishment and 14 ounces of wine, and who in spite of his poor health lived to be 100 years old. A number of centenarians are known indeed to have been drunkards, as the Surgeon Politman, who died 110 years old in 1795, and who "was in the habit of being drunk every night after spending the day performing difficult surgical operations." Another example is the Irishman Brown, who lived 120 years and who had the inscription placed on his tombstone that "he was always drunk, and while in this state looked so terrible that even death was afraid of him." From all this it is seen that when you are tempted to attribute long life to a certain factor you discover your mistake as soon as you look into a sufficient number of cases. It is, nevertheless, certain that a good constitution and simple habits promote long life, but there is besides these some mysterious hidden factor.

Michael Bruce.

A descendant of Michael Bruce is wanted to appear at the Poetical dinner. Michael Bruce? Yes, he was the poet who nearly lost his immortality at the hands of a robber, and, though dead, was saved from oblivion by John Bright. Bright had recited the "Ode to the Cuckoo" at a literary gathering, and spoke of one Logan as the author. By and by doubt arose, inquiry followed, and in 1872 Bright paid a pilgrimage of penitence to the grave of Bruce.

Michael died in his twenty-first year, and soon after Pastor Logan of Leith, under the mask of friendship, obtained all the poet's unpublished manuscripts from the bereaved parents, promising to publish a memorial edition for their benefit. After years of delay a beggarly brochure appeared, of which the old folk received six copies as their "benefit." In due course Logan published the bulk of the remainder as his own, and people, for a time believed in him!—London Chronicle.

Not Washington's Legs.

"Apropos of nothing," as the novelist says, Champ Clark, with his back up against a desk in the house and facing a full-length portrait of Washington, painted by John Vanderlyn, which hangs to the right of the speaker's chair, said: "Sims, do you know that the legs of that picture are not Washington's legs?" Sims, a Tennessee congressman, did not know. Sims doesn't assume to be an authority on either art or history—especially the history of Washington's legs. Continued Clark: "Those legs belonged to Gen. Smith of Maryland. Washington didn't have very good legs, so when the artist came to that part of the picture he used Gen. Smith's." The picture shows Washington in knickerbockers and stockings, with gold buckles on his pumps, as was the fashion of his time. It was the first time the men in the group where Champ Clark was talking had heard that the Father of His Country ever had to borrow a pair of legs.

Hoping for the Best.

"What is it, Jonathan?" asked the wife of the multi-millionaire, when he had finished reading the telegram. "Nothing serious. Willie has run away from school and married a girl who is six years older than him." "Merciful heavens! What will we do?" "I dunno. Let's wait till they get here. Mebbe she'll be scared when she sees that lots of children run in our family."

A Stupid Man Servant.

"Chawles," he drawled to his new man servant, as he settled himself comfortably in his library armchair for an after-dinner siesta, "you are to waken me whenever I am thirsty," tossing off a Scotch highball as he spoke. "But how shall I know, sir, when you are thirsty?" "I shall be thirsty whenever I am roused, of course," with a look of good-natured pity for the new man's stupidity.

RAILROAD BUILDING IN STATE OF TEXAS

IMPORTANT EXTENSIONS IN FAR WEST AND SOUTHWESTERN PORTIONS OF THE STATE.

AN OCEAN-TO-GULF PROJECT

Building Two Lines in State to Shorten Distance From Pacific to the Gulf.

Dallas, April 13.—The Santa Fe is at present the foremost Texas railroad in regard to the extent of new lines being constructed. So many different extensions are being planned that the exact plans of the company are confusing to many. West and Southwest Texas are to have important extensions, and it has almost been definitely decided that there will be two routes across Texas that will serve as "cut-offs" for the Pacific Coast-Gulf transportation business. The Coleman-Texico cut-off is well known to the average reader, but the other line, which can serve as a short cut, has not been generally discussed, although it will open up an important undeveloped territory in the Southwest and far West. This line will extend northwest from San Angelo to Sterling City. From this point on there is lack of reliable data regarding the exact route. However, south from Lubbock a line is being built to Tahoka, in Lynn County and Lamesa, in Dawson County, two counties now entirely without railroad facilities. There are many conjectures regarding the route to be taken in the gap between Sterling City and Lamesa. Lubbock will be the converging point of the two cut-offs. From this place the line to Texico is being built. Another Santa Fe extension is being built from Lometa, a few miles north of Lampasas, to Brady. The route beyond Brady has not been definitely decided upon. It is claimed by a Santa Fe official, but as the Santa Fe has purchased the Miles-Paint Rock road, the connecting link to be built is between Brady and Paint Rock. This extension reaches an important cattle country, which can also be converted into a strictly agricultural country.

The enlargement of the Temple yards and the building of a new depot and eating house indicate that the Santa Fe expects to make prompt use of the Texas-Coleman cut-off for through freight and passenger business from ocean to Gulf.

The Gulf, Texas and Western, a new line building westward from Jacksboro and now operating about fifty miles of track, is expected to tap the Santa Fe in the Plains Country. This line, by a traffic arrangement, would serve as a fourth Texas "cut-off" for the Santa Fe, giving it a short line from the Pacific Coast to the Dallas trade territory.

TO BUILD ELEPHANT BUTTE DAM

After Condemnation Proceedings Government Going Ahead.

El Paso: Six weeks after hearing the testimony and the arguments in the condemnation proceedings instituted by the Government of the United States against the Victorio Land and Cattle Company, involving the land to be covered by the waters of the Elephant Butte dam, the great $7,000,000 irrigation project in which this section is vitally interested, the opponents Saturday filed their final report, which was made public.

The Government offered the Victorio Land and Cattle Company $65,000 for the 30,000 acres of land, which the waters of the dam will cover. The land was assessed at thirty cents an acre for taxes, but the company demanded $600,000. After the condemnation proceedings were instituted the company demanded $1,000,000 additional for a strip of land 1,200 by 100 feet in size which would form the site of the dam.

The appraisers assessed the value of the land at $199,997.25, from which they deducted $1,380 for land in litigation to be held in trust and paid to the rightful owners as found by the court. They also award the company the right to water its cattle from the reservoir where it abuts their lands.

Engineer in Charge Reed announced that work on the dam would be resumed and pushed to completion as the funds for the work were already available, and the matter of the land will now be left to the courts, provided the company refuses to accept the prices awarded by the appraisers. There is great rejoicing in El Paso and throughout the Rio Grande Valley.

New Military Companies.

Austin: Adj. Gen. Newton gave notice that the military companies at Temple, Athens and Crowell would be admitted into the Texas National Guard.

