

Howe's That

Back in 2013, some old Howe Enterprise and Howe Messenger newspapers were found inside the old First Christian Church as part of a Howe historical collection. The Howe Messenger predated the Enterprise and was in circulation from around 1924 to the mid-1940s. Most of the 1940-42 editions were in the old church laying on a table in the wide open air. Mice had destroyed a few of the pages of Howe's history, but quite a few were salvaged. I was fortunate enough to receive a grant for the University of North Texas to digitally scan each edition (as well as the 1963-1979 Howe Enterprise collection that was found). It might have taken four years, but those editions have now been scanned and are available to the world to see. The 1940s papers were in such bad shape that I'm amazed that they were able to pull them apart from each other and scan them in their entirety. But the amazing staff at the Denton college saved Howe's history - one page at a time.

It's been interesting to read the old newspapers about our city and the things that were happening some 77 years ago in our fine town. For instance, Miss Mame Roberts one had a weekly column "Know Your Neighbor" in which she spotlighted a citizen each week so that people could learn more about each other. The subtitle to each week's article read:

"If I knew you and you knew me --
If both could clearly see.
And with an inner sight divine
The meaning of your heart and mine,
I'm sure we would differ less,
And clasp our hands in friendliness."

One can learn so much though by just taking a stroll through town some 77 years ago.

EXITING HOWE HIGH SCHOOL STAFF

Howe ISD did what many wanted them to do back in 2013 and hired an athletic director who could take the varsity football program to an elite level. After a year of letting the dust settle, Zack Hudson constructed without question the greatest coaching staff in the history of the athletic program in Howe. But with great success (eight playoff games in three seasons), other schools have come searching for the talented coaches Hudson had assembled. But the fifth year Howe head varsity football coach says that he's hired yet another staff that may even be more impressive than the one that just left.

From the outside looking in, it appears that there could be issues with keeping coaches in Howe, but when taking the view from 30,000 feet, Dale West, the football offensive coordinator who brought his 1950s style slot-t run game that eventually obliterated the Howe rushing record book, left for an upgraded position. He accepted the athletic director position and head football coaching position at Collinsville. West eventually hired Josh Rollins and Richard Principal Teafatiller, members of the school board, administration, teachers, parents, friends, and fellow graduates, it is an honor to speak to all of you today as your valedictorian. Graduates, after 4 long years, we are finally finished with this thing called High School. In the wise words of Drake, we "started from the bottom now we're here." I think we all still remember literally being at the bottom of the totem pole, coming into high school afraid that Freshman Friday was real and that if we went into the bathroom alone we would end up head-first in a trash can. Soon, we found out that high school isn't like the movies.

Howe Athletic Director Zack Hudson says unforeseen circumstances were the reason for the coaching shakeup in Howe.

new baby in the family. Just last week, Hudson was informed by head varsity basketball coach Tim Short that he'd be leaving to go back to Pottsville where he spent the majority of his coaching career. Short said that it also was for family reasons with his mother being in her 80s in Pottsville.

Hudson is not just the football coach, but also the athletic director, therefore, he says it's not just football coaches he looks to stockpile. He feels he has assembled as good of a coaching staff for a small Texas school one could imagine.

With all of the change and so many coaches leaving Howe, rumors spread like wildfire that Hudson must be hard to work for.

"Absolutely I'm hard to work for." said Hudson. "That's not the case here why we had so much turnover, but I do have high expectations of coaches. I'm not going to settle for someone who goes out there with kids and just watches them. So there are going to be frustrations with people that I'm going to run into from time to time. I don't hire coaches to be babysitters. I want to hire coaches that have high expectations for our kids and will coach our kids and teach our kids."

Hudson says it was mostly circumstances unrelated to coaching entirely that led to the shake up.

Hudson was referring in part to Heath Grant having a baby that needs special care. Grant is seeking a teaching position only to have more family time.

"I like having Coach Grant around." said Hudson. "I like him around so right now, he's going to be at our middle school which gives them a really good coach."

"Dale (West) got a head coaching job. That's a no-brainer for him to take. Then we had one or two guys that did have personality differences, but then there were a lot of circumstances not related to coaching."

Hudson also said that he knew he'd be losing Rhoten. "When I hired him two years ago, I knew this was going to be his last year. He wanted to see his daughter graduate from here. He didn't have to move from his house when we hired him and me and him kind of became friends when he was in Whitewright. His family wanted to be here and it was an easy choice, but I knew that he was gone the minute I hired him."

Short, the varsity basketball coach turned in his resignation last Monday and told the Enterprise, "I've really enjoyed my time at Howe. It's a wonderful school district. Coach Hudson and Kevin Dale West (far left coach) watches as Heath Grant hands off to Wes Rhoten to simulate a proper handoff in a 2015 summer camp.

Wilson are probably the best administrators I've worked for. The high school faculty is fantastic, some of the best teachers I've worked with in 37 years of teaching. I've made friendships that I hope will last a lifetime but probably the most important group of people I'll miss are the young men and ladies' lives that I've had an opportunity to be a part of for a few short years, they're a great group, I'm going to miss them. I'm very appreciative of Howe ISD to allow me to be a part of the coaching staff and faculty for the past few years."

Hudson is now tasked with finding a varsity basketball coach late in the hiring season. He says that he feels basketball should get the same attention as other sports.

"Coach Short did a great job. He coached his tail off from the beginning to the end and that's all you can ask for." said Hudson. "As long as we're getting better and kids are learning, I'm good. I'm one of these coaches that wants to be good at every sport. That's my expectation."

With all of the departures, Hudson says that he's assembled as good of a coaching staff as a small school could do. With the success that the program was had in the last three years, the number of applicants for jobs increased from around five to around 25.

One of those applicants was Paul Frye who was a member of the 2004 state championship football staff at Tyler Lee High, and was also a part of the football staff of the 2011 state semifinalist and 2010 regional finalist team at John Tyler High. He was the head coach at Alba-Golden for a few years and has most recently coached at Little Elm and Ranger. Hudson likes his 26 years of experience and his energy.

"He doesn't want to retire. He's really good in other sports as well (basketball and powerlifting)." said Hudson. "It's exciting because when you talk to him, he's a head coach. But he doesn't want to be a head coach."

Frye is set to assist with the offensive line in football and assistant basketball coach.

Also hired was Jame Beebe who started at Vernon and most recently has been the head baseball coach and football offensive coordinator at Itasca. Looking for a great place to raise their kids, Beebe found Howe to be that recipe. For the staff here, he will assist with the offensive line as well as assistant varsity baseball coach.

In a hire that would make G.A. Moore blush, Hudson was able to land Craig Coheley as the varsity baseball coach. Coheley, while a baseball coach with a winning background, also brings with him a freshman that is 6'1, 200 pounds and is a natural throwing quarterback.

"He's going to get after you." said Hudson of his new baseball coach. "He's going to be a lot different than what they're used to in baseball. He's intense and a little rough around the edges - more like myself. I really like him because he plays the game of baseball the way it's intended to be played. He practices about two-and-a-half to three hours a day and it is 'all-out, get-after-it, you're going to be worn out baseball practices.'"

Hudson says that previous coaches Torrey Ognoskie and Grant did a good job of getting the program going in the right direction. He thinks now that the quality of the program has improved, Coheley can take the program to a different level. Previously, Coheley has baseball camp which will be from Monday, June 5 through Wednesday, June 7. The camp is for boys fourth grade through incoming ninth grade and will take place from noon to 2:30 pm each of the camp days. The campers will work on the fundamentals of hitting, fielding, base-running and team play on defense. The cost is $50 per player which includes a t-shirt on the final day. The boys are asked to wear shorts, t-shirts, cleats, and a hat. They will need to bring their own baseball bat, helmet, and glove.

The most popular summer camp for many years in Howe is the Lone Star Hoops Camp which will take place this year, Monday through Thursday, July 10 - 13. The camp provides over 30 hours of fast paced, ability-and-age-grouped instruction emphasizing a positive approach to competition. It is the longest running basketball day camp of its kind in Texas. It will be held at Howe High School and is for boys and girls who just finished the first grade through eighth grade.

All campers will receive a camp t-shirt, certificate, video instruction, and camp basketball. They will also compete for over 200 awards presented in numerous categories. The cost is $110 per player if registered before June 30 and $140 after June 30. If there are brothers or sisters attending the same camp, $10 can be deducted for each sibling registering.

