

Howe's That

When taking over the Enterprise back in 2014, we made it very clear that the Howe's That column would not be about our family and our kids. But, Friday night will certainly be a big night for the Walker family. With Bob Walker being inducted into the Howe Hall of Honor, the entire Walker family will be on-hand. The chamber put out online voting from the community for all of the community awards and it so happens that this little online rag is nominated for Business of the Year. And to make the Irish Walker skin blush even more, the editor/sales person/photographer/ad creator/writer/office manager/ billing manager/collections manager/ and overall community lover has been nominated for Citizen of the Year. Just when you think you've found humility, you've lost it.

We at the chamber may not have anything to do with selecting those that are honored, but we are responsible for Founders Day which will happen on Saturday. We never know if it will be a grand success, such as last year's event. Or whether it will be a grand flop...like some of our "Back to School Blues" nights that we've had recently. The weather should be good, the band will be entertaining, and there will be lots of food and games. So get off your duff and have some dang fun by "fella-shippin" in the old downtown.

My wife said I need to grow up. I was speechless. It's hard to say anything when you have 45 gummy bears in your mouth.

Don't forget about the community garage sale at Memorial Park on Saturday from 8 am - noon. It is being hosted by Keep Howe Beautiful and by Save the Church. There are some leftover auction items there.

Hall of Honor

The chamber received 181 responses in the online voting which also included nominations for the category of Business of the Year, New Business of the Year, Norma J. Wallace Citizen of the Year, and Volunteer Organization of the Year. The winners of those categories will be announced at the Third Annual Howe Hall of Honor & Awards Banquet on May 5 at 6:30 pm.

Jean Norman has been nominated now twice for the Hall of Honor. She will go down in Howe history in much of the same regards as Mame Roberts - a true iconic figure among all of Howe's finest ladies. Her fingerprints of leadership are seen throughout the community from Ponderosa to Farmington. She was instrumental in forming the Howe Public Library and eventually the Howe Community Library. Her leadership helped breathe life into the former Howe First Christian Church, not once but twice. Norman was a key member in the foundation and the formation of the Howe Historical Society in the 1980s and 90s and renovated the church previously to house a museum. Serving most recently as president of the Save the Church organization, the group has raised enough money to transform one of Howe's oldest buildings into a beautiful wedding venue. The longtime school teacher has also been a longtime member and church leader at the First Baptist Church of Howe. She was named the 1992 Norma J. Wallace Citizen of the Year and 25 years later was nominated once again for the award.

Donal Gilstrap, first-time nominee, was most known for his position as Howe High School principal during three different decades. While also serving as elementary and middle school principal, it was his gentle, yet stern approach to leadership that won his respect among students and peers. Gilstrap grew up picking cotton in the 1940's and was not able to go to school until all of the cotton was picked, which was usually around November. His mother had a sixth-grade education and his dad received no education at all, but he was a hard oil field worker. That strength was a family trait as Gilstrap used his strength in football to earn himself a college degree at Hardin-Simmons. Post college, he spent four years in the Army including a free vacation to Korea. While stationed at Lawton, Oklahoma, he met the love of his life Barbara whom he married in 1959. Together, they had two children, Catherine and Patrick. He was recruited to Howe by six school board members who drove to Lubbock to recruit him.

James Chisum was nominated for

to be a leadoff (hitter) and I had to show it." Said Griffin.

The series with S&S was changed from a three-gamer to a one-gamer due to UIL's ruling of not allowing two games on Thursday night, which was to be played in S&S. With the ruling, the game was relocated to Gunter for Wednesday and the field, despite great efforts from Gunter ISD, was on the sticky side. That was evident as the field conditions played a role in the very first batter Howe faced. A bouncing ball was tapped back to pitcher Torrey Stubblefield who turned to throw to second baseman Madisyn Hargrove covering first base. However, Hargrove slipped and never made it to the bag and the runner was safe. At that point, things seemed to unravel for the Lady Bulldogs in the first inning as Stubblefield then fielded a bunt and quickly made an errant throw to first base to Hargrove covering which resulted in an error and runners at the corners with no outs. Howe then traded a run for an out on a grounder to Blackburn. The next batter hit a grounder just out of the reach of Hargrove which allowed the second run of the inning to come in.

"That was a big part of it." Said Martin. "We had to get something going. It was hard at first because we couldn't get anyone on base to get bunts going. We knew that the first and third baseman were playing deep and were not coming up. So we just went down the lines."

Consecutive bunts by Dani Ross and Kamryn Fulenchek loaded the bases with no one out. Emily Sanders then hit a sacrifice fly to center to bring home Griffin to tie the game at 2-2. Erin Blackburn followed with a single up the middle to drive in Ross and give Howe their first lead of the night at 3-2.

Beyond the first inning, starting pitcher Stubblefield began to settle in and faced only two over the minimum in the last five innings of the game. Overall, she struck out nine batters while walking two, allowing one earned run on three hits and went the distance by throwing 119 pitches. S&S starting pitcher Muller also threw a complete game, striking out eight, walking four and allowing four earned runs on seven hits. She threw 125 total pitches.

Howe trailed 2-0 after the first frame and couldn't get on top of the constant high fastball from S&S's lefty Jada Muller. The Lady Bulldogs popped out five times of their first nine outs in the game. Howe head coach Jeff Martin then changed the strategy in stride and forced the game into the S&S defense via an attack of bunts. The Lady Rams had trouble picking the ball off of the sticky surface and making the plays. In the top of the fourth, Peyton Streetman walked with one out, advanced to second on a wild pitch and scored on a bunt by Hargrove. The run cut the Lady Rams' lead in half at 2-1.