STATE CHEMIST ON NEW FLOUR

This is Cotton Seed Meal, Especially Treated, Removing the Hulls.

College Station, Tex., April 11.—That cotton seed flour as manufactured by the cotton oil mills of Texas can be used as a human food is the professional and scientific opinion of Dr. G. S. Fraps, State Chemist of Texas, at the A. & M. College of Texas, who has just this morning proceeded far enough with the analyses that have been in progress, but several of the tables are yet to be worked out, which will be used to complete the bulletin on the subject now in process of preparation.

Dr. Fraps undertook this investigation for scientific research. Jo W. Allison of Ennis, one of the officers of the Cotton Seed Crushers' Association, sent him the bread, cakes and biscuits made by Mrs. Dan McCarty of Ennis, Tex., and setting aside other work that was pending, Dr. Fraps gave this important subject the right of way in his laboratories, so as to prepare as soon as possible a report that would go out to the people of the State regarding an important product of Texas and the South.

In explaining what cotton seed flour is Dr. Fraps stated that it is cotton seed meal which has been especially treated so as to remove the hulls as thoroughly as possible. It is finely ground, of a bright yellow color and with pleasant odor and sweetish taste.

According to the investigations made by the State Chemist, the following facts regarding this cotton seed flour have been deduced:

Cotton seed flour resembles meat more closely in its chemical composition than it does wheat flour. It is quite different in character from wheat flour; it contains less crude fiber than cotton seed meal, in that it contains less hulls. The flour contains more than twice as much protein as the meats, which is due to the water in the meat, but whatever the cause of the difference, the cotton seed flour contains over twice as much flesh forming (not fat) materials (protein) than any of the meats.

IMPORTANT EDUCATIONAL MOVE

Chair of Highway Engineering for A. & M. College of Texas.

College Station: One of the most important movements inaugurated in educational work in the State of Texas is the action of the board of directors of the Agricultural and Mechanical College in establishing a chair of highway engineering, which is to be a subdivision of the department of civil engineering of the college. The most important feature of this new chair is not in its educational advantage, as it affects the student body of the college alone, but as it affects the people of the whole state who need good highways, and the various county officials of the state who are in charge of highway building in their various counties, because the professor of highway engineering will not only teach it in the school, but he will visit counties and confer with the commissioners, advise them as to what to do and how to do it.

BEAUMONT ORANGE PROJECT

Senator Burton Among Those Opposing Project.

Washington: The Senate Commerce Committee submitted a print of its rivers and harbors bill to the Senate, and at the same time Senator Burton and Senator Newlands served notice that they would file adverse reports to the measure. Senator Newlands' objection will be directed against the general policy of making rivers and harbors bills and give his views on the question of a commission for the systematizing of the waterway work. Senator Burton, it is understood, will attack several items in the bill, among them the appropriation of $200,000 for the beginning of the work of deepening the Sabine Lake canal as part of the Beaumont-Orange deeper waterway. His objection to this item is that the committee flew in the face of all precedent by ignoring the findings of the district engineer, the division engineer, the board of engineers and the chief engineer, all of which are adverse to an appropriation for the project.

EXPLOSION KILLS EIGHT MEN

Accident Occurs On Coleman Cut-Off of Santa Fe.

Coleman, Tex.: A premature explosion of a blast on the Coleman cut-off of the Santa Fe about twenty-two miles from here killed eight workmen Sunday. Six others are missing and it is feared that they are buried beneath the debris. The explosion occurred near the bridge over Jim Ned Creek, where the men were working. They were blasting rock when the accident occurred.

TENNESSEE STIRRED; COOPERS PARDONED

SENTENCE OF COOPER FOR KILLING CARMACK AFFIRMED BY THE SUPREME COURT.

FREEDOM COMES VERY QUICK

Patterson Says He Believes Both Convicted Men Are Innocent and Pardons Them.

Nashville, Tenn., April 14.—In the case of Col. Duncan B. Cooper and Robin J. Cooper, father and son, convicted of killing former United States Senator E. W. Carmack on the streets here Nov. 9, 1908, and sentenced to twenty years each in the State penitentiary, the Tennessee Supreme Court yesterday morning, by a divided vote, affirmed the sentence as to D. B. Cooper. As to Robin Cooper, the case also by a divided vote is reversed and remanded to the lower court for a new trial. While Chief Justice Beard was reading a dissenting opinion in the case of Duncan B. Cooper Gov. Patterson wrote a full pardon for the defendant, in which he declares:

Declares Defendants Not Guilty. "In my opinion neither of the defendants is guilty, and they have not had a fair and impartial trial, but were convicted contrary to the law and evidence."

The reversal in the case of Robin Cooper is based on assignments of error in the trial judge's failing to charge separately as to Robin Cooper's theory of self-defense, linking the defense of the defendants together; excluding testimony of Gov. Patterson as to talks with the defendant Robin Cooper and advice given him as to Col. Cooper before the tragedy; and the admission on cross examination of Robin Cooper as to intent of certain state witnesses testifying as to certain incidents.

Congratulated by Friends. Col. Cooper was still at the Capitol when the pardon was entered in the Secretary of State's office. He was at once surrounded by a crowd of friends seeking to congratulate him. He was as calm and even cheerful through it all as if he had received an acquittal. The reversal of his son's case seemed to interest and please him to the exclusion of his own fate.

Pardon Called an Outrage.

Memphis, Tenn.: Capt. G. T. Fitzhugh, associate counsel for the prosecution in the Cooper case, whose speech at the famous trial attracted wide attention, characterized the pardon of D. B. Cooper as an outrage. He said: "The disgraceful haste displayed by the Governor in pardoning D. B. Cooper before the ink was hardly dry on the Supreme Court opinion convicting him of murder, shocks every sense of decency. Sworn to execute the laws as construed by the highest court, the Governor, without even a petition from any one, tramples the law under foot and sets aside the court's decree."

BIG CONCERN PROTECTS ITS MEN

Company Passes Employer's Liability Act of Its Own.

Chicago: Ignoring the tardy action of State and National legislative bodies, the International Harvester Company has adopted an employers' liability act on its own account which guarantees its employees absolute protection in the event of accidents and will profit the workers anything from $200,000 to $500,000—possibly more—annually.

Through the operation of this unanticipated legislative act, the Harvester concern's army of 25,000 employees in every State of the Union come under a uniform liability act which guarantees them a given sum in the event of accidents regardless of legal technicalities concerning the responsibility for such accident.