Campers should come dressed in shorts, t-shirt and appropriate footwear. They can bring their own lunch or purchase pizza, along with drinks and snacks at camp. A camp security bank is provided to allow withdrawals and deposits throughout the week to insure campers will not lose their money.

The final sport camp in Howe that has been announced to date is the 5th Annual Bulldog Football Camp which will take place at Bulldog Stadium from Wednesday, July 26 through Friday, July 28. From 9 am to 10:30 am, campers entering the second grade through fifth grade will work with the Bulldogs coaching staff. From 10:30 am to noon, campers entering sixth grade through ninth grade will get instruction from the coaching staff.

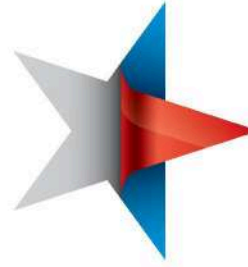

It is a non-contact football camp that focuses on techniques and drills spanning all three phases of the game. The coaches say that they want to provide campers with an enjoyable experience, while providing a base knowledge of the techniques used by the varsity Bulldog players. A camp t-shirt will be provided with the cost of enrollment.

Each camp registration forms can be found on the Community Calendar dates on howenterprise.com.

Note: Howe Youth Football registrations typically take place in mid-July.

Over the last four years here at Howe High School, we have learned a lot, the most important lesson being to love learning. We learned that sometimes, reading is fun from Mrs. Floyd, Mrs. Wilson, and Mrs. Pilkelton. We learned that yes, we really do need math in the real world from Mrs. Mitchell, Mrs. Stubblefield and Ms. McCall. We learned history and geography can be interesting from Mrs. Adams, Coach Short, Coach Wood, and Coach Grant. We learned that messing around in the shop is not a good idea from Mr. and Mrs. Blum. We learned how to be better artists from Mr. Tipton and we learned to speak Spanish or Sign Language from Ms. Rice and Mrs. Payne. No matter what grades you all made in those classes, I hope you at least took away a desire to know more about the world. We also learned how to win and lose in sports graciously from Coach Hudson, Coach West, Coach Lands and many others.

up in the stands and find your family, friends, or teachers who you are close with. These are the people who have supported, helped, and loved you along the way and they only want the best for you. So when you leave here to begin your life and get lost along the way, come back home. Remember what it feels like to be here in this moment, to have you friends and family looking down on you and how happy and proud they are for you, because this is where it all begins.

We all have some memory of going to Kindergarten that sticks with us. Whether its walking into the building with your parents and your Wal-mart sack full of school supplies, or doing art projects and not wanting to take a nap at nap time. Man, how I missed those days at some points this year. If only we appreciated how simple life was back then. All we were worried about how long recess was and what we were having for lunch that day. The simplicity of elementary school would soon end, and we would eventually be in middle school. I won't say much about middle school because I do not think it is a very fond memory for any of us. Girls become women and boys... stay boys. We get acne, our voices crack, we "date" but never go anywhere, and we eventually find out that deodorant is our friend. There are some good memories, however, like starting to bond with our classmates over sports and having our first dance and the guys being too afraid to go up and dance with girls.

I would like to take this time to thank my family. I haven't met anyone more hardworking and caring than my dad, and he has truly been a role model to me. He has been my coach since my first day on the field at age 5 until my last track meet just a month ago. Whether it has been the countless hours on the football field or the late nights getting on to me about starting a project last minute, he has always been there. My mother is the most kind-hearted, loving, and giving woman I've ever known. The endless love she has given me, my brothers, my dad and everyone she encounters, is inspiring. When life gets tough, my mom always knows exactly what to say or do to get me through it. My grandparents, Mike and Judy and James and Carolyn, have always shown unconditional love and support to my parents and me and my brothers. I would not be here today without any of them. Also, to my brothers, good luck getting through the rest of high school.

But now, we're in high school. When I was Googling "How to Write a Valedictorian Speech," I found a quote that stuck with me. It reads "You can Google for a career. But you can't Google to find what's in your heart - the passion that lifts you skyward." Pretty ironic given how I found it, but it resonated with me because, frankly, I have no idea what I want to do with my life. And I would imagine many of the graduates don't either. I've heard from many adults that nobody goes to college and ends up doing what they said they were going to do. But, it is still scary to think that one day we will have to sit down and decide what we want to do for the rest of our lives. While this seems like a daunting task for all of us, don't let it be your focus. This is the time of our lives where we are supposed to try new things and find what our passion is, so go do it. It is also a time where we will most likely fail at some point, and that's okay. Classmates, I want you all to look

Lastly, I want to thank the Class of 2017 for being for being my favorite group of people to be around. I mean, that's not saying much because you're the only group of people I've been around for 4 years, but thanks anyways. I want to close this speech out by saying I have high hopes for this class. I hope you all make the best of whatever situation you're thrown into. I hope you meet amazing new people and have new experiences. I hope none of you do anything really embarrassing that we'll talk about in 10 years at our reunion. Lastly, I hope that if you find that you're not happy with how your life turned out, you have the courage start over and try again. Thank you.

Howe History Minute: Howe Church of Christ From "90s...Then and Now; A Historical Cookbook", 1991

In 1933 Willis Kraeger was invited to preach in a series of gospel meetings that were held in the building of the Christian Church. At the close of the meeting, a paper was put on a table, and people were asked to post their names if they wanted to be a "church of Christ and worship separately." With the recording of those names the church was established in Howe.

The first meeting of the church was in the auditorium of Howe High School (the former Marshall Bean College that was torn down in favor of a new WPA school building in 1938), on Sunday, October 22, 1933. Soon a move was made to rented quarters in a vacant store building owned by W.A. Wilson (September, 1934). This is now K&N Feeds. (Editor's note: This building no longer exists). In 1937 another move to the Stockton building was necessary, and finally, a white frame meetinghouse was completed on what is now Highway 5, in December, 1938. When the major north-south traffic moved west, the church moved with it and built a new brick structure on Highway 75 in 1938. By 1988 this building was filled to overflowing and another larger structure of 15,000 square feet was built on a 10-acre tract on the northern edge of town.

The first to preach for the church when it was established was a man named Dasher. Those preachers of the longest tenure in Howe were: Gene Vivrett, Don Holloman, Willis Dykes, and Andy Kizer who has been preaching in Howe since 1982. (Editor's note: The current preacher is Toby Soechting and he has been the pastor of the church since 1999). Some of the most notable men who came to Howe to preach in gospel meetings were: G.C. Brewer, Leroy Brownlow, George Henry Stephenson, Johnny Ramsey, and Jeff Walling.

Some of those who faithfully served the church as elders through the years were: Jesse Baxter, Henry Foster, Gene Hightower, and Fred Holcomb who was a prominent leader for 38 years. Now the church is led by elders Jim Bush, Hugh Hawkins, L.H. Linker, and Jesse Stonebarger. T

There have been only four treasurers in the history of the Howe Church of Christ: L.E. Kelley, Fred Holcomb, Jesse Stonebarger, and David Savage.

"So the church ... had peace, being edified; and walking in the fear of the Holy Spirit, was multiplied" (Acts 9:31).

HHS Salutatorian Dreanna McAdams's speech

Good afternoon, Class of 2017. Good afternoon, parents, teachers, administrators, and friends. I am Dreanna McAdams, salutatorian of the Class of 2017, and it is my pleasure to welcome you here tonight.

As many of you know, I have not been a Bulldog for all four years of high school, but I have been here long enough to realize that this class is something special. Those who have been here through Elementary were called the "H-Squadron" by Coach Simmons, and those who have arrived since then have only enriched that unique group. We are an incredibly complex class, with so many different types of students, so much so that I could not find one word to describe us all. Determined, humorous, talented - these are all words that describe this class that I have spent these last two years with.

And so, the ability to not be classified under one descriptor is what makes this class special. It is what makes this class capable of succeeding in all we do - for it is not one type of person that makes a society, but a combination of people to run the complex world we live in.

While mentioning this, I want to sincerely thank all who have brought us here, to the point where we diverge to realize our futures. Friends, thank you for your loyalty and advice. Teachers, thank you for your classes again, we will not see you every day - yet the time and care you put into us has will not be forgotten. Parents and guardians, it will be your voices in our minds as we head forward, and it is your love that has shaped us into the young men and women that we are today.