Howe's two insurance runs came in the top of the seventh inning when Blackburn led off with a single and was driven home on a sacrifice fly by Hargrove. Stubblefield then reached on a hard liner that was "too hot to handle." Kayla Anderson then rammed one off of the right centerfield wall to bring in Stubblefield for the game's final score of 5-2.

Stubblefield slammed the door on the Lady Rams with strikeout to end the game.

"I thought the kids showed a lot of grit tonight. We didn't play very well and left too many people on base." Said Martin. "It's about surviving and advancing."

The game was turned around in the top of the fourth inning thanks to a tremendous at bat by Payton Griffin. The tall power hitter worked a full count and fouled off several pitches to stay alive before drawing a leadoff walk.

Howe plays game one against Sunnyvale at Princeton on Thursday, May 4 at 6 pm. Game two and three (if needed) are on Friday starting at 5 pm.

"I was just thinking that I needed to get on to start the inning off. I had

Tyler Grisham drives the ball for a 2-run double in the first inning in Tuesday's final home game. Michelle Carney/Howe Enterprise

Howe (16-8) and Van Alstyne will play in a game tonight at Veterans Field in Sherman at Fairview Park to determine second and third place in District 10-3A. Howe, with a win in the game would play Whitesboro either Thursday or Friday. With a loss, the Bulldogs would face Pottsboro in the first round.

To be in this position, Howe had to beat Leonard on Tuesday night and they did so with a 13-9 final score on "Senior Night." The Bulldogs had to dig out of an early hole, however, after trailing 2-0 after the top of the first inning. But Howe's Tyler Grisham turned the game around with a 2-run double after three singles and a fielder's choice to start the game. Mason Riggs brought in Howe's fourth run of the inning on a sacrifice fly.

Leonard came back and scored a run in the second inning to close the gap to 4-3 and would score two more in the top of the third inning to recapture the lead at 5-4.

In the bottom of the fourth, David Dillard drove in Brice Krantz to tie the game at five and a batter later, Grisham followed with a bases loaded walk to give Howe the lead, 6-5. Riggs then singled to score Hartsfield. After a Dillard score from third, Jaden Matthews drove in Grisham on a liner to center to extend Howe's lead, 9-5.

Leonard scored on a double in the fifth, but Howe added two more runs on a Tanner Hartsfield triple. Dillard singled home Kyler Anderson who was courtesy running for the pitcher Hartsfield. After five, Howe led 12-6.

Leonard added a run in the sixth inning, however Howe answered back with a run Matthews scored when Brennan Ross reached on an error.

With a 13-7 lead, Howe went to Ross to finish the game on the mound in the final frame, however, the first three batters reached on a double and two walks. Riggs came on in relief and quickly got a strikeout and a pop out and appeared to get out of the inning. However, a bases loaded walk and an infield error gave Leonard two more runs before Riggs got a groundball to Hartsfield at third base that ended the game.

Tonight's game marks 25 years since Howe played at Veterans Field in a one-game playoff game with Farmersville. The #1 state ranked Bulldogs lost the game, 6-2, to finish the season at 27-3.

Hartsfield signs to play football at Hendrix College

Tanner Hartsfield signs his scholarship letter to play football at Hendrix College in Arkansas. Howe Enterprise photo

Johnny Burnett, Assistant Head Coach at Hendrix College in Arkansas made a trip down to see Howe's Tanner Hartsfield about playing football for them. A visit was scheduled with the college and the Hartsfield family. Knowing that other local players such as Levi Jones of Van Alstyne will also be going to Hendrix made the decision much easier.

"There's no words to describe the excitement that I'm having," said Hartsfield. "My dream was to play college football. I never really thought about how much work I was putting in."

Hartsfield's father John, who was a standout football player for Anna says that it was only in the last three years that he thought his son might play college football.

"About three years ago I saw the work ethic and the maturity and the muscles start to come in play," said John Hartsfield and echoed by Tanner's step mother Shanna Hartsfield.

Tanner's mother Leslie Modesitt had the same sentiments, "He's always had a drive from a young age. Pee wee football or no matter what age - he's went out there and played his hardest no matter what."

The common theme that everyone talks about when it comes to Hartsfield is his work ethic. Howe Head Football Coach Zack Hudson raved about his ability to out-work other people.

"His intensity that he plays with is just one of those things you can't replace and you can't teach. He's a little undersized for what he does, but he's one of those kids that come off the field and you feel the effects of him. That's what makes him valuable. There's no one that we play that doesn't respect number 70," said Hudson.

Hudson said that Hendrix is going to get a player that's not going to stop.

"The more you look at college athletes and even pro athletes, some of those undersized guys end up playing and playing for a long time because their motor doesn't stop and their love for the game doesn't stop and that's the kind of kid they're going to get."

Hartsfield, still only 17 years old is expected to still put on weight and eventually be a bigger kid.

"They're going to get a diamond in the rough, that's for sure," said Hudson.

Howe History Minute: Newspapers and Beautification
 From "90s...Then and Now; A Historical Cookbook", 1991

Over the years several newspapers have served Howe. The first was the Howe Herald published by the Hall brothers in the early 1900s (we have a 1907 issue of the Herald that was useful for information for this book, thanks to Waldine Stockton Vivrett). The subscription cost was $1.00 a year. The Howe Chronicle, published as early as 1917 was published by A.M. Ferguson (brother of Texas Governor James Ferguson) and his son, James E. Ferguson. The Howe Messenger was published in the 1930s and 1940s with Russell Bryant as the owner and editor. The Howe Enterprise was established in 1963 by Pop Sloan. Howe again had a newspaper after 20 years without one. Other owners of the Enterprise have been Bob Walker, Jim and Nita Echols and present day owners are Dale and Lana Rideout (Editors Note: Monte Walker, grandson of second owner Bob Walker, purchased the Enterprise in 2014).