Along with this is a guarantee of an income of a stated amount in every instance of complete or partial disability of an employee. This also is granted without investigation of responsibility.

This action of the Harvester corporation is unique in corporate reform moves in that the corporation has "passed" of its own volition and without the persuading guidance of legislative enactment, a reform law that is more radical than has been asked by many of the most radical friends of employers' liability laws.

A Minister's Indigestion

Rev. Fletcher of Tennessee Suggests a Remedy Based on Personal Experience—You Can Get It Free.

There is nothing that is so much sought after as a remedy for stomach trouble, and hence you will be interested to know how the Rev. A. J. Fletcher of Rutherford, Tenn., whose picture we present herewith, cured his indigestion. To use his own words, he says, in part: "I received the sample bottle of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin that I asked you to send me, and I made no mistake in ordering it. I have been troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion more or less for about sixty years, and have taken many remedies, but Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has done me more good than anything else. I am 72."

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has been sold in drug stores for twenty years. The price is only 50 cents or $1 a bottle. It is especially adapted to the uses of babies, children, women and old folks. Its purity is vouched to the Government, and results from its use are guaranteed. If you have never tried it send name and address for a free trial bottle, which will be cheerfully sent to your home prepaid. If there is any medical advice that you want, or anything about your condition that you don't understand, write the doctor. Address your letter, Dr. W. B. SERIAL STORY

The LAST VOYAGE of the DONNA ISABEL

By Randall Parrish
Author of "Bob Hampton of Placer," etc.

Illustrations by Dearborn Melvill

Copyright A. C. McClurg & Co., 1916.

SYNOPSIS.

The story opens with the introduction of John Stephens, an American, a Massachusetts man marooned by authorities at Valparaiso, Chile. Being interested in mining operations in Bolivia, he was denounced by Chile as an insurrectionist and as a consequence was hiding. At his hotel his attention was attracted by an Englishman and a young woman. Stephens rescued the young woman from a drunken officer. He was thanked by her. Admiral of the Peruvian navy confronted Stephens, told him that war had been declared between Chile and Peru and offered him the office of captain. He desired that that night the Esmeralda, a Chilean vessel, should be captured. Stephens accepted the commission. Stephens met a motley crew, to which he was assigned. He gave them final instructions. They boarded the vessel. They successfully captured the vessel supposed to be the Esmeralda, through strategy. Capt. Stephens gave directions for the departure of the craft.

CHAPTER VII.

In Which I Suspect Evil.

Early dawn reached us in sodden gray, the sun a shapeless blob of dull red, with no vestige of its golden light forcing passage through those dense clouds of misty vapor closing us in as between curtained walls. The swell of the sea was not heavy, but the pervading gloom gave to the surrounding water a peculiarly sullen appearance, through which we tore, reckless of accident, at full speed. A new hand was at the wheel, Johnson having gone below an hour since, but I still clung to the bridge, my eyes heavy from peering forth into the fog-bank, my clothing sodden with the constant drip.

Only a few of the men were visible, three or four grouped about the captain on the fore-castle head, and as many more gathered along the lee side of the charthouse. Evidently regular watches were already chosen, and a portion of the crew had been turned in for their trick below. Tuttle himself, clad in wet, glistening oil-skins and looking gaunt and cadaverous, his chin-beard forking straight out over the high collar, was standing aft, beside the fellow who still kept guard over the companion. I moved across to the starboard end of the bridge, and, when he glanced around, made signal for him to join me.

"Not very much chance of any one overhauling us in this fog, Mr. Tuttle," I said, pleasantly. "It would be like hunting a needle in a haystack."

"'Tis as the Lord wills," he returned, rather sourly. "Man proposes, but God disposes. The sun will lift that whole outfit in another hour. How far do you figure we're off shore?"

"Figure it for yourself. We're doing all of 16 knots, and have been for four hours at that speed. With another to be added, even our smoke ought to be below the horizon. We've given them the slip all right, and from now on it's merely a question of steaming to keep ahead. I don't recall anything in the Chilean navy that can overhaul us. What discoveries have you made below?"

He turned his crafty, glittering eyes toward me, twisting the lump of tobacco under his tongue. In some way, beneath the revealing daylight, I became even more distrustful of the man, more conscious of his hypocrisy.

"Not a great deal," his mouth attempting a grin; "except that we've got the crew caged. Everybody was ashore but the harbor watch."

"Then you found the fore-castle empty?"

"Nothin' there but dunnage and bilge water; regular sea-parlor, sir."

"And no officer on board?" I asked, scarcely believing it possible.

"None, barring the engineer, so far as I know. The cabin was locked up by your orders, so I let that alone."

"And that, then, is all you have discovered, is it, Mr. Tuttle?"

He shifted his long legs, but made no effort to turn and face me.

"Well, I guess that's about the whole of it," he answered, slowly, as though deliberating over the choice of words. "Only I'm a bit puzzled about some things what don't look just right. We started out, as I understand it, to run off with a Chilean warship named the Esmeralda, a schooner-rigged steam yacht. That was the contract, wasn't it, sir?"

I nodded, gravely, wondering what the man could possibly be driving at. "That was my understanding," his nasal tone becoming more pronounced and disagreeable. "And somehow what we've got here looks just a bit odd. This here is a schooner-rigged steam-yacht all right, an' I guess the tonnage isn't very far out of the Esmeralda class, but we haven't found a blame Chilean on board—two Swedes, a Dutchman, two Kanakas, an' a bloomin' English engineer."

"Well, what of that?" I broke in impatiently. "You know as well as I do that the entire Chilean navy is filled with foreigners."

"Sure," he coincided, with a swift, questioning glance toward me; "that's all true enough, sir, but I never saw a whole crew of those beggars an' no Chilean bossin' 'em. But then that's only a part of it. Every one of them small boats down there, an' the life-preservers hangin' in front of the cabin, have got the name Sea Queen painted on them. Dam' if it ain't, here, too, on this tarpaulin."

I bent over the rail looking down at the lettering he pointed out, yet with no feeling of uneasiness.

"Beyond doubt, that was the yacht's name before the Chilean government purchased her and renamed her Esmeralda for their service. She was bought from English parties, I've heard. Probably the new owners have found no opportunity to repaint the name."

Tuttle drew forth a red bandanna and blew his nose, his voice more sul-

"See Here, Mr. Tuttle, Kindly Explain What You Are Driving At."

lenly insolent as he resumed speech. "Glad ye take it so cool, an' maybe yer right. However, it looks dam' odd to me."