And so, here we stand at the beginning of the rest of our lives, whether it be thanks to our parents' angry phone calls, our friends' empathy, our teachers' altered deadlines, or our administrators' care for our wellbeing. We stand here today perhaps not ready for our future, because it was only a week ago, or maybe even sitting here in this moment that we finally understood the significance of graduating. We are stepping out of what is comfortable, meaning that we now have to step out of our homes, high school, and the prospective niches we have carved for ourselves, and take responsibility for our futures. Because, whether we are going to a university, community college, trade school, or into the military, we are preparing ourselves for the rest of our lives.

Sitting here today is the future. Future doctors, teachers, inventors, leaders - soon this society our parents, friends, and current leaders have worked so hard to build will be ours to steward. All the beauty - in monuments, nature, in daily acts of kindness - is our responsibility to maintain. However, we will not be stewards of just the beautiful, but the ugly too. Because as we graduate, as we enter the real world not made of proms, 8-hour school days, and Friday night lights, we will become aware of the struggles in real life. The fact that, half way around the world there are people waiting in line for a chance to receive medical aid from America, or genius individuals unable to get an education because of their social class, or where they live. Or the fact that there is real racism, real slavery, and real poverty happening all around the world. We will become stewards of this broken world, and that, friends, seems daunting.

Yet do not be afraid, Class of 2017, because we were all created for a purpose. You all were given your special skills. Everything you have done, every piece of knowledge your teachers and parents have imparted upon you will become of use in your future. And so, as you go forward, I wish to tell you, don't be afraid to glance back and thank everyone who has brought you here thus far. And ahead of you, embrace the opportunities that will come your way. Many of you do not know who you are going to be. Even those who have chosen a major or a profession may change it multiple times as they go through this part of their lives. But do not be afraid - and don't be afraid to change. We do not have to adhere to the stereotypes we have created for ourselves - we have the power to change and finally be that better person we want to be. We have the power to change the world for the better, if we work for it and are unafraid to seize the day.

So yes - we are graduating, but that will not be the defining event of our lives. So much is prepared before each of you, and there is so much that we all must still work to achieve. I thank God for a chance to have met you all, and leave you with one simple dare: Find your purpose, and use it to change another's life for the better.

Remembering the high cost of freedom

Americans that have died in U.S. wars along with even more that have suffered with physical and mental difficulties. For instance, the privilege we have to publicly communicate what is on our mind are liberties that have come at a great price and we should not take them for granted.

As a chaplain for a Veteran health care facility, I have the opportunity and honor to sit and talk with many fine men and women that have served in our nation's military. Some of them are now in their eighties and nineties and I believe it's important to record and preserve not only their amazing war stories but to simply listen and appreciate who they are as individuals. One of these residents is a man named Edward Hicks who willingly stepped forward when his country needed him the most. He was only 22 years old and had just married his lovely bride Mary Lou 4 months earlier. He received the call to join the front-line and bravely responded to what would be known around the world as "Operation Overlord."

Edward and his company were assigned to six miles of beach that was code-named "Omaha" which has been recorded as one of the bloodiest first wave battles of Normandy. Only 600 men survived out of 2600 that came ashore. He recalls when he jumped out of the amphibious vehicle, how the water was up to his neck and icy cold. With being loaded down with full gear that was now water-logged, he said it was very difficult to keep from drowning. As bullets were splashing the water and whizzing past his head, all he knew to do was to stay as low as possible. Using floating bodies as shields, he was nearly paralyzed with fear. As he slowly crawled upon the sand, he immediately began to dig a hole where he could partially avoid the onslaught of constant machine gun fire. Somehow throughout the day and thankfully with the Germans running out of ammunition, he managed to work his way inland and on to accomplish the rest of his mission. He received several medals for bravery including a silver star and 4 bronze stars but there is much more to being a hero than human fortitude and earning awards. It is recognizing the depth of spiritual love. The love that Jesus demonstrated on the cross is the type of compassion that inspires individuals to love and protect others as much as they love themselves. John 15:13 reminds us that, "Greater love hath no man than this, that a man lay down his life for his friends."

Dr. Holland lives in Central Kentucky with his wife Cheryl, where he is a Christian author and community outreach chaplain. To learn more visit: billyhollandministries.com

Every year in early June, we observe Memorial Day and remember the anniversary of the Normandy invasion of World War II commonly called D-day. By the way, the "D" simply stands for whatever day a military assault is planned. For example; D-3 meant three days before a D-Day, while D+7 meant seven days after a D-Day. On June 6th 1944, America and her allies engaged in one of the most significant military operations of the 20th century. I have been personally touched by war and have a deep appreciation for the service and sacrifice that men and women give to protect our country. My mother's brother, Kenny Maye was killed in Korea and I have his tags, casket flag and one picture of him. He was only 20 years old in 1950. Sadly, his existence is nearly unknown and I often wonder about the life he could have had. To everyone that has sacrificed for this great nation, I sincerely thank you for your service.

I live a couple miles from a National military cemetery and its close enough to the highway to see over twelve thousand perfectly lined white marble tombstones. I am sure there are many who drive past with hardly thinking about how each of these individuals at one time or another accepted the call of duty. And what is that call? To defend and protect our freedom - whatever the cost! Do you and I have convictions that strong? The first Amendment was not only signed into existence with ink, but with the blood of over 1.1 million served as a head baseball coach for 26 of his 27 years in coaching. He has had stops in Holliday, Wichita Falls Rider, Wichita Falls Hirschi, Rogers, Farmersville, and Leonard, and Saginaw.. He has won over 440 games in his career, twice taking teams to their best season in school history at Rogers (36-2) and Farmersville (31-9). He has 53 playoff wins against 19 losses. During his time at Farmersville, the 2012 Farmers had a berth in the Class 4A regional finals where they lost to State Champion Texarkana Pleasant Grove. Coheley will also coach the defensive line in football.

Craig Coheley and family while he was the coaching at Leonard.

"I would have hired him anyway, but bringing his son with him makes it that much sweeter." said Hudson.

The to-be-freshman Coheley is a three-sport athlete. He's a dynamic passing quarterback and a natural point guard in basketball. His true talents could be in baseball where he currently plays on a national team with 18-year-olds.

Another hire is Mike Segleski who comes from Princeton. The former Aubrey head coach brings another personality that is a big presence with the kids.

"He and Paul will bring help that I need. They've been athletic directors before and they understand how to run a coaches office when the coach isn't there." said Hudson. "They'll help in the dimension that Coach Rhoten really helped in the last couple of years."

The story with Segleski could be that Hudson will turn over the defense completely to him. Hudson, has been the defensive coordinator for the past four seasons while also serving as head coach. But he says that he'll now coach outside linebackers and receivers and let Segleski handle the defensive calling.

As reported in the April 24 edition of the Howe Enterprise, Michael Hartsfield has been hired to be the offensive coordinator and transition from the slot-T to the wing-T offense. Hartfield is a native of Van Alstyne which should bring some added flavor to the Silver Spike, as if any was needed. His Wing-T should be very familiar to Bulldogs fans as prior to the most recent successful run in the program's history, Howe's "Post-War Glory Days" happened from 1985-1991 when Howe featured the wing-T offense under Jim Fryar and later Joey McQueen. Most casual fans will not see much of a difference from the slot-T philosophy to the wing-T philosophy. Over the past three years, Howe has rushed for an astonishing and nearly unimaginative 4,000 plus yards each season and have blown the doors off of competition due in most part to fitting the proper philosophies to match the players' strengths. Having a 6' 5" receiver in Ty Harvey, who will now split out, can change the approach and can force defenses to get out of the box. In the slot-T, Howe in the last three years combined threw the ball, on average, 1.89 times per game with many halfback passes included in that total. Howe fans might expect to average around four to five in the wing-T, same philosophy, but a variance of the approach.

"I think you're beating your head against a wall when you don't change." said Hudson. "There's a reason Gunter changed. They've run three different offenses in the last three years. They do what matches their kids and we have to do the same."

While there is no question that Hudson compiled the greatest coaching staff in Howe history from 2014-2016, he now has been tasked with the daunting challenge of replacing the entire system with one as good or even better.

"We've lost some really good coaches. But half of the losses were to circumstances out of anyone's control. And other coaches left for better opportunities. Those that left are my friends."

Hudson will begin his fifth season as the varsity head football coach and clocks in with a 29-19 record which ranks him tied for fourth in the win category behind Norman Dickey (55), Jim Fryar (41), Davey DuBose (34), and tied with Buck Smith (29). He has the most playoff wins of any Howe varsity head football coach with five.