In the 1930s through the energetic efforts of Miss Mame Roberts, Howe gained international fame with its campaign for civic attractiveness. Miss Roberts directed a drive of the Howe Garden Club that led to the creation of flower beds all over town.

Visitors to Howe were startled to see the lovely flowers, the well-kept yards, the neatly painted homes, all made possible by the efforts of Miss Roberts. Several of the nation's magazines, including the Reader's Digest, carried stories about Miss Mame and the wonders she worked in Howe.

In 1972 Howe celebrated its 100th birthday with a grand celebration. On May 8, 1986 Howe helped Texas celebrate its 150th birthday with a large Founders Day Celebration held in Downtown Howe the first Saturday in May. Since that year, the Howe Chamber of Commerce has continued the tradition of the Founders Day Celebration always held the first Saturday in May. Events include a Bike Rally sponsored by the Friends of the Library, arts and crafts, booths, entertainment, food and lots more. Come help us celebrate on May 4, 1991 as you visit with old friends and make new ones. (Editors's note: This year's Founders Day is May 6 and a bike rally is not planned).

Howe has continued to grow over the years, with a population near 2,500 as of the preliminary 1990 census. (Editor's note: Howe's population in 2016 is close to, if not greater than 3,000).

A new four-lane highway – the present Highway 75 – was opened in October 1967. The access road on either side of the highway was named Collins Freeway in honor of the W.W. Collins family. The old Highway 75 became State Highway 5, also known as Denny Street. With the opening of the new highway, new businesses opened up along it. Most of the old buildings are still downtown and most of them are occupied (Editor's note: In 2016, all of the remaining buildings in downtown have been restored and all are occupied. Since 1991, three historic buildings were either razed or torn down.) These buildings are so full of history there is no way to tell it all.

In 1964 Howe State Bank opened, the first bank in Howe since the 1930s. It is located at the corner of Haning and Denny. The first board of directors organizing the bank included: A.L. Geer, chairman; O.W. Lamb of Sherman; P.K. Carmichael of Dallas; Geer and Edwin E. Hayes of Anna; W.J. Trice fo Whitewright; and E.F. Arterbury, C.C. Jones, N.R. Langford, Jack Norman, Marshall Robertson, and L.S. Thompson, all of Howe. N.R. Langford was the contractor who constructed the original building. Several additions have been made to the bank as it has grown in size. At the present time (in 1991) Edwin E. Hayes is the chairman of the board of directors and James J. Shannon is the bank president.

The newest edition to Founders Day will be the Interurban Kid Train sponsored by Marla Butler of Fairway Independent Mortgage. The train will run a round trip route on the old 1940s Interurban route from the First Baptist Church breezeway to O'Connell Street.

This year, the Howe High School Colorguard and Winterguard will perform in the 3 pm hour on Haning Street stretching from Abby's Restaurant to Gabriela's Mexican Cocina.

"With a united effort we can make the place in which we live clean, wholesome, attractive. We can make the crowded city dweller homesick to come back to us and real living. We can bring new life, new business, new beauty, to the little towns." - Mame Roberts

With God, it's all about our attitude

Dr. Billy Holland

We know how important it is to have a good attitude and the correct motives especially when it comes to approaching God. Here are two Bible stories that expose the human conscience and identify why some people seem to overlook what is really important in their quest for satisfaction and security. Our first example is found in Luke chapter 18 and is about a wealthy businessman that has a meeting with Jesus. Verse 18 says, "And a certain ruler asked Him, saying, Good Master, what shall I do to inherit eternal life?" It's easy to read over this and not discern exactly what he was asking. It seems "eternal life" is what everyone is always interested in, and the easy version of salvation has given the masses just enough false security to believe that all we need to do is just understand the story of Calvary and everything will be all right. We notice at the end of this conversation that Jesus perceived the pride and greed in this man's heart and knew that He needed to become blunt with what true discipleship is all about. When Jesus explained that salvation was more about personal relationship than keeping a list of rules, the man weighed the cost against the scale of his love for materialism and decided that the price was too steep. Tragically, this is a very common reaction among those who are faced with yielding their independence. Allow me to say, we will never enjoy spiritual fulfillment while living in the bondage of selfishness and arrogance. Of course, we can settle for a socially acceptable religious facade, but again, God knows the intentions of our heart.

Our second story is found in Luke chapter 19 and is about a man named Zacchaeus. This man was also a wealthy leader in his community, but notice closely what he was seeking when Jesus came into his neighborhood. Verse 3 says, "And he sought to see who Jesus was; and he could not for the crowd, because he was a short man." The first man wanted to know how to secure a place in heaven, but Zacchaeus only wanted to know about the person of Jesus! He did not ask about a point system, political favors or how to earn enough gold stars, he was sincerely focused on God. Likewise, we should remember the next life is not about streets of gold but rather about who sits on the throne. Heaven is not a fire insurance policy, but the glorious honor of being with the one who rescued us because He loves us and wants to be with us forever.

The first man walked away depressed because he wanted an easy way to guarantee a good seat in the comforts and glories of splendor. He represents those who are satisfied with just going through the motions in order to satisfy a requirement. Zacchaeus on the other hand, represents those who desire to worship God in Spirit and truth and are willing to sacrifice their will. These individuals are filled with the Spirit of God and will be delighted to shout His praises because they have a clear conscience and a clean heart! There is never a problem so devastating they cannot sing, "It is well with my soul" and there will never be a night so dark they cannot trust the light of Christ to be a light unto their path. Whether in abundance or lack, on top of the mountain or in the valley of the shadow of death, there is a song of triumph on their lips and the oil of gladness within their souls! All of this is evident not because they have gathered empires of wealth and power, or have been recognized and respected in the halls of man's admiration, but because they simply wanted to know who Jesus is. If anyone is just using His grace as a free reservation for heaven, they will miss the point of salvation, but if we love God just for who He is, we are given the privilege to live in the joys of His presence now and forever.