I glanced aside at the wheelman apprehensively. The fellow was gazing straight ahead of him into the rapidly thinning fog. It was the manner of the mate more than his words that impressed me.

"See here, Mr. Tuttle," and I dropped my hand rather heavily on his sleeve, "kindly explain exactly what you are driving at. Do you intend to insinuate that we have made a mistake in the dark, and run off with the wrong vessel? Why, man, that is impossible. We are sailors, not landlubbers. Both of us have had chances to see the Esmeralda, and you certainly knew where she was moored yesterday."

"Well, when I come to think it over, I don't feel quite so everlastingly sure about that. The mind o' man is mighty deceitful," he admitted, slowly. "You see, I never saw her any closer than maybe a mile, an' even then she was half hid behind other shippin'. Of course I took notice of her outline an' rig, but I didn't pay much attention to details. To-night we was all of us excited, an' colors don't show up much in the dark! Now, her funnel is painted red, an' unless I'm a liar the Esmeralda's was black with a yellow stripe round the top. You see, Mr. Stephens, we kept in pretty close under cover all yesterday, an' maybe they hauled the Esmeralda up to the government docks, and run another boat into her anchorage."

I laughed aloud, not in the least impressed with his argument.

"A very likely story that there were two vessels in that harbor so near alike as to deceive all of us."

He remained stubbornly silent, evidently unconvinced, plucking at his chin-beard.

"There is a certain way of settling the matter," I went on, decisively, "that is, by an examination of the papers in the cabin. Take charge of the bridge, and I'll run down and clear up this affair beyond any further controversy. We may even have one of the ship's officers stowed away there, sleeping off his late celebration. If there is, he's due for a rude awakening. Keep the yacht's head as she is, and I'll be back directly."

I was aware that he watched me closely as I descended the steps, but felt little interest in such surveillance. That we could have been guilty of so serious an error as he suggested was beyond possibility. Nevertheless the mere suspicion was irritating, leaving me filled with a vague unrest. It was quite true that I might have been deceived. I realized that, because I had enjoyed no opportunity to observe the Esmeralda in daylight, and no occasion to study her lines with care at any time. To me she had appeared merely as an extremely graceful vessel, interesting to the eye of a seaman. But Tuttle and his crew must have known the truth. If we were, indeed, on board the wrong vessel, it was from no innocent mistake of the darkness, but rather the result of deliberate plan, the full purpose of which was beyond my comprehension. I swore savagely under my breath, even as I laughed sarcastically at the vague suspicion, aroused largely, as I well realized, by my increasing dislike of the ex-whaleman. The wrong ship? Why, the very conception of such an accident was grotesque, ridiculous, beyond belief! It was the hallucination of a fool. One of the men assisted me to unbar the slide across the companionway, and, bidding him stand by ready for a hail, I started below, my fingers on the brass rail, my feet firm on the rubber-lined stairs.

These led into as handsome a sea-parlor as ever I remember gazing upon. Everything was effective and in elaborate taste, evidencing an expenditure that made me stare about in amazement. So deeply did it impress me that I remained there grasping the rail, gazing about in surprise, hesitating to press my investigations further. Yet this feeling was but momentary, the very desolation and silence quickly convincing me that the cabin contained no occupants. The movement of the vessel, the tramping of men on the deck, and the ceaseless noise of the screw were more noticeable here than forward, and no seaman, however overloaded with liquor, he might have been the night before, could have slept undisturbed through the hubbub and changes of the past few hours.

Inspired to activity by this knowledge, and eager to settle the identity of our prize, I began closer examination of that impressive interior, although not entirely relieved from the spell of its royal magnificence. Six doors, three upon each side, opened off from the main cabin. The full-length mirrors occupied the spaces between, and the doors themselves were marvels of decoration and carving. Another, beneath the stairs, led directly into the steward's pantry, and revealed, besides, a passageway leading forward, probably to the lazarette amidships. The others, as I tried their brass knobs, exhibited merely comfortable staterooms, fitted up for officers' use; three contained two bunks each, the others only one. Four of the beds had been carefully made, but the remainder were in disorder, as though quite lately occupied. Everything impressed me as unusually clean and neat, evincing strict discipline. The only desk I noticed was a roll-top affair, securely locked, and with no litter of papers lying anywhere about. This, I figured, was probably the berth of the first officer; the captain's room would naturally be the one farthest astern.

The upright piano, with the high-backed cushioned chairs surrounding it, blocked my view aft, but on rounding these I observed a closed door, which apparently led into a room extending the entire width of the cabin. Never suspecting that it might be occupied, I grasped the brass knob, and stepped within. Instantly I came to a full stop, dazed by astonishment, my teeth clenched in quick effort at self-control. The entire scene burst in upon my consciousness with that first surprised survey—the draped portholes opening out upon the gray fog-bank, the brass bed screwed to the deck, the chairs upholstered in green plush, the polished table with a vase of flowers topping it, the glistening front of a book-case in the corner, the tiger rug into which my feet sank. All these things I perceived, scarcely realizing that I did so, for my one true impression concentrated itself upon the living occupants.

There were two present. At a low dressing table, her back toward me, fronting a mirror, yet with eyes fastened upon an open book lying in her lap, sat a woman. The lowered head yielded me only an indistinct outline of her features, yet the full throat and rounded cheek gave pledge of both youth and beauty. Standing almost directly behind her chair, with short, curly locks, crowned by a smart white cap, her hands busied amid her mistress's tresses, was a maid, petite, roguish, fluttering about like a humming bird. The latter saw me at once, pausing in her work with eyes wide open in surprise, but the preoccupied mistress did not even glance up. She must have heard the sound of the door, however, for she spoke carelessly:

"I thought you were never coming. What caused you to sail so suddenly?"

These unexpected words, uttered so naturally, served partially to arouse me from the dull torpor of surprise. I clenched my hands, wondering if I was really awake, and stared back into the frightened eyes of the maid, who appeared equally incapable of articulation. Suddenly she found voice.

"It is not ze one, madame," she cried, shrinking back. "Non, non; it is un homme étranger."

"What is that you say, Celeste?" and the other arose swiftly to her feet, the open book dropping to the floor as she turned to face me. Instantly I recognized her, in spite of the long hair trailing unconfined far below her waist—recognized her with a sudden leap upward of my heart into my throat. There was no semblance of fear, only undisguised amazement, in the dark gray eyes that met mine.

"What—what is the meaning of this strange intrusion? Are you a member of the crew?"