Howe's first game is scheduled for September 1 at Howe against the defending state champion Gunter Tigers.

Texas History Minute

Dr. Ken Bridges

Dr. Bridges is a Texas native, writer, and history professor. He can be reached at drkenbridges@gmail.com.

The world is changing fast. Some see that as a reason for fear, while others see an opportunity. The most successful men and women are those who seize what life has to offer and charge ahead into the future. Those most worthy of admiration are those who not only become successful themselves but also open a door for the success of others. One of those Texas builders of the future was Eugene McDermott, co-founder of both Texas Instruments and the University of Texas at Dallas.

Eugene McDermott was born in Brooklyn, New York, in February 1899, a time when cars and airplanes were still only dreams and electric lights and telephones were still distant luxuries for others. He had a sharp sense of curiosity, and as a young man, enrolled at Stevens Institute of Technology in New Jersey. He graduated with a degree in mechanical engineering in 1919 while still only 20 years old.

In 1923, he started working at Western Electric, an electrical engineering and manufacturing firm that mostly developed telephone wires and components for American Telephone and Telegraph Co. At the same time, McDermott began furthering his own education and earned a masters degree in physics from New York City's Columbia University in 1925.

After graduate school, he soon began working with Western Electric co-worker Clarence Karcher, who had started a new company in Tulsa, Oklahoma, Geophysical Research Corporation. Karcher was using seismographs not just to detect earthquakes but as a promising new tool in oil exploration. Along the way, McDermott used his skills to fine-tune their techniques.

In 1930, McDermott partnered with Karcher and E. L. DeGolyer to form Geophysical Services Inc., continuing their seismographic oil exploration efforts. McDermott picked up five patents for his devices. With World War II, the company began making equipment for the military, making radars and equipment to detect submarines. In 1946, the company developed its own electronics lab. Though there was still a lot of money to be made in oil exploration, McDermott and his partners realized that the future was in electronics. In 1951, McDermott pulled together a team of partners, including J. Eric Jonsson, the future mayor of Dallas, Cecil Green, an English-born geophysicist, and engineer Patrick Haggerty to re-form the company as Texas Instruments.

As they created electronic products, the company began developing ways for these products to run faster and new ways to process information. In 1954, TI engineers developed the silicon transistor, a new type of semiconductor. This was followed by Jack Kilby's invention of the integrated circuit for the company in 1958, a breakthrough that heralded the beginning of the computer age. Texas Instruments became a runaway success and pushed for steady improvements in computer technology through the 1960s. While the company rewarded innovation, it also strove for efficiency, weeding out waste. It also moved into consumer products, producing the first hand-held electronic calculator by 1967.

Education became a special passion for McDermott. Green and Jonsson also recognized the critical problem that the lack of locally-available engineers posed for the long-term viability of the company. To create the products and breakthroughs of the future, they needed trained professionals. As a result, the three founded the Graduate Research Center of the Southwest on the campus of Southern Methodist University in Dallas in 1961. Not only would this help ensure a steady supply of future engineers and scientists for Texas Instruments, but it allowed countless students to have the skills to be on the cutting edge of developing science and technology.

The school steadily grew, and the three helped fund a new building for the facility in Richardson in 1964. In 1969, Texas reorganized the center into a full university as the University of Texas at Dallas.

McDermott remained an active part of the company as a member of the TI Board of Directors until his passing in 1973. Though he left behind a successful, thriving company with Texas Instruments, he left a legacy for education.

The Eugene McDermott Foundation, established in 1955, gives grants for educational and cultural purposes. With more than $70 in assets, it has become one of the largest foundations in Texas. One of the UTD libraries is named for him. In 2000, his wife, Margaret, gave $32 million to UTD to establish the Eugene McDermott Scholars Program, which brings together students majoring in engineering, physics, medicine, and the humanities to train not only future minds but help transform them into future leaders. Margaret McDermott has continued generous philanthropy to the university with a new multi-million dollar gift in 2010 to improve and modernize the look of the university and a donation of $10 million in January 2017 to the honors school at the university.

Texas Instruments today is a multi-billion dollar corporation, and UTD boasts more than 26,000 students.

VOLUME NINETEEN

HOWE, GRAYSON COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JUNE 5, 1942

NUMBER 20

UNDER THE Dome at Austin

By RICHARD M. MOREHEAD
United Press Staff Correspondent

Austin—(UP)—Each of the candidates for U. S. Senator in Texas may spend $17,276.37 legally to achieve his ambition. The expenditure is limited to that amount by the federal statute on corrupt practices.

It is to quote $10,000 as the maximum expenditure permitted in a campaign in Texas for U. S. Senator and that is the amount set as the limit by the Texas Legislature.

The statute fixing that limit, however, has been held by the Fourth Court of Civil Appeals, San Antonio, to have no application to a candidate for an office whose qualifications are set by the Constitution. The qualifications of a senator are named in the Constitution of the United States and the U. S. Senate is authorized to pass on eligibility of its members.

The Texas race for United States Senator is receiving comment in other parts of the country.

The Philadelphia Bulletin in a story from its staff correspondent at Washington devotes nearly a column to the race and illustrates the story of Senator O. Daniel and James V. Allred.

"From the Washington angle," writes the correspondent, "Wilbert Lee O'Daniel comes perilously close to being a dud. He promised a lot but his performance has been little."

"He seems to be just another politician who talked himself into the United States Senate."

"He is no more a second Huey Long than Bilbo of Mississippi and Holt of West Virginia, who also reached congress by contracting to reform the Senate and let the President know where to get off."

The correspondent concedes that Texas may have a different impression. He writes:

"But the Ohio-born flour salesman who swung and swayed himself into the governor's chair at Austin and capped that performance by succeeding the late Morris Sheppard, may appear very differently in Texas."

"Here, impeccably dressed according to the tailor's charts, he has swung 'ow and with caution, leaving upon the record little trace of the two-fisted 'Pappy' past the biscuits' guy whose campaigns intrigue the nation."

"However the Senator an expert in publicity and in the use of the radio, has kept in close touch with the home folks. He has been talking to them over the air at least once a week."

"Naturally, his reports are that Texas was never better represented on Capitol Hill than by himself and that progress is being made toward achieving the reformation of the Legislative and Executive branches of the Government."

The article predicts that the administration will favor Allred, if anybody.

Numerous resignations are due in the personnel of the Democratic and Republican party committees under a ruling that a place on a selective service board of any type is a federal official position which disqualifies the holder for political party activity further than individual voting.

A test at the state capitol this week revealed that many a state employee and some officials would flunk if they had to take the examination given an alien who applies for U. S. citizenship.

That does not indicate that the state workers are below par in their knowledge of the American form of government and its history.

Before criticizing them, see if you can answer these questions that recently were put up to a citizenship application group:

When did George Washington become president?

When did the American Revolution begin and end? The Civil War? The War with Germany?

What is a Democracy? Is it the same as a Republic?

What is a dictatorship?

No State Fair This Year

Dallas—There will be no 1942 State Fair of Texas.

Decision to forego the annual exposition known as "The World's largest and most beautiful State Fair" was reached by the Board of Directors after Harry L. Seay, President of the institution, made a report of his survey of conditions brought about by the national emergency.

Lack of transportation for both exhibits and patrons decided the issue. Tire shortage, possible gasoline rationing and a scarcity of shipping facilities influenced the decision. Many of the leading fairs of both the United States and Canada have been called off for the duration.

Grounds and buildings of the $15,000,000 plant of the State Fair of Texas have been tendered the United States Government for whatever use it may see fit to make of them, Mr. Seay announced.

Commissioner Warns Against Gas Storage

Austin—With indications pointing to a possible nationwide system of gasoline rationing, Marvin Hall, State Fire Insurance Commissioner, warns against storage of gasoline at home.

"The storage of any quantity of gasoline at home," he said, "promotes extreme fire hazards. Gasoline, when stored and handled through the regular facilities of the oil industry and kept in standard tanks, is relatively safe as a result of safeguards incorporated in the design of equipment and the training of personnel over a long period of years. However, gasoline is a dangerous explosive if kept in all sorts of cans and make-shift containers, stored in basements and garages, and poured from open containers."

Hall explained that gasoline vapor, produced when the fluid is exposed to air, is highly explosive and can be set off by electric sparks or careless smokers. The vapor, heavier than air, may flow along the ground under buildings or into basements, to be ignited and flash back from a considerable distance.