Pullin and 400 Trademarks on Glass with Alphabetical Index by Arthur G. Peterson. I recently received a telephone call from a friend who asked me a question about a piece of glass he owns. I asked him for more details and what he knew about the piece. He replied, "I don't know anything about it. The only thing I know about glass is that bottled beer tastes better than canned beer." Often I, too, am stumped when dealing with unmarked glass. And now after talking with my friend, at least I know the best way to drink beer.

Q. This 3 1/2" glass basket has a "C" in a diamond on the bottom. It is a smoky color. Who made it? Value?

A. Your basket was made by the Cambridge Glass Company, Cambridge, Ohio. The company was incorporated in 1901. The Cambridge area was a good glass making location because of the abundant supply of natural gas and silica sand. During its production years, more than 5,000 molds were used to create the Cambridge line of patterns. Your amber basket weave patterned piece was made between 1920 and 1954 when the plant closed. It is worth about $40-45.

Collecting glass is made even more difficult because so many pieces are not marked. This makes them harder to find in books and on the Internet because the novice glass collector does not have the important clues of where to start. I have two reference books about marks on glass that I recommend: Glass Signatures, Trademarks, and Trade Names from the 17th to the 20th Century by Anne Geffken

Just a personal note: Howe Mercantile opened for business two years ago on April 20. It has been a joyous experience for me. I have made so many friends in this lovely small community and feel right at home. Thank you for shopping with us and helping us sustain this small-town business. SHOP LOCAL is so important to the merchants and restaurants in downtown Howe.

Dr. Georgia Caraway, former director of the Denton County Museums for 14 years, and her friends opened the Howe Mercantile at 107 East Haning. Store hours are Thursday through Saturday noon until 8 p.m. She has written five Denton history books. She hopes her next book will be the history of Howe. If anyone has photos that she can copy, please bring them to Howe Mercantile.

Much Love Motors moves into former Frantz building on Highway 75

Travelers entering Howe from the southbound exit ramp will now see a used car dealership at the location formerly occupied by Frantz Repair Service.

Tim Klement said his first choice to open his owner-financed used car sales business was in Van Alstyne on the northwest corner at the Van Alstyne Parkway and US Highway 75 intersection. However, he was never able to satisfy the needs of the City of Van Alstyne and began to look elsewhere. With the recent and sudden passing of Kevin Frantz, who owned Frantz Repair Service, it left a vacancy at the location on the near the northwest corner of the intersection of US Highway 75 and Haning Street.

Klement said that the City of Howe was a much different experience than he previously had and was complimentary of the city secretary Joy Stevens.

Klement will operate the business with he being the only employee of the business on location.

Retirement problems

Working people frequently ask retired people what we do to make our days interesting. Well, for example, the other day I went downtown to go to the news stand for the Wall Street Journal so I could track my investments. I was only in there for about five minutes. When I came out, there was a cop writing out a parking ticket. I said to him, Come on, man, don't you have anything better to do than write a retired person a ticket? Why aren't you out chasing crooks or child molesters... that's out of your league, obviously!!! He ignored me and continued writing the ticket. I called him a' Nazi.' He glared at me and wrote another ticket for having worn tires. So I called him 'Barney Fife'. He finished the second ticket and put it on the windshield with the first. Then he wrote a third ticket. This went on for about 20 minutes. The more I abused him, the more tickets he wrote. Personally, I didn't care....

I came downtown on the bus. The car that he was putting tickets on had a bumper sticker that said, "Hillary '16."

I try to have a little fun each day now that I'm retired. It's important to my health.

Texas History Minute

Dr. Ken Bridges

Dr. Bridges is a Texas native, writer, and history professor. He can be reached at drkenbridges@gmail.com.

Great storytelling is an honored tradition across the South and the Southwest. Texas, with its long history of engaging characters and adventures, has produced many tales to tell. Perhaps one of the most respected storytellers was writer and professor J. Frank Dobie.

Born James Frank Dobie on September 26, 1888, a love of literature and the open prairie was instilled in him from birth. The family lived on a modest ranch in Live Oak County in South Texas. Dobie was the oldest of six children, and he worked the ranch with his family from a young age. In the evenings, after the day's chores had been completed, his father read to him and the other children from the family Bible while his mother read classic works of literature to them.

In order to finish high school, Dobie moved in with his grandparents in nearby Alice in 1904. After his 1906 graduation, he enrolled at Southwestern University in Georgetown. Armed with an education, life moved quickly for Dobie. After earning his bachelors degree, he began writing for a number of newspapers for a year before accepting a teaching position in 1911. Two years later, he left for Columbia University in New York City to pursue a masters degree in English. He returned to Texas in 1914 and began teaching at the University of Texas.

Dobie enlisted in the army as the United States entered World War I in 1917. After serving in the artillery for two years, he returned to the university in 1919. After his military experiences, he began expressing himself more with the written word and began publishing stories and studies of aspects of folklore in 1919. He joined the Texas Folklore Society to preserve folk tales and stories of the unique culture of the Southwest, rising to secretary of the organization by 1922.

His first major work was a short, clever booklet titled Weather Wisdom of the Texas-Mexican Border in 1923, noting how rain is never a subject far from the thoughts of Texas ranchers and farmers. The tome was filled with stories of how watching different animals can foretell the weather as well as his own stories of growing up in South Texas before closing with the warning, "Be it remembered, all Texans have a saying, 'In dry weather all signs fail.'"