Instantly my cap came off, the thought occurring to me of what a rough figure I must be making in my soaked jacket, with the glistening peak of my cap shadowing my face.

"No, madame," and I bowed before her. "I am not one of your crew. My—my entrance here was entirely a mistake."

She leaned forward, one white hand grasping the back of her chair, the expression in her eyes changing as she read my face, perplexity merging into faint recollection.

"I do not quite comprehend," she confessed at last, changing her speech to a slightly broken Spanish. "You—you are Senor Estevan?"

CHAPTER VIII.

In Which I Begin Discovery.

Stunned by this abrupt disclosure of the extremely dangerous predicament we were in, I found no immediate voice for reply, merely standing there as if petrified, staring at them both, cap in hand, grasping the edge of the door. Their faces swam before me in the gray light streaming through the stern ports; the maid already attempting a smile, as though her fears had subsided, the mistress viewing me in wondering perplexity. She it was who first succeeded in breaking the embarrassing silence.

"But, senor, what does this all mean? Why are you here on board the yacht?"

With strong effort at control I brought my senses together, desperately fronting the disagreeable situation, feeling myself scarcely less a victim than she. If all that I now dimly suspected proved true, about as both were being drawn the cords of treachery.

"I cannot explain, madame," I began lamely enough. "At least not until I comprehend the situation better myself than I do now. It is all dark. I have reason to believe a most serious mistake has been made—one it will be very difficult to rectify. Perhaps I could see more clearly if you would consent to answer a few questions. May I ask them of you?"

YOUTHFUL SCOT WELL VERSED.

Prompt and Concise Answer to Categorical Question.

Boston, Massachusetts, has long enjoyed the reputation of having exceedingly learned children who are able, so it is said, to dispute on subjects far above the heads of their elders of other regions. But Boston is not unique. In a book entitled "The Scot of the Eighteenth Century" Ian Maclaren describes a similar characteristic of the Caledonian.

It is the inevitable tendency of the Scot's mind to follow out every line to its terminus, even if it be over a precipice, and to divide every hair till infinity is touched.

It is not only in church courts, but in market places and in railway stations, in humble cottages as well as in university societies that the Scot is disputing, in every spare moment of his time, from morning till night.

The story goes that a minister overheard a mother questioning her child, as it sipped its porridge, after the day's work was done.

"What," said this austere mother, "is the true relation between kirk and state, according to the principles of the Free church?"

And the favored child promptly replied: "Co-ordinate jurisdiction with mutual subordination."—Youth's Companion.

Gangrene of Caste in India.

Those who have not lived in India nor have made a special study of its unique conditions can hardly understand the differences and hatreds that exist among the different peoples. Between the Mussulman and the Hindu, the Punjabi and the Bengali, the Sikh and the Brahmin, and between many of the smaller divisions of religion, race and caste there is no such thing as cohesion or co-operation; and if, to a small degree, the rigid lines of caste have been broken down here and there so that labor and commerce under modern conditions have been made possible it is due in no small degree to the efforts of Great Britain.

THE RIVER OF LIFE

Say what you will of whatever part of the human anatomy they please, the river of life is BLOOD. It is either the swift running stream of health or the scum-laden channel of disease, one or the other.

The new remedy for the blood is the kind that freshens and quickens the circulation, energizes the good corpuscles that fight the battle of life for the sick.

SIMMONS' SARSAPARILLA COMPOUND is unlike any other known medicine. It works differently, it reaches in and through and down till it penetrates to the seat of the disease and springs at the very throat of the cause of it. It's the only remedy that does this. And doing this, it gets results and effects cure where other can't. Tell your druggist this is the kind you want and that you won't have any other. He's got it; if he hasn't make him get it; he'll get it for you.

Newfoundland's Bad Record.
The Newfoundland Society for the Prevention of Tuberculosis is carrying on a vigorous and necessary campaign this year in the island. The death rate from the disease in Newfoundland is very large. About one in every five of the total population dies of it, and what is worse, in the last six years the death rate, which is stationary or decreasing elsewhere, has increased about 50 per cent. This is due largely to the native horror of fresh air in the house.

Love at First Sight.

Friend—So yours was a case of love at first sight?

Mrs. Getthere—Yes, indeed. I fell desperately in love with my dear husband the moment I set eyes upon him. I remember it as distinctly as if it were yesterday. I was walking with papa on the beach at Long Beach, when suddenly papa stopped and, pointing him out, said: "There, my dear, is a man worth ten millions."—New York Weekly.

ABANDONED IT
For the Old Fashioned Coffee Was Killing.

"I always drank coffee with the rest of the family, for it seemed as if there was nothing for breakfast if we did not have it on the table.

"I had been troubled some time with my heart, which did not feel right. This trouble grew worse steadily. "Sometimes it would beat fast and at other times very slowly, so that I would hardly be able to do work for an hour or two after breakfast, and if I walked up a hill, it gave me a severe pain.

"I had no idea of what the trouble was until a friend suggested that perhaps it might be caused by coffee drinking. I tried leaving off the coffee and began drinking Postum. The change came quickly. I am now glad to say that I am entirely well of the heart trouble and attribute the relief to leaving off coffee and the use of Postum.

"A number of my friends have abandoned the old fashioned coffee and have taken up with Postum, which they are using steadily. There are some people that make Postum very weak and tasteless, but if it is boiled long enough, according to directions, it is a very delicious beverage. We have never used any of the old fashioned coffee since Postum was first started in our house."

Read the little book, "The Road to Wellville," in pkgs. "There's a Reason." Ever read the above letter? A new one appears from time to time. They are genuine, true, and full of human interest.

nounced.

Gov. Tom Campbell seems well pleased with his administration, but he is the only one we have heard of up to date.

As many of our preachers are be a wise idea for some of our politicians to turn preachers?

Gov. Tom Campbell in his explanation of knock-out drops in of Texas that it was the same drops that he had been giving to the Rusk penitentiary during Watterson Lauds Roosevelt.

Louisville Courier Journal.

The time has come for the people of the United States to consider Theodore Roosevelt as they have never considered him before, to take him more seriously than they have ever taken him;
to realize that he is altogether the most startling figure who has appeared in the world since Napoleon Bonaparte, a circumstance not without significance and portent.

The candidacy of Theodore Roosevelt in 1812 may be regarded from this time onward as so probable that the people should begin seriously to consider it. If we are to return Theodore Roosevelt to power let there be no mistake about the terms of the new commission which is to be issued to him.

If there be needed for executive head a strong man, having the courage to take all the bulls of corruption by the horns and regardless of obsolete legal restraints, to shake the life out of them, then, indeed, Theodore Roosevelt would seem one fitted by temperament, education and training for the work.