"Fire insurance can be voided under the Texas standard fire policies," Hall asserted, "if gasoline is stored on the premises without a permit of consent from the insurance company. Thus, if stored gasoline contributes to a fire destroying the property insured, policies could not be collected if the insurance company had not granted permission for storage of the gasoline."

Navy Flier's Father Not Worrying

Houston—(UP)—Young Dalton, lieutenant (J. G.) in the U. S. Navy air corps, is a prisoner of the Japanese, but his father is optimistic over the prospect that Hilton will fight again in this war.

The navy flier has survived anti-aircraft shells that disabled his plane; a crash in the Pacific Ocean; and a voyage in a rubber lifeboat.

A California radio operator heard a Tokyo radio broadcast that Lieut. Hilton was a Japanese prisoner.

"Most fathers probably would consider that bad news," said the elder Hilton, an executive of an oil equipment factory. "But that's a lot better than the first news I had—that Dale was probably dead."

Lieut. Hilton has survived war thus far, his father sees no reason why his luck should run out now. He believes that the son will escape to fight the Japanese again.

The youth's mother and wife live at Los Angeles.

India's Game of 'Poona' Grew Into Our Badminton

Asia gave the world a game which a later years has grown rather popular in the western world. The game is badminton, and it grew out of an older game called "battledoor and shuttlecock," or simply "shuttlecock."

A battledoor is a racket with a long handle. Usually it is strung with catgut, like a tennis racket. A shuttlecock is a cork with feathers stuck in it, or around the rim. All the feathers are pointed in the same direction; they follow the cork when the shuttlecock flies through the air.

Shuttlecock can be played in several ways. Sometimes a player sees how many times he can knock the shuttlecock into the air, without letting it fall to the ground.

In another form, two players bat the shuttlecock back and forth. The batting may be done with or without a net between the players.

This game appears to have been played in India as much as 1,500 years ago. In India it had the name of "poona."

A form of shuttlecock was played in France about two centuries ago. A picture made in 1780 shows a lady and a gentleman of France battling a shuttlecock back and forth. They are using rackets with much shorter handles than those employed in the modern game.

About 70 years ago, British officers returned to England from India. With them they brought rackets and shuttlecocks which they had used in India while playing poona.

People in England began to take up the game, and no one seemed to like it better than the duke of Beaufort. This duke lived in a home which was named "Badminton."

V-R. P. H. — H. W. Long and family were Dallas visitors Thursday.

WEEK'S ACTIVITIES TO END WITH ADMINISTRATION OF OATH TO RECRUITS

"Avenge Pearl Harbor" has been adopted as the slogan of the U. S. Navy this week, marking the close of the first six months of the war. All men enlisted in the Navy during the week will be known as "Avengers of Pearl Harbor" and will be sworn into the service with public ceremonies at all Navy recruiting stations Sunday afternoon, June 7. The ceremonies will be so arranged as to permit beginning of the oath at exactly 1:25 p. m., Central War Time, which is six months to the minute from the time the first bomb fell at Pearl Harbor.

The ceremony for this district will be held in the Sherman Municipal Auditorium, Sherman. Families of men now in the Navy and families of the men to be sworn in Sunday will be given places of honor at the ceremony. All Navy men home on leave are requested to report to the recruiting station in Sherman to assist in the program. City and county officials, preachers, civic leaders and heads of the various veterans organizations are urged to cooperate in making this an outstanding week in Navy recruiting, recruiters at the Sherman office said today.

Arrangements are being made to broadcast the program, which will begin at 1:00 p. m., over KRRV, the Sherman radio station.

The following program has been arranged:

Music—Sherman Municipal Band.

Invocation—Col. Myndert M. Van Patten, Chaplain Army of the United States.

"America"—Sung by Audience, accompanied by Sherman Band.

Welcome Address—R. L. Hall, Mayor of the City of Sherman.

Talk—Norrest Pereto, Representing Veterans of Precious American Wars.

Talk—Judge R. C. Slagle, Representing Civilian Activity.

"Anchors Aweigh"—Sherman Municipal Band.

Talk—Commissioned Officer of the United States Navy.

Administering of Oath to the Recruits.

"Star Spangled Banner"

The Navy has openings for men between the ages of 17 and 50, offering pay ranging from $21 to $99 a month, in addition to food, clothing, lodging, medical and dental attention, and family allowance for married men who are skilled in certain trades.

Complete information in regard to the opportunities the Navy has to offer, as well as about the "Avenge Pearl Harbor" program may be obtained at the U. S. Navy recruiting station in the basement of the post office building in Sherman.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Aside from the sixty-mile an hour Mosquito Torpedo Boats, the Sub Chasers are the speedsters of our Navy. Light and fast, they are the eyes of the Fleet on the water. They displace approximately 1,500 tons and cost about $2,400,000 each.

We need many of these powerful, fast little boats to cope with the treacherous submarine type of naval warfare fostered by our enemies. Everybody can help pay for more Sub Chasers by putting at least ten percent of his income into War Bonds. Buy Bonds or Stamps every pay day. Buy them from your bank, your post office, or from your office or factory through the Payroll Savings Plan.

HOWE'S THAT ?

Boo-boomed again.

In the hospital report last week we listed Valda Aikins as one of the patients. She straightened us out the next morning.

Actually, it was her mother-in-law who had been hospitalized—Vie Aikins. However, she's been dismissed from the hospital and is now residing at the Meadowbrook Nursing Home in Van Alstyne.

Leon Smith explained those pint-sized crows that are infesting various areas of town.

Leon says they were unknown in this part of the country until a few years ago; are called Grackles, so-called from their notes, and are any of various blackbirds somewhat smaller than a crow, especially the American purple grackle.

Guess so.

Leon further says the critters like to feast on crickets, since he hardly ever saw any of them until a swarm of crickets invaded the area near his home a couple of years ago. Grackles moved in and made short work of the cricket crop.

Rain, rain!

Heard one guy say Wednesday morning his well was six inches deeper than the hole (?)

It's always nice to have fisherman neighbors who don't like to eat the critters.

Accounted for a nice batch (six) of sand bass for supper Monday evening.

We missed one meal though. Joe Thornton brought in some onions, he said, but took them back home because we were gone at the time.

Kids!

A Sunday School teacher was telling the story of Lot's wife: how she looked back and turned into a pillar of salt.

One little boy remarked:

"My mother looked back once when she was driving the car, and she turned into a power pole."

Be sure your kitchen stove is level. If it isn't, the food won't burn evenly.

Building Permits Top '66 Totals

City building permits for the month of May total $76,250, according to City Manager Cannon George.

The figure brings the total for the first five months of 1967 to a new high, surpassing last total for the entire year of $320,200.

First quarter total this year was $242,000, George said.

The May figure includes a $15,000 industrial permit obtained by Humble Oil Co.

Howe Landmarks To Be Razed

MAJOR GUINN HOTEL HERE

Howe Elevator To Be Razed

Wreckers will do what it took a fire to complete back in 1918 when the old grain elevator in the east part of Howe will be razed within the near future.

The property has been leased from Kimbell Milling Co. by H. K. Caldwell, a highway patrolman.

Once the superstructure is removed, Caldwell said he planned to clean up the storage buildings and find a profitable use for them.

The original grain elevator was a wooden structure painted red. It was built by Spence Shoemate and was destroyed by fire on March 20, 1918.

When the elevator was rebuilt, metal siding and roofing was used. G. B. R. Smith did the actual rebuilding job.

Wreckers will remove all of the superstructure down to the long crib.

Attempts were made to use the elevator a couple of years ago, but they never got off the ground.

Howe Elevator—End of an Era

By John Clift

Tas Gee looked up from the bench where he was sitting. Yeah, he remembered the old hotel they were tearing down.

"The first night I ever spent in Texas was in the old Major Guinn Hotel," he said. His pale blue eyes lit up as he added, "that was 79 years ago. I was just seven years old and had come to Texas with my mother and two brothers.

"We got off the train at Howe and old Major Guinn met us and carried our luggage to the hotel. We stayed there three days until my father came after us from Van Alstyne where he had been farming.

"And when he came, he didn't drive up in no car," chuckled Gee. "He came in an old wagon."

Gee said the three days spent at the hotel were memorable ones for a youngster. "We ate three meals a day in the hotel. I wasn't paying the bills, I was too little, so I don't have any idea what it cost. But I do know for a little old farm boy staying at that hotel and eating out made every one of those days like Christmas."