Dobie also played a role in preventing longhorn cattle from disappearing. He had been part of the university for several years when students chose the longhorn as the mascot in 1917. However, longhorns had fallen out of favor with ranchers and steadily fewer were being bred. Dobie grew concerned about the deteriorating numbers of the longhorn, and he started writing about them in 1920. He persuaded several ranchers and benefactors to buy a number of longhorns to stock at state parks starting in the 1920s and 1930s. As a result, more attention began to be brought to the iconic creatures, and their reputation as a symbol of Texas and reputation as livestock steadily increased.

He wrote on his most famous works, the award-winning Coronado's Children, in 1930. The book amassed tales of treasure-hunters and lost treasures. Ultimately, Dobie would publish more than 20 books in his lifetime.

By 1939, he had a weekly newspaper column in which he not only discussed Texas culture but railed against the political injustices of the day. The state legislature became a frequent target of his barbs. He openly called for integrating the University of Texas in the early 1940s, leading him to clash with numerous state leaders. His fame grew to where he was invited to teach American History at Cambridge University during World War II. In 1944, while still overseas, he angrily protested the firing of a fellow UT professor for his liberal views, leading to his own dismissal by 1947.

Later in his life, a new generation of Texas leaders came to appreciate Dobie's work and influence. On September 14, 1964, President Lyndon B. Johnson awarded the Presidential Medal of Freedom to Dobie in honor of his long career. The award from a fellow Texan was a great affirmation of his writing and the controversial stands he had taken throughout his life. The ailing Dobie died four days later. A large crowd gathered for his funeral, which was held on the University of Texas campus.

Dobie was honored after his death. A number of books have been written about him. A post office in San Antonio was named for him as well as the Dobie Center at the University of Texas. Dobie High School opened in Houston in 1968 as well as other schools named for the famed writer.