One of the most severe rain and hail storms that has ever visited Dallas in years, prevailed in that city Monday evening. The property loss will amount to $100,000

Five Years of Heart Trouble Cured by Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy

"Before I began taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy I had been suffering from heart trouble for over five years. I had pains in my left side, and under my shoulder blade, could not sleep on the left side, and was so short of breath the least exertion would bring on the most distressing palpitation. I had scarcely taken a half bottle of the Heart Remedy before I could see a marked change in my condition. When I had taken six bottles I was cured."

MRS. C. C. GORKEY,
 Northfield, Va.

If there is fluttering or palpitation it is an indication of a weakness of the nerves and muscles of the heart. It is not necessarily diseased—just weak from over-work. The heart may be weak just the same as the eyes, stomach or other organs. You can make a weak heart strong by taking Dr. Miles' Heart Remedy. Get a bottle from your druggist, take it according to directions, and if it does not benefit he will return your money.

Zola is by Porto Rico 2:11, he by Electric, sire of 64 from 2:11 to 2:30. Electric is by Electioneer. Zola's dam is Norisa, dam of Dean Forest 2:41 1/4, sire of Dallas Texas 2:21. She is by Nutwood 600, the greatest speed sire of the world.

COLONEL ZOLA'S dam is Hidene. She is by Gambetta Wilkes, sire of 106 from 2:05 to 2:30. He is by George Wilkes, whose family has produced over 2000 horses with records. Hidene's dam is Lady Palm, dam of Gambier 2:18 and Lord Palm 2:19 1/4. She is by Thomas Jefferson.

COLONEL ZOLA is a beautiful bronze sorrell, standing 16 hands high at four years old. He is a clean-gaited trotter and shows extreme natural speed of a high order. This is the kind of stock to raise if you want the cash for them.

COLONEL ZOLA is fashionably bred, being Electioneer-Nutwood-Wilkes, with a Membrino Patchen-Membrino Chief and thoroughbred foundation. There is not a shade line in his pedigree. He inherits on both sire and dam side the best speed producing blood from the most forceful and popular sources.

COLONEL ZOLA will make the season of 1910 one mile west of Howe, Texas, at my barn, at $10.00 per season, $12.50 to return next season if fail to get with foal, and $15.00 to insure the mare with foal.

Also TEXAS KING, (Jack) about 15 1/2 hands high jack measure, of extra bone and length, and of good qualities, will make the season at same place. Season $10.00 to insure. If mare is disposed of in any way the season becomes due.

Britain's Rulers. Mr. Lloyd-George is pleasantly proud of his nationality, but it is amazing that he had to go back to Queen Elizabeth and the Tudors to find historical precedence for a Welsh government of Great Britain. On the other hand, England has often been ruled by Scotmen. Of the last three premiers, two—Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman and Mr. Balfour—were Scotch. Mr. Gladstone sat for a Scotch constituency, and so does Mr. Asquith. Ireland has always been busy supplying us with governing men. The Duke of Wellington, Lord Roberts, Lord Charles Berosford, Lord Russell and a dozen others immediately occur to me. It is odd to remember that it is centuries since Great Britain had a purely English sovereign. The Tudors were Welsh. The Stuarts were Scotch, William III. was a Dutchman and the Guelfs are of German descent.—London Chronicle.

A Small Loaf. A half-famished fellow in the southern states tells of a baker (whose loaves had been growing "smaller by degrees and beautifully less") who, when going his rounds to serve his customers, stopped at the door of one and knocked, when the lady within exclaimed: "Who's there?" and was answered: "The baker." "What do you want?" "To leave your bread." "Well, you needn't make such a fuss about it; put it through the keyhole."

Put Tax on Bachelors. The Sobranje of Bulgaria has passed a law imposing a tax of about three dollars a year on all unmarried men who are 30 years old and older. At Tirnovo, the ancient capital, it has been a custom for many years to humiliate unmarried men. On the first Monday in Lent all marriageable men who had not selected life partners in the carnival season were beaten on sight with inflated pigs' bladders. The bachelors always creaded the day, while the girls looked forward to it with pleasure. Since the tax act has been passed the bachelors of Tirnovo have entered a formal protest against the continuance of the practice. They say they will gladly pay the tax, but want the chastisement declared unlawful.

Aluminum Coins for France. It is expected that aluminum coins of low value will be in circulation in France by the end of this year. It is interesting to note, in this connection, that the adoption of M. Naquet's proposition for an aluminum coinage in 1871 would have resulted in a heavy loss to the French treasury. Although experts declared it to be impossible that the value of the metal should decrease, it has now fallen to nearly half the price ruling at that time.

New Embroidery Patterns. One of the newest patterns in embroidery shows a table cover with a hemstitched border on two sides. The hems were ten inches deep. In the center threads were drawn to outline eight blocks, four on each side, with edges touching the hems. This brings the blocks in the center of the table. All blocks are embroidered in a different floral pattern, making it something original, and at the same time attractive.

Good Business Transaction. In one instance in the west a ranchman found gold "color" in his valuable orchard. He figured that he could make more money gold mining than by fruit raising, so he installed a dredge in his orchard. The trees were cut down as the dredge progressed and soon all the great orchard had been destroyed by the machine, but the ranchman had been made a millionaire, while it was a matter of ease to replant his orchard.

"You told me," she sadly said, "when you persuaded me to elope with you that you would never permit anything to come between us—that you would cherish my love all your days and that I should never have cause to regret for a moment that I had placed my happiness in your keeping."
"Oh, well, confound it," he replied, "what's the use of harping on that now? If you hadn't kept a lot of your faults hidden from me I'd never have fallen in love with you or wanted you to elope, so you have only yourself to blame."

Stony meteorites, according to Prof. William M. Pickering, who favors a theory promulgated by Prof. Chamberlin, may have had their origin in the earth as by-products of the catastrophe which split the moon off from our globe. The fact that they could not get cosmically very far away from us accounts for their dropping in on us occasionally when so inclined. "In support of this view of their terrestrial origin, we have the fact that 29 terrestrial elements, including helium, have so far been recognized in meteorites, ten of them being non-metallic

TO KEEP TABLECLOTH FRESH

Much Depends on Its Disposition and Care When Not in Actual Use.

When not in use a tablecloth should be kept in folded creases and when brought out to be spread should be laid on the table and unfolded its entire length, the width being doubled, with the center crease along the center of the table.