Neither Gee nor any of the other oldtimers who had been sitting on the bench in front of the feed store could recall when the hotel was built.

Old Hotel

W. A. (Doc) Wilson said he knew it had been there since 1893 because that's when he came to Howe, "and it was here then." Of course, that was five years after Gee had first come

Howe's that...

EXPLANATION - In last week's "Howe's That" column an article appeared with a part of it accidentally left off. The article that began "SOS! SOS!" and referred to "Jay" was from a monthly column submitted by Mary Ellen Hall, wife of U.S. Congressman Ralph Hall. Mrs. Hall regularly writes about life in Washington, D.C. and addresses her columns as a letter to her grandson, Jay.

PLAY BALL! - It's that time of the year. Happy youngsters are piling into cars and pickups and riding to nearby towns of the ball fields in town. They can't wait for the excitement of the yell, "Batter Up!" For most of those kids baseball (or softball) is a game to be played and enjoyed -- win, lose, or draw. They are eager to run around the bases, to catch a flyball, to make a homerun, or just to catch the ball when they are supposed to.

With a special thank you to the sponsors, coaches, umpires, parents who help in the concession stands, and assorted assistants, here is a poem submitted by a parent reminding us that, after all, it is just a game, not a matter of life or death.

JUST A LITTLE BOY

He stands at the plate with tear pounding fast.
The bases are loaded; the tie has been cast.
Mom and Dad cannot help him, he stands alone.
A hit at this moment would send the home home.
The ball meets the plate;
he swings and he misses.
There's a groan from the crowd, with some boos and some hisses.
A thoughtless voice cries,
'Strike out the bum.'
Tears fill his eyes; the game's no longer fun.

So open your heart and
For it's moments like this,
a man you can make.
Keep this in mind when you hear someone forget.
He's just a little boy, and not a man yet.
(Written by Bob Fox, a former pitcher in the minor leagues and also a manager for a Little League team. In Mr. Fox's own words, "I used to hand the poem to mothers at the games when they became a little hostile.")

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR - Two weeks ago Sherman Mayor Jack Kennedy made a speech to the Grayson County Builders Association. Highlights of his speech were quoted in the Sherman Democrat. Kennedy complained about small towns in the county, about the Commissioners Court, and about the Sherman newspaper. His main complaint on the newspaper was about the printing of a "steady stream of negative letters to the editor" which he said were printed to the city's (Sherman's) detriment. As the editor of a newspaper, I can say truthfully that we print all letters to the editor that we receive unless they are libelous, unsigned, or incoherent. Editors cannot make their readers write letters and certainly are not responsible for the opinions of the letter writers.

The state Supreme Court of New Jersey recently ruled that the letters to the editor column is "one of the last public forums." These columns give people a chance to express whatever opinion they hold. Such a column gives everyone a chance to have his say on a matter of importance.

The Howe Enterprise invites letters on any subject. We ask that letters be kept brief (about 200 words) and to the point. Letters must be signed, but the name of the letter writer will be withheld upon request.

Planning & Zoning Board Elects Officers

Seven From Howe Band Compete At State Level

The UIL Texas State Solo and Ensemble Contest was held May 29 and 31 on the University of Texas campus in Austin.

Medals were awarded to those soloists who received first or second division ratings. Points were also given for first and second scores toward the sweepstakes trophy.

Howe band took seven members to participate Monday. The brass quintet, consisting of Brent Wood and Scott Taylor - trumpet; Catherine Gilstrap - french horn; Shawn McMillion - trombone; and Adam Hamner - sousaphone, was awarded a second division rating out of five divisions: 5 - poor, 4 - fair, 3 - good, 2 - excellent, 1 - superior.

The four soloists participating were Brent Wood - trumpet, Valarie Everett - saxophone, and Catherine Gilstrap and Angie Cavender - piano. Wood and Everett were awarded second division; Gilstrap and Cavender received third division ratings.

This is the most participants Howe has ever had at TSSEC. The first year Stu Highlander went to state and received a second division. The second year Tim Woodbridge and Catherine Gilstrap each received second division ratings.

At the state level approximately one out of every 50 music students receive a superior rating. Band students are reminded that there will be optional band practice in the band hall from 7:30 - 9:00 p.m. every Monday. Marching practice begins the first week of August.

Army Private From Sherman Tells of Training Exercise

Fort Irwin, Calif. -- "Gallant Eagle 82," one of the largest joint-service exercises ever held in the United States, was a very personal affair for Army Pfc. Darrell E. Green Jr. of Sherman, Texas, who spent long days and nights in the barren Mojave Desert as one of the participants.

Green, 22, son of Katherine Green, 1512 E. Magnolia St., Sherman, is a paratrooper and anti-aircraft missile gunner with the 82nd Airborne Division, one of the key units in the nation's Rapid Deployment Force. The 82nd jumped into the Fort Irwin reservation as part of its training.

Fort Irwin, the recently designated National Training Center, has 577,000 acres of training space and provides a unique training environment available nowhere else in America. "Gallant Eagle," basically a test of the nation's Rapid Deployment Joint Task Force, used the barren expanses of this southern California post to the maximum, pitting task force units against Reserve and regular Army battalions.

"What I liked best about the exercise," said Green, "was the chance to see aircraft performing actual combat maneuvers." The real tests at Irwin were the weather, terrain and the sheer intensity of the training conducted here. Units literally "hit the ground running," much as they would in an actual overseas movement, and were in "combat" within hours of their arrival.

"I learned quite a bit about desert operations and survival techniques," noted Green, who is a veteran of an even larger desert, having participated in the "Bright Star" exercises in Egypt. "I also like working with the infantry company I was attached to for the exercise here, but I'll be glad to get back to Fort Bragg," he added.

"Gallant Eagle 82" is history, one more training exercise conducted in the high desert of southern California. To those who have been here, Fort Irwin stands as the toughest, most realistic and demanding test they will face short of actual combat. It's that kind of place.

Green attended Sherman High School before enlisting in April, 1981 and is still "...undecided..." about staying in, he said.

Sherman Historical Museum To Mark Sixth Birthday

In celebration of its sixth birthday, Sherman Historical Museum will be open each day, June 6 through 12, offering a variety of special events throughout the week.

The annual Open House will be held Sunday, June 6, from 2 to 5 p.m. and will feature Mel Derr of Mel Derr's Studio playing the antique square grand piano owned by the Museum. Also presented that day will be models wearing from the Museum's historical collection.

The hours of 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. will be observed the remainder of the week, Monday through Saturday.

Sherman Historical Museum was opened to the people of Grayson County July 1, 1976 after a year-long period of planning and volunteer work. The story began in June 1975 when Allan Smith, Chairman of the Grayson County Bi-Centennial Commission went before Sherman City Council to present the idea of turning the old Carnegie Library at 301 South Walnut Street into a museum. On Aug. 5, 1975 the council named to a Historical Museum Committee to consider uses for the old library building: Allan Smith, chairman; Judge R.C. Vaughan; Mike Skaggs; Mrs. Ruth H. Davis; Rod Rylander; Percy Neblett; Byron Rice; Mrs. Ernie Haring and Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Talaferro.

On Oct. 15, 1975 the city council proclaimed the establishment of the Museum to be the City of Sherman Bi-Centennial Project. An appropriation of $9,800 was made to renovate the building. Interior painting; installation of burglar bars and double iron doors; air-conditioning and other repairs were made.

The building is owned by the City of Sherman and operated by the Museum Board. The city provides the building, pays the insurance and utilities, and keeps the grounds. During the first year of operation, supplementary funds were available through help of Texoma Planning Commission. Since 1977 the Museum has been entirely dependent on membership fees and money-making projects for all other funds received.

The Museum has become a depository for valuable collections from all parts of Grayson County. Although designated as Sherman Historical Museum, the Board gives careful attention to amking available information about each town and community in the area. Comfortable working conditions are provided for persons wishing to research family or county history.

The Talaferro Room houses the excellent collection of artifacts and memorabilia from Glen Eden, the home of Sophia and Holland Coffee - once the show place of Grayson County - now lying under the waters of Lake Texoma. In addition to the permanent exhibits in the Museum, temporary ones are rotated three or four times a year. The current one, The Great Photography Exposition, will remain up until early this fall.

A Farm and Ranch Room is presently underway and should be completed by midsummer.