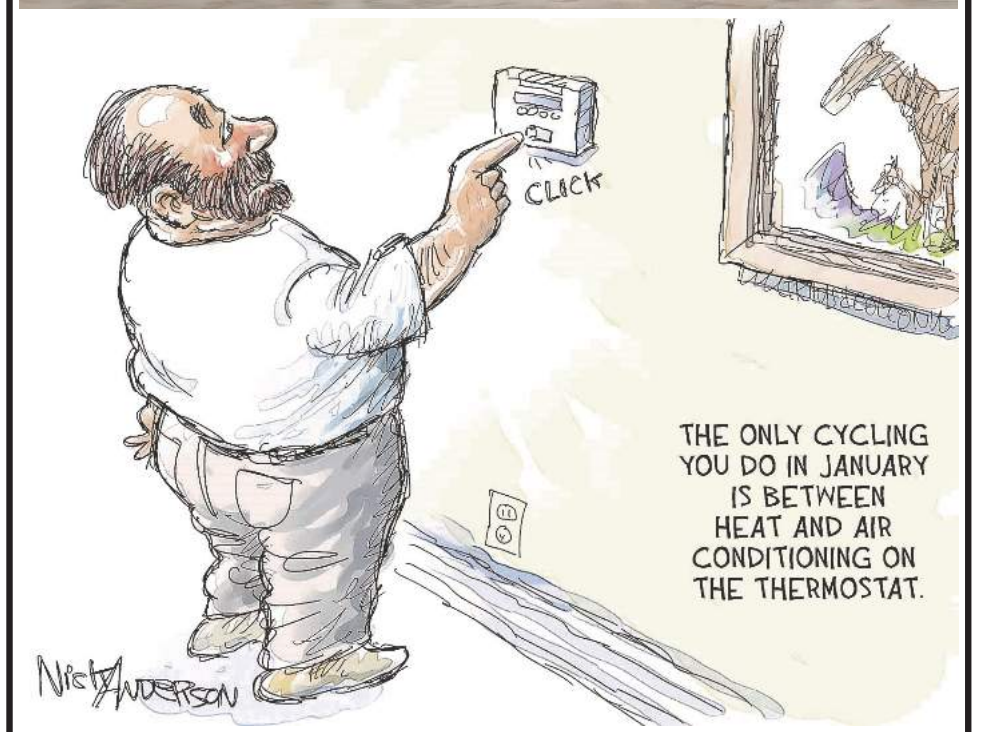

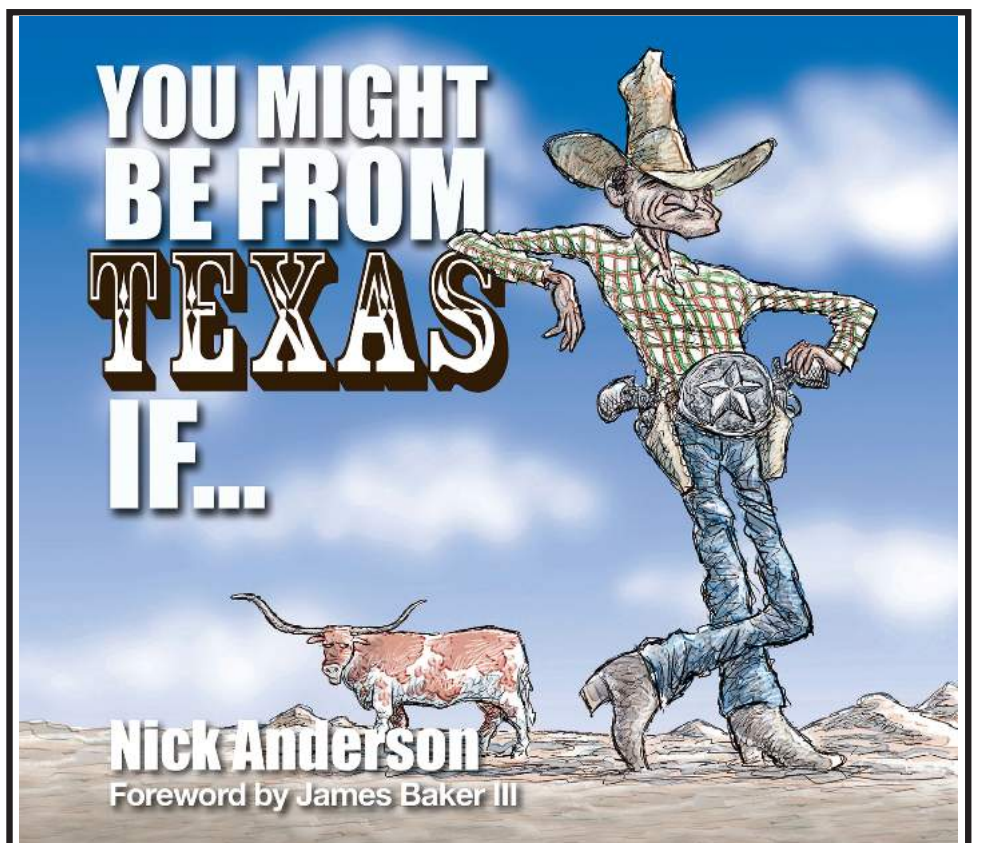

Howe has two Phi Kappa Phi

Dustin Williams and Michaela Blesdoe of Howe were initiated at Texas A&M University-Commerce into the Honor Society of Phi Kappa Phi, the nation's oldest and most selective all-discipline collegiate honor society.

These residents are among approximately 30,000 students, faculty, professional staff and alumni to be initiated into Phi Kappa Phi each year. Membership is by invitation only and requires nomination and approval by a chapter. Only the top 10 percent of seniors and 7.5 percent of juniors are eligible for membership. Graduate students in the top 10 percent of the number of candidates for graduate degrees may also qualify, as do faculty, professional staff and alumni who have achieved scholarly distinction.

Phi Kappa Phi was founded in 1897 under the leadership of Marcus L. Urann who had a desire to create a different kind of honor society: one that recognized excellence in all academic disciplines. Today, the Society has chapters on more than 300 campuses in the United States and the Philippines. Its mission is "To recognize and promote academic excellence in all fields of higher education and to engage the community of scholars in service to others."

HOWE'S THAT ?

About this Daylit Saving Time Bit —

Come April 30, Sunday, and, officially, according to the Uniform Time Act passed by Congress, everything is supposed to take place an hour earlier.

Though it all sounds confusing its real simple if you understand it. And, if you understand it, wish you would explain to us.

According to Congress, you're supposed to change the clock(s) at 2 a.m. Sunday. Why they chose this particular hour, we'll never know; same goes for the Act too.

If you set your alarm in order to do this officially, be sure and set it before 2 a.m. If you set it for five minutes after two you're already an hour and five late (?)

For most clocks, the change won't be terribly complicated, but it takes an engineer to change one of those time and temperature contraptions. (The thermometers are not to be changed. However, it wouldn't be a bad idea to advance them say, 20 degrees in winter and reverse the procedure in summer).

If you go to bed Saturday night at 8 o'clock and arise the next morning at 8, that's only 11 hours' sleep.

Anyway, at 2 a.m. Sunday, within one second, it will be 3 a.m. How time does fly!

Prospects for the honors do not have to be members of the chamber, it was pointed out.

The banquet, to be held in June, will be catered, members voted.

In other business, the directors voted to charter the local Boy Scout Troop, and discussed possible locations for a new baseball field, for Little League, Pee Wee League, Pony League, and possibly large enough to accommodate a man's team.

Howe's that...

WHAT KIND OF LEADERS does Howe want? People are elected to office on city council or school board. Then we begin to hear criticism. Sometimes the members of council or school board are even called dishonest or self-serving, interested in being in such a position for what it can get them in prestige, power or "kickbacks."

Good, honest men and women in the town see the abuse heaped on these elected officials and they say, "I don't want to run for office. I don't want to get involved if that's what will happen to me." Perhaps they have some good ideas or experience to contribute to the town, but they are discouraged by the negative attitudes of some folks.

Not all the folks in Howe are negative. Lots of them encourage the members of council and school board by giving comments or suggestions on problems. Unfortunately, the negative are often the most vocal.

I was told recently that all politicians are crooks. Now, I can believe that some politicians are dishonest, but not all. I can also see greater temptations to those who hold political office in large cities or in state or federal government. A lot more money goes through these hands than in the town of Howe. But I would not even call of the "larger" politicians dishonest. Surely there are some people elected to office who truly want to help their communities, state or country.

I have attended school board meetings and city council meetings for 4 1/2 years in Howe. I have read through financial reports, seen copies of audits, and looked at other records. I have not always agreed with everything said or done by these political bodies, but I feel these men and women who have and are serving have always tried to act in a way that is best for the Howe school district or the city of Howe.

I would like to go on record as saying that if anyone has any proof of wrongdoing by any elected official (city, school, state or federal), I would like the opportunity to get the "scoop." That type of information is NEWS and it should be told to everyone (not just a few at the local cafe, post office or street corner).

VOTE Saturday, May 1, in the Democrat or Republican primary election. A large number of candidates are running for the office of governor, Lt. governor, attorney general, etc. for the State of Texas in the Democrat Primary. The General Election will be in November. Please remember to take time to vote in the primary (you may vote in only one - either Democrat or Republican according to your party affiliation).

I HAVE HEARD of getting ahead of yourself, but the typesetter and/or editor of the Van Alstyne Leader is really future minded. Last week's edition (April 22) carried the date "Sept. 22, 1982" on all eight pages.