Then the half breadth that is folded should be turned back and the cloth will hang even.

Careless servants often gather up a cloth "anyhow," without taking the trouble to fold it up again in its own creases, and thus fresh ones are made.

A tablecloth will keep fresh looking as long again if it is always folded up in its own folds and put away until the next meal.

The French have a way of making even an inferior quality of table linen look well without the aid of starch.

When the napkins are washed and ready to be ironed they are dipped into boiling water and partially wrung out between cloths.

They are then rapidly ironed with as hot a flatiron as possible without burning them.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Best Way to Prepare Waffles—Keeping Cakes and Cookies—When Cooking Rice.

Waffles are much lighter if made with sour cream and the batter kept rather thin. To eat with them try chicken gravy or cinnamon and sugar mixed, or lumps of maple sugar melted down and served hot.

A woman who always has delicious little cakes and cookies on hand keeps a cut lemon or orange in the jar with them to give a "far away" and delightful flavor.

One cook always puts a very little lemon juice in the water in which she boils the rice. She claims that it keeps the rice white and the grains whole and separate. It may be worth trying.

If there are not peaches enough left from an opened can to go around mix them with orange pulp and a little sliced banana and the family will find them improved.

Creamed Cod in Potato Case. Boil and mash six good-sized potatoes, add one egg, a gill of milk, salt and pepper to taste and beat until light. Pick and scald a pound of salt cod, drain and scald again. Now press fish until dry. Put a large tablespoonful of butter in a frying pan and add two tablespoonfuls of flour. Mix and add a pint of milk. Stir till it thickens and add pepper to taste. Grease a pudding mold and line bottom and sides with the potato. Add the cod to the cream and fill the center. Cover the top with potato and bake a nice brown.

Vegetarian Beet Dish. Wash two beets and boil for one hour or till tender. Remove the skin and cut them in thin slices. Peel a medium sized onion, cut it in very thin slices and divide the slices into rings.

Melt one heaping tablespoonful of butter, fry the onion in it till cooked, add salt, pepper and paprika to taste, a few drops of vinegar, also the slices of beets.

Allow the latter to become hot. Put a border of hot mashed potatoes on a hot platter and serve the beets in the center. Serve very hot.

Finnan Haddle Fish Cakes. A new step and time saver for the busy housewife is the flaked finnan haddle that now comes ready to use for fish cakes, creaming or chowder. The fish is less smoky than when it comes whole. For the cakes mix the finnan haddle parboiled with an equal quantity of mashed potatoes, season with melted butter, salt and pepper, add a beaten egg and mold into cakes. Then fry.

Imitation Planked Fish. A fair imitation of planked fish may be made on a platter. Put the baked or broiled fish in the center of the dish and rim it with seasoned hot mashed potatoes dropped around by the tablespoonful in egg shaped portions, alternating with wedges of lemon and sprigs of parsley. A broiled steak on a platter may also imitate the chef's elaborate plank work. Rim the platter with hot seasoned mashed potatoes, slices of beets, little white boiled onions and fried mushrooms.

Stewed Celery. Use the left-over celery for the next day's luncheon by stewing it tender, mixing it with a white sauce and turning it over toast. The water in which the celery boils should be mixed with cream for the sauce. Or the water may be used to dip the toast in before the sauce is turned over it.

Sardine Sandwich. An easily made sandwich is composed of finely chopped sardines covered with salad leaves and moistened with the box oil.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven Catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only Constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address: F. J. Pale-Faced Women
You ladies, who have pale faces, sallow complexions, dark circles under eyes, drawn features and tired, worn-out expressions, you need a tonic. The tonic you need is Cardui, the woman's tonic. It is the best tonic for women, because its ingredients are specifically adapted for women's needs. They act on the womanly organs and help to give needed strength and vitality to the worn-out womanly frame. Cardui is a vegetable medicine. It contains no minerals, no iron, no potassium, no lime, no glycerin, no dangerous, or habit-forming drugs of any kind. It is perfectly harmless and safe, for young and old to use.

WORTH MOUNTAINS OF GOLD

During Change of Life, says Mrs. Chas. Barclay

Graniteville, Vt.—"I was passing through the Change of Life and suffered from nervousness and other annoying symptoms, and I can truly say that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has proved worth mountains of gold to me, as it restored my health and strength. I never forget to tell my friends what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me during this trying period. Complete restoration to health means so much to me that for the sake of other suffering women I am willing to make my trouble public so you may publish this letter."—MRS. CHAS. BARCLAY, R.F.D., Graniteville, Vt.

No other medicine for woman's ills has received such wide-spread and unqualified endorsement. No other medicine we know of has such a record of cures of female ills as has Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

For more than 30 years it has been curing female complaints such as inflammation, ulceration, local weaknesses, fibroid tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backache, indigestion and nervous prostration, and it is unequalled for carrying women safely through the period of change of life. It costs but little to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and, as Mrs. Barclay says, it is "worth mountains of gold" to suffering women.

The Question of John the Baptist

Sunday School Lesson for April 17, 1910
Specially Arranged for This Paper

LESSON TEXT.—Matthew 11:1-19. Memory verses, 4, 5.
GOLDEN TEXT.—"But the witness which I have is greater than that of John; for the works which the Father hath given me to accomplish, the very works that I do, bear witness of me, that the Father hath sent me."—John 1:36.

TIME.—Perhaps in the summer of A. D. 28, before our last lesson.

PLACE.—Jesus was somewhere in Galilee. According to Luke, he had just raised the son of the widow at Nain. John the Baptist was in prison at Castle Machærus, on the east of the Dead sea.

Suggestion and Practical Thought.

Christ's Answer to Honest Doubt.—Who was this doubter, this John the Baptist? He was the last man in the world one might have expected to entertain doubts regarding Jesus. He was his cousin according to the flesh, born only a short time before our Lord. He was brought up as a Nazarene like Samson and Samuel, and his pure and simple life gave him fine insight into spiritual matters.

II. The Doubt.—Vs. 1-3. Under what circumstances did John begin to doubt the Messiahship of Jesus? He had been cast into prison as a punishment for his bold condemnation of the sin of Herod Antipas. Herod had sent away his own wife and had persuaded his brother's wife to become his.

What was the sensible course that John took to rid himself of doubt? He sent directly to Jesus by "two of his disciples," who had remained faithful to him in all his trials. The message was, "Art thou he that should come," a common and well-understood description of the Messiah—"or do we look for another?"