The week-long celebration activities include: Monday, June 7 - 9 a.m. "Whatcha-Ma-Call-It Identification Contest" for children, 7 and up. Also an old western movie.

Tuesday, June 8 - 10 a.m., Coffee and Donuts For You Door prize.

Wednesday, June 9 - 10 a.m. to 12 noon, China Matching Party. Register for $3.00 and be permanently listed to buy or sell missing pieces of your pattern. Also Door prize.

Thursday, June 10 - 10 a.m. to noon, Cut Glass by Trudy Wheeler. Bring your pieces for Trudy to identify. Also Door prize.

Friday, June 11 - Special Guided Tour by Dorothy Harrington at 10 a.m.; Stereoptican Slides of Old Carr-Burdette College at noon.

Saturday, June 12 - Beginning at 9 a.m., artists and craftsmen demonstrating their specialities - stained glass, pottery, stitichery, calligraphy, caning, basketry, painting, wood carving and other forms.

Bring a brown bag lunch any day at noon. The Museum will provide free Remember Open House, Sunday, June 6, 2-5 p.m. The Museum will be open Monday through Saturday, June 7-12, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day.

Woman Killed In Storm

Gale force winds hit the Lake Texoma area early Memorial Day causing much damage and killing a woman who was camping in a tent on the Oklahoma side of the lake.

Mrs. Ingeburg Zahnow of Plano was crushed by a 60' tree which crashed into the tent where she and her family were sleeping. Mr. Zahnow escaped with a slight injury and the couple's 16-year-old daughter and 19-year-old son were uninjured.

The winds were estimated between 85 and 100 mph as they ripped through the Texomaland area about 5 a.m. Monday, May 31. Electric power was knocked out in Pottsboro, Sherman and Denison in several places. Trees were uprooted and boats on Lake Texoma were damaged.

No major damage was reported in Howe from the storm which dumped more rain in the already saturated areas of North Texas. Several members of the Howe Volunteer Fire Dept. were out during the storm in key locations to watch the weather and warn residents if they spotted anything serious.

Mental Health Is For Everybody

"Mental Health is For Everybody" is the slogan of the Mental Health Association this year. As President Reagan recently said when proclaiming May as Mental Health Month across the nation, "a mentally healthy citizenry ranks high as a national goal."

It takes work for everybody to maintain good mental health in today's world of stress and tension. One of the ways to manage stress is to learn to relax more effectively. Here are a few tips from the Mental Health Association on learning to unwind and master the art of relaxation:

1. Relax by trying something new and different. If you think you'll enjoy an activity - whether it is needlepoint or racquetball - don't be afraid to try just because it is new. Take a night course at a community college. Learn to dance. Swim, jog, play softball. Become a gourmet-cook. Shoot some hoops. Go for walks. Try ceramics. Take a bubble bath.

2. Do something every day. Once you've hit on your favorite relaxation activities, give at least a half hour of your day to enjoying them. Set goals and live by them. Your mind and body can use a break - regularly.

3. Make a personal commitment to relaxation. Whatever you choose to do for relaxation, give it everything you've got; don't hold back mentally or physically. Your own enthusiasm makes the activity even more satisfying

The secret to the art of relaxing is finding those activities which give you pleasure, and when pursuing them, committing all your energies to total mental and physical well being. For more information, contact the Mental Health Association in Texas, 4600 Burnet Road, Austin, Texas 78756 (512) 459-6584.

Howe's That . . .

Where Are They Now?

TRAVELS - Once again, Rose Peters is sending us articles about the places she and Duane are visiting on their yearly rodeo circuit. I hope you enjoy reading about their travels and learning the history and/or interesting facts about the various places they stay. We can all get some vacation ideas from reading about these places.

The first "Where Are They Now?" appears in this issue. Look for it to be a weekly feature.

BASEBALL SALUTE - The Howe Bulldog baseball team has broken a few records in recent years. For three years in a row they won the district championship and made it into the playoffs. This year they also won a record number of games. Unfortunately, they were defeated by Farmersville in the first playoff game. But since a number of boys on the team graduated this year, the HOWE ENTERPRISE felt a salute to the team is in order. Some of these young men have been playing baseball together for years - since Little League days. We will miss their talent, but Howe has some other young men coming along with great talent also. See page four for more on the salute.

RENEWAL - Recently we received a subscription renewal from a former Howe resident who now lives somewhere else. With the check was enclosed the following note: "Hello, Lana, Thanks for all your work on the news. Those of us not fortunate enough to still live in Howe really appreciate the latest 'goings ons' of all our friends." I appreciate the kind words and encouragement to keep pursuing the news about and for Howe folks.

by Rose Peters
May 22-24, Cape Girardeau, Missouri, population: 35,000.

Have you ever seen baby camels up close and heard their grunts for something to eat? Or a giraffe? Or how about watching a whole herd of camels lay down, chewing their cud? I have, just this week outside of Cape Girardeau. There's an exotic animal farm on the outskirts of town. It was an enjoyable experience with deer licking your hands, peacocks strutting everywhere. You could see everything from deer up by the barn to longhorns in pens. What a sight! It's always a joy to come to Missouri. Lots of rolling hills, trees and green everywhere, unspoiled by developers.

Cape Girardeau has a unique and interesting history. It started as a hodge-podge of trading posts and frontier buildings located on a breath-taking bend in the Missouri River.

One of the founding fathers was a French aristocrat, Barthelemy Cousin, who left his homeland in search of exploration and adventure.

He arrived in Cape Girardeau in 1795, after spending a few years in New Orleans. Cousin spoke and wrote Latin, English, French, Spanish and learned several Indian dialects. He was a "greffer" or a notary public, inventor, scientist, mathematician and surveyor. He surveyed the settlement and laid out the town lots that sold for $100 each. Cousin made out the land requests for pioneers and assisted them with their problems.

Among his many other accomplishments, Cousin invented a wooden spiral wheel for use on two river flatboats. The wheel he later gave to John Fisher. Cousin was certain it would power a riverboat.

Barthelemy Cousin never returned to France. He died in Cape Girardeau in 1824 at the age of 57. According to history he did so much for that settlement, it would take pages to list his accomplishments.

Next week, one of our all time favorite rodeos and places: Licking, Missouri.

Baseball Team Racks Up Many Honors

The Howe Bulldog Baseball team ended the 1992 season with their third consecutive District Championship, a record of 27 wins and 3 losses, and ranked #1 in State (by the Houston Post poll).

The records for the past four years are 17-7, 22-4, 21-7-1, and 27-3 (total 87 wins, 21 losses and 1 tie, average of 22 wins, 5 losses per year.)

Seven seniors who have played on the team have done much to contribute to the team standings: James Fulechek, Scott Grogan, Monte Walker, Jarrod Killough, Chris Garner, Trey Dedman, and B.J. Sikes.

The Dogs have won four tournament championships, one second place and two consolation trophies. They have held the district championship for three consecutive years, had two bi-district championships and one area championship.

Allison Selected Mayor Pro Tem

The Howe City Council met on Tuesday, May 26, and elected Marion Allison as mayor pro tem.

In other business they passed the first reading of Ordinance #Ordinance #439, no truck parking on Spur 381 (West Hanning).

Following an executive session on purchase of real property, they authorized Ray Houston to make proposals for the purchase of property for easements for the planned sewer project. (A 10'x105' strip was later purchased from Mr. Mode. Another property needed is approximately 1/2 acre to be purchased from JSRB).

In 1990 the Bulldogs were ranked #3 in the State and defeated the #1 team twice.

In 1991 the team was ranked #10 in State.

In 1992 the Dogs were ranked

#1 in State.

They were defeated by Farmersville in the first round of playoff games. But they racked up an impressive year.

Crime Watch Program To Begin In Howe

Approximately 13 families from various Howe neighborhoods attended a brief meeting Thursday, May 28, at Flesher Funeral Home Community Room to learn about setting up a Neighborhood Crime Watch program in Howe.

Howe Police Chief Bob Zivec briefly outlined the program. The town is divided into blocks of 8-10 homes per person (family) to watch in a neighborhood. They get to know the neighbors and their vehicles; then watch for anything unusual.

Zivec emphasized that citizens should always report anything which seems odd or unusual to the police department. "I would rather check out something which seems silly than to later find out the home was burglarized," he said.

"Criminals are very clever," he added. "They have various tricks, such as using a van labeled 'air conditioning repair' to load their stolen loot in."