For some reason I have trouble typing "April." I keep getting it as "Arpil." But I never spelled it "Sept.!"

Historical Marker Set For Elm Grove Cemetery

On Sunday, May 2, 1982, at 2 p.m. Mrs. Elisabeth R. Pink, President of the Collin County Historical Society, will present a Texas Historical Marker to the Elm Grove Cemetery which is located on FM 2862 in Westminister Collin County, Texas. The cemetery is located on the John Roland Survey, a 1920 acre Republic of Texas Land Grant, which was awarded to the heirs of John Roland, a casualty of the Texas war for independence from Mexico in 1836. The marker commemorates the donation of land for the cemetery by the brother of John Roland, Ezekial Roland, who was the first person buried in the cemetery in 1859. Research and background information was provided to the Texas Historical Commission in Austin by Mrs. Tommie R. Ulrich and Scott Ulrich, both of Richardson, and Mrs. Maggie D. Hodge of Aritur City, Texas.

Presiding as Master of Ceremonies at the dedication service will be Anthony Geer of Anna, Texas. Representing the Elm Grove Cemetery will be Mr. Quincy Edwards of Prosper. Speakers at the service will be Mrs. Elisabeth R. Pink of Frisco. Mrs. Evelyn Armstrong of Dallas, Fourth Vice President General of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas in Dallas. Mrs. Armstrong will be representing the James Butler Bonham Chapter of the Daughters of the Republic of Texas, also of Dallas.

According to deeds on file in the Collin County Courthouse and records in the Texas Archives of the General Land Office in Austin, Elm Grove Cemetery is located on a Republic of Texas bounty land grant which was awarded to family members by Anson Jones, President of the Republic of Texas. The land was granted on December 3, 1845, in recognition of the military service of John Roland. Roland's mother, Martha Roland Arrington, and his two brothers, Ezekial and Sherrod, divided the land. The cemetery is located on Ezekial's share of the land and the cemetery records show he was the first person buried there in 1859. Seven Points Community, later named Westminister, was established nearby in the 1860's. In 1895, the Texas Methodist Conference met at Sulphur Bluff, Texas, where they founded an early Methodist school in Westminister named Westminister College. In the early 1900's the school was bought by the Baptists and became known as Westminister Baptist Academy. The Westminister College still functions today in Tehuacana, Texas, as a branch of Southwestern University of Georgetown, Texas. The Baptist Academy was later sold to the Westminister Baptist Church which is now located on the site of the former academy.

Elm Grove Cemetery now contains over 1750 gravesites. It has served the area for 123 years and is now under the care of the Elm Grove Cemetery Association.

Summer Sports News

Saturday, April 24, was the first work day for the coming baseball and softball season. During the week, city crews dumped 20 yards of sand on the softball field and the infield was tilled by Rod Naquin. The sand was spread to make the field more playable; the fence was repaired and reinforced; and the lights were replaced. Plans are in the works to run water lines to both fields at the city park before the season begins.

Those who worked so hard to improve playing conditions at the softball field were Andy Kizer, Jack Floodas, Mark Keene, Vince Hash, Glenn Van Blaricom, Gary Engel, and Robert Chestnut. The girls who play softball will appreciate all the work on their field. Thanks to all of the men who gave up their Saturday to help and to Wes Lankford who picked up lumber and fencing materials in Sherman.

The next work day is set for Saturday, May 1, from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. There are a few things to finish at the softball field, but the main focus will be Ferguson Field this week. Please call Gary Engel, Mark Keene or Gerald Hickox if you are able to help.

Practice schedules have been mailed to all the coaches and practices will begin after May 1. Jerseys and caps have been ordered from Pyland's Shoestring. It looks as if this season will be a good one, but the Sports League needs everyone's help to insure a successful season. Volunteer your time!

Use of Windmills For Electricity

Using windmills to generate electricity is a rather recent application of wind power, when you consider that windmills have been used to do man's work for more than 5000 years, reports Dr. Bill Cooper of Oklahoma State University. A number of people in the southwest can remember when windmills dotted the western skies generating electricity for farms. Dr. Cooper reports that OSU's Engineering Extension continues to receive requests for reports dealing with windmill generation of electric power. Some of these reports date back to the early 1930's Cooper noted. He also noted that the homes and farms using wind power to generate electricity in the 1930 time period did not have the large power demands that our modern homes of today require.

As a help to persons interested in the subject of wind electric power, Dr. P.M. Moretti of the OSU Department of Mechanical and Aerospace Engineering has written an article answering some of the most frequently asked questions. His article also gives the names and addresses of a number of manufacturers of wind electric systems. The article concludes with a list of references for further study, says Dr. Cooper. For a free copy of this informative article send a self-addressed and stamped envelope to Wind Energy, OSU Office of Engineering Extension, 512 EN, Stillwater, OK 74078.

Energy Saving Tips

Spring has arrived and it may be time for some simple spring cleaning and maintenance to protect your home from soaring summer temperatures and utility bills. The following low-cost tips form the Texas Energy Extension Service will help you prepare now for the summer months ahead. You should start your spring cleaning by checking the exterior of your house for winter damage. This includes checking windows and doors for air leaks and the walls for any cracks or peeling paint. In addition, screens should be cleaned and carefully checked for rips and tears that may need patching or replacing. Inside: dust room fans, clean drapes and blinds, change the filter in your air conditioner and have the unit tuned up. Outside your home, plant trees, shrubs or vines to shade your home and install solar screens, awning or shutters to block radiant heat. For more information on keeping cooling costs low, call the Texas Energy Hotline at 1-800-643-SAVE. This is a public service program of the Governor's Energy Office.