Illustration.—"A weaver who had an elaborate piece of tapestry hung it, stretched upon the tenter-hooks, in his yard. That night it was stolen. A piece of tapestry was found by the officers which seemed to answer the description, but as the pattern was not unlike that of other fabrics, there must be definite proof. It was brought to the weaver's yard and there the perforations in the fabric were found to correspond precisely to the tenter-hooks. This was demonstration. In like manner if we place the life and character of Jesus over against all the prophecies of Messiah in Scripture, in the sacred books of the false religions, and in the universal longings of the race, we shall find that there is a perfect correspondence point by point."—David James Farrell, D. D. LL. D.

Christ's Answer to the Doubt.—Vs. 4-6. Luke tells us (Luke 7:21) that when John's message was delivered Christ proceeded at once to work many miracles of healing, including the cure of demons and of the blind. Not until he had done this did he give the messengers his reply.

Christ gave two credentials of his Messiahship; what was the first? His miracles, the undoubted fact that "the blind receive their sight, and the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, and the deaf hear, the dead are raised up."

With what significant exhortation did Jesus close his message to John? "Blessed is he who ever shall not be offended in me."

Christ's Estimate of the Honest Doubter.—Vs. 7-15. Why did our Lord, as soon as John's messengers departed, tell the crowd what he thought of John? Because they might think that John's question implied a weakness in him at which Christ would be offended. As John had exalted Jesus, so Jesus would exalt John.

Christ's Estimate of Dishonest Doubters.—Vs. 16-19. John was ready to receive Jesus, as soon as his mind could be convinced; that is, he was an honest doubter. Christ now turns severely upon a set of men, the Pharisees and lawyers (Luke 7:30), who showed plainly that they were dishonest doubters, being unwilling to receive the truth no matter how much evidence was given them.

To what does he compare them? To children playing in the market-places at marriages and funerals, trifling with the greatest things of life. Some are pretending to play the flute, like the hired musicians that headed the wedding processions followed by other children will not join in the piping or the walling at the right times to please them. These last, of course, are Jesus and John.

To what comforting conclusion did Christ come? That wisdom—the Truth of which he was an incarnation—is justified, approved, accepted, by her children, even though all the children of the evil one reject her. "Their hearts are in unison with the gospel harp; when Christ's minister strikes its golden strings their feelings vibrate to every touch; they can accompany him through its whole compass of sound, from the low notes of pious grief and penitential sorrow up to the high thrilling tones of enraptured gratitude, love, and praise."—Edward Payson.

DELAY IS DANGEROUS.

When the kidneys are sick, the whole body is weakened. Aches and pains and urinary ills come, and there is danger of diabetes and fatal Bright's disease. Doan's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys and impart strength to the whole system.

Mrs. M. A. Jenkins, Quanah, Texas, says: "I was so badly run down that the doctors told me there was no hope. I was so low my relatives were called in to see me before I died. Different parts of my body were badly swollen and I was told I had dropsy. Doan's Kidney Pills saved my life, and made it worth living."

WASTED A FORTUNE ON SKIN TROUBLE

"I began to have an itching over my whole body about seven years ago and this settled in my limb, from the knee to the toes. I went to see a great many physicians, a matter which cost me a fortune, and after I noticed that I did not get any relief that way, I went for three years to the hospital. But they were unable to help me there. I used all the medicines that I could see but became worse and worse. I had an inflammation which made me almost crazy with pain. When I showed my foot to my friends they would get really frightened. I did not know what to do. I was so sick and had become so nervous that I positively lost all hope.

"I had seen the advertisement of the Cuticura Remedies a great many times, but could not make up my mind to buy them, for I had already used so many medicines. Finally I did decide to use the Cuticura Remedies and I tell you that I was never so pleased as when I noticed that, after having used two sets of Cuticura Soap, Cuticura Ointment and Cuticura Pills, the entire inflammation had gone. I was completely cured. I should be only too glad if people with similar disease would come to me and find out the truth. I would only recommend them to use Cuticura. Mrs. Bertha Sachs, 1621 Second Ave., New York, N. Y., Aug. 20, 1909."

"Mrs. Bertha Sachs is my sister-in-law and I know well how she suffered and was cured by Cuticura Remedies after many other treatments failed. Morris Sachs, 321 E. 89th St., New York, N. Y., Secretary of Deutsch-Ostrower Unt.-Verrein, Kempner Hebrew Benevolent Society, etc."

Hopeless.
"Your store is no good, sir! I asked for lace curtains last week, and I couldn't get 'em."
"Indeed?"

"Yes. And I asked for silk socks yesterday, and I couldn't get 'em."
"That's strange."
"And today I asked for credit and can't even get that. Is this a regular store, or what?"

A Recommendation.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription

MAKES WEAK WOMEN STRONG, SICK WOMEN WELL.

For over 40 years this celebrated remedy has been making women's lives happier—healthier—safer.

Many thousands of women have testified to its wonderful effect.

The "Favorite Prescription" is

THE ONE REMEDY that can be depended upon when there is any derangement of the distinctly feminine organism. It purifies, heals, soothes, builds up.

THE ONE REMEDY which absolutely contains neither alcohol (which to most Women is rank poison) nor injurious or habit-forming drugs.

THE ONE REMEDY which is so perfect in its composition and so good in its curative effects as to warrant its makers in printing its every ingredient, as they do, on its outside wrapper, verifying the same under solemn oath.

It is needed when backaches make life miserable—when a sickening, dragging, bearing-down feeling makes work a weary agony—when sick headache, nervous irritability, loss of energy and appetite indicate derangement of the womanly organism. It is a purely vegetable compound, being a glyceric extract from native medicinal roots and can not injure in any condition of the female system.

Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets help the effect of all other medicines by keeping the liver active and the bowels open. They regulate and strengthen Stomach, Liver and Bowels. Easy to take as candy. At all dealers—get what you ask for. World's Dispensary Medical Association, Buffalo, N. Y.

Blessed Are They That Want Little. Those who want fewest things are nearest to the gods.—Diogenes.

Lewis' Single Binder cigar is never doped—only tobacco in its natural state.

One Conductor Who Was Cured.

Mr. Wilford Adams is his name, and he writes about it.—“Sometime ago I was confined to my bed with chronic rheumatism. I used two bottles of Foley's Kidney Remedy with good effect, and the third bottle put me on my feet and I resumed work as conductor on the Lexington, Ky., Street Railway. It gave me more relief than any medicine I had ever used, and it will do all you claim in cases of rheumatism.” Foley's Kidney Remedy cures rheumatism by eliminating the uric acid from the blood. For sale by all Druggists.