Scholarship

Grayson County Farmers Union is offering a $250 scholarship to a Grayson County student. He's Only A Boy

Please, don't curse the boy down there. He's only a boy, you know, and means a lot to me.

I did not raise my son, sports fan, for you to call him names. He may not be a super star, but it's a little league (junior high or high school) game.

Please, don't curse the boys down there. They do the best they can. They never tried to lose a game. They're boys ... and you're a man.

The game belongs to them, you see, and you are just a guest. They do not need a fan like you. They need the very best.

If you have nothing nice to say, please, leave the boys alone. And if you can't enjoy the game, why don't you stay at home.

So, please don't curse those boys down there. Each one's his parents' son. And win or lose or tie, you see, to us they're NUMBER ONE!!

by Lana Rideout

About two years, former Howe School Superintendent Dr. Wayne King was severely injured in a farming accident. He spent many long months in the hospital, part of that time gravely ill. He has recovered and is now enjoying an active lifestyle.

Last Sunday afternoon, Dr. King was honored by Howe ISD at which time the Howe High School Library was named in his honor.

He commented on how honored he feels to have the library bearing his name. He added that he feels even more blessed by the care and concern offered to him by the Howe Community during his hospital stay and recovery from his accident.

He said that almost everyone he saw during that time was from Howe. He had not realized that so many Howe residents cared so much to offer their prayers, visits, and assistance during that difficult time in his life.

From my own experience, I know how comforting it is to hear about friends and acquaintances offering prayers to God for me. Howe residents are blessed to live in such a caring community.

HOWE ISD

Did the board pay too much for the storage building?

by Lana Rideout

At the April 19 board meeting, Jimmy Don McMillion, Howe builder contractor for 23 years, told the school board they are paying too much for construction of a 40' x 40' storage building.

At the March meeting the board awarded the contract to Mart, Inc. with bids of $271,000 for the concession stand and $74,880 for the storage building.

McMillion said he did not bid because he did not see the newspaper notice. He told the board that he estimates a storage building of this type should cost about $20 per square foot, making the cost around $32,000. Board president Roger Luttrell told McMillion that the board received two bids and the bid from Mart was the cheapest and best bid.

McMillion asked why no one on the board checked to see what it should cost to construct the storage building. Board member Leonard Huntsman told McMillion he wished that McMillion had put in a bid. Luttrell added that the team the district is using is the same one that they used in building the new high school.

McMillion had applied for a place on the agenda to discuss the building projects. He was allowed to discuss the matter with the board. Several others in the audience wished to speak about "wasteful spending." They were not allowed to speak since the board cannot discuss items not posted on the agenda. The board does take comments from the audience from those who sign up before the meeting starts.

Following a closed session, the board approved teacher contracts for Shellie Crane and Jack Wiley as well as approving Clay Wilson as the new assistant superintendent.

The board acknowledged the resignations of Pamela Lee and Joe Reinhard.

In other business, the board:

*Voted to offer speech/health in 8th grade for high school credit. Due to new high school requirements, students who take these classes in middle school will be able to participate in more electives in high school. Some students participate in band, athletics, and ag. It is difficult to fit them in with the additional requirements. No new teacher(s) will be hired as high school teachers will teach at the middle school for one period a day.

*Voted to hire Betty Gouard to replace Francis Rayburn as election clerk for the May 12 board election.

*Approved financial reports. Supt. Kevin Wilson noted that the district currently has $3 million cash available in the various accounts.

HOWE HIGH SCHOOL LIBRARY

Named in honor of former Supt. King

by Lana Rideout

In 1952, Wayne King graduated from Collinsville High School, one of two boys in the class. At that time he did not have a plan for his future, but within a year he had decided to go to college.

His grandmother gave him, her oldest grandson, the $250 he needed for his college dorm and so began his journey on the road of a long distinguished career in education. Over the years he taught and served in administration in several school districts. He served as the superintendent of Howe ISD from 1991-2001.

During his tenure at Howe, the district growth called for the construction of a new high school. For the leadership during those years, the Howe School Board decided to honor him by naming the Howe High Library in his honor.

On Sunday, April 22, a dedication ceremony was held at the HHS Library with current and former employees in attendance. Many of Dr. King's family members were also present as were community members and local students.

Board president Roger Luttrell presented a plaque to Dr. King. In addition, Robin McCoy, acting on behalf of State Senator Craig Estes, presented King with a Texa flag that had flown over the State Capitol. HHS senior Sterling Debner presented King with a Certificate of Recognition from State Representative Larry Phillips.

Luttrell said, "Dr. King stands for and presents himself with unquestioned integrity," adding that he feels privileged "to have had (him) as a superintendent, a member of the community, and a friend."

King said, "I accept this honor conditionally. It is not something I caused to happen. I may have facilitated it, but for those on the board and the staff I worked with; I accept it on behalf of all on the board and the employees."

Calling all kids for a new after school program!

by Cassie Henderson

Starting in April, the Howe Community Library will be sponsoring a free program called the A.S.K. Club (After School Kids). The program is designed to broaden children's horizons in areas such as theatre, science, computers, art, nature, and various others. The programs will be run by students from the Grayson County 4-H Sportfishing Club and the HHS chapter of the National Honors Society.

These activities will encourage kids to become interested in many subjects and involved in different events.

The Club will meet on Tuesday afternoons from 3:15 to 4 pm at the Howe Community Library. The theme for the first series of activities will be art. Activities will include decorating masks, painting, designing bookmarks, creating sculptures, and printing. Sessions began on Tuesday, April 24 and continue through May 22. The program will resume in September with a theatre theme.

The ASK Club is open to all elementary age children (ages 4-11). For more information, call the library at 903-532-5519.