Zivec said that the citizens will have to work to make a crime watch program work. "With only one officer per shift we can't be everywhere at once."

Persons serving as crime watch "captains" are not expected to do anything dangerous such as stopping the thieves or making an arrest. Their job is to get descriptions of the suspect persons and their vehicles, and the direction they take in leaving.

The next meeting will be on Thursday, June 11, at 7 p.m. at Flesher Community Room. David Hawley with the Grayson County Sheriff's Dept. will meet with the group. Officer Hawley, county crime prevention officer, works throughout the county to help prevent crime.

Zivec noted that Howe's crime rate is low compared to Sherman and even Van Alstyne. He said that in Howe many neighbors are already watching out for suspicious activity. An organized program would make the watch more efficient in preventing crime.

"We don't have a big problem with the crime rate now," Zivec said, "but we want to keep it that way."

All interested persons are invited to attend the program on June 11. If you are unable to attend, but want to be a part of the program or just want more information, contact Lana Rideout at 532-6012 (office) or 532-6476 (home).

Concerned Parents To Meet Tonight

Concerned Parents, a group of people concerned about issues related to young people in the Howe area, has been meeting for the last three months. They started in response to the James Dobson film, "Children At Risk." The meetings have been chaired by Rev. Scott Jones and a number of different ideas are currently being discussed.

Meetings are open to anyone in the community. The next meeting is Thursday, June 4, at 8 p.m. in the Community Room of Flesher Funeral Home in Howe.

Howe's that ...

by Lana Rideout

As the month of May ends, students from local high schools and colleges have walked across the stage to receive a diploma. New beginnings and new adventures await these graduates. Sometimes it is difficult for parents and grandparents to think of these young people as adults, but they are now entering adulthood lives.

Forty-five years ago I received my high school diploma. I remember the ceremony, but all too soon it was over (even though I graduated in a class of over 500 students, it was over too soon).

Then four years later, I received my college degree, again with over 500 other students. There was probably a speaker. I don't know. It was a blur for me. While I was happy to receive that diploma, my wedding was just a few weeks after that graduation. My thoughts were centered more on the excitement of that upcoming event.

I have watched my three children graduate from high school. Two of them have received university degrees. What really makes me feel old is the fact that two years from now, I will get to watch the first two of my grandchildren graduate from high school.

I offer my best wishes to the high school graduates - you have worked hard to earn that diploma. Make the most of your life. Remember each day is a new beginning.

I recently read that to children, every day is exciting. There is an element of the unknown. As we grow older, we get in a rut. Every day seems the same. It is all right to exercise your imagination. It is all right to dream of what could be and try to make it so.

HOWE Great Days of Service—2007

All local residents invited to participate

It is almost summertime, which means that the second annual Great Days of Service is near. The First United Methodist Church - Howe will again sponsor this cooperative service project in the Howe community to be held June 21, 22, and 23.

Last year, community members joined together to reach out to their neighbors in need and much was accomplished. Several homes received minor outdoor repair and new paint, yards were cleared and groomed, baby blankets and hooded towels were made and donated to the Pregnancy Care Center in Sherman, and many were treated to a Public Servant meal.

Similar projects are planned again for this year. If you or someone you know would like to inquire about receiving help please call Don Hurst at (903) 532-5070 by June 6, 2007.

All members in the Howe community are invited to be a part of this project regardless of church affiliation. If you would like to volunteer to help with any of the Great Days of Service projects in Howe, please call the church office at (903) 532-6718.

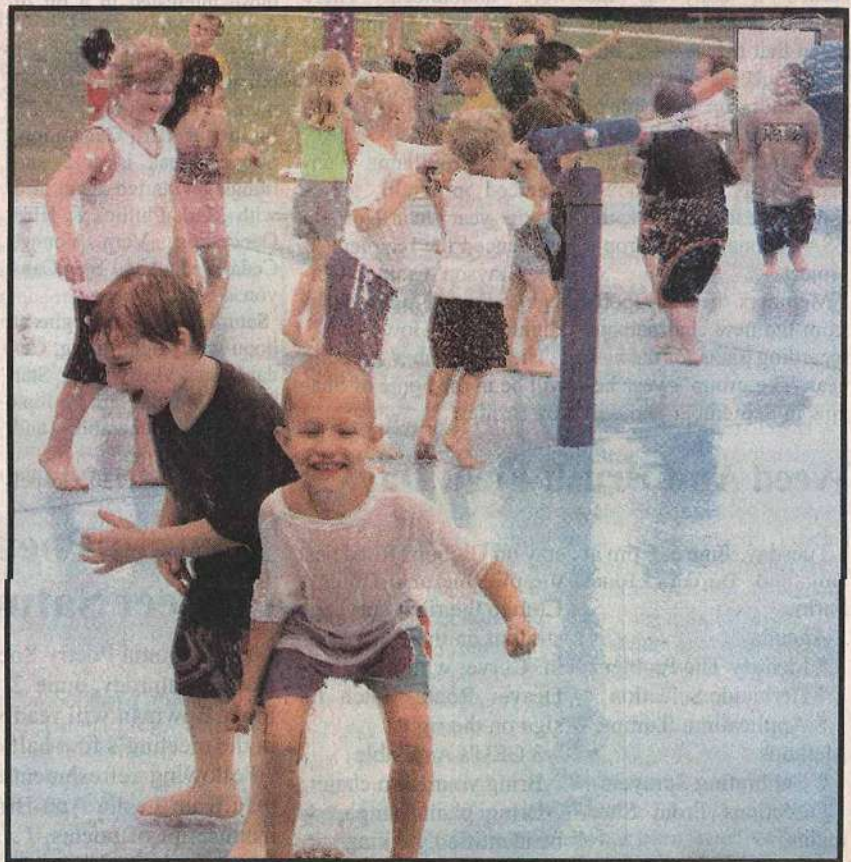

Together we can make a difference in our community!

Careers on Wheels

Friday, May 4, Howe Middle School 5th and 6th grade students participated in Grayson County College Careers on Wheels Day. Students were exposed to many different local jobs that involve the use of vehicles to conduct business. Some of the businesses in attendance were police, fire and rescue departments, electric companies, gas companies, propane delivery, drink delivery, and crime scene detectives. Grayson County College's cosmetology program was there to treat students to temporary hair highlights and manicures.

The students gained awareness of many different jobs in the area as well as the education that is needed to perform them. After a fun morning of learning, GCC Texoma Tech Prep Staff treated the students to a lunch. Teachers and students of Howe Middle School say thank you to the Grayson County College for allowing them to attend. (submitted by Mrs. Farris)

On May 22, Howe students that earned perfect attendance for 4 out of 6 six weeks, earned a trip. They were taken to Fairview and Hawn Parks where they could play in the water and enjoy the playgrounds. In spite of the clouds and "cooler" temperatures, a great time was had by all. ## HOWE ISD

Board approves contracts, resignations

The Howe School Board met Thursday, May 24, and approved contracts for Angela Garner at the elementary school and Lynn Siebold-Welch at the middle school. They also accepted the resignations of Tina Yates and Angela Anderson.

They also removed Iva Holcomb (who is retiring this year) from high school activity accounts and added Heidi Debner to the accounts.

An interlocal agreement with Grayson

County SSA (special ed co-op) was also approved.

No action was taken on support of special legislation for a Municipal Utility District for the land known as Sangani Ranch Two and Sangani Ranch Three. According to Supt. Kevin Wilson, since the legislative session was drawing to a close, there was no time for this MUD to be approved by the Texas Legislature.

Howe's That

The Howe Enterprise version of the State of the Union address can be found in the next few paragraphs.

Since volume one, issue one, howeenterprise.com has seen 77,001 hits from 2,627 different readers. I would say that's a pretty good first two and 1/2 months of business.

The month of May saw 39,555 hits with 2,665 visits. In comparison, our first full month of April saw 24,671 hits with 1,985 visits. As Barry Switzer once said, "all that matters is if the arrow is pointing up or down." Thankfully, the arrow is on a really good healthy incline and should stay that way as more people learn about The Howe Enterprise's reemergence.

So far, it's no secret, that the key to getting this weekly publication off to such a fast start is due to the vehicle which is Facebook. As of publication time, we have more "likes" at the Howe Enterprise than the Sherman Chamber of Commerce. That can only be attributed to the loyal people that call Howe their home, whether here, or where life has taken them.

The Howe Enterprise will always be free to read. And it can be read from all over the world. It just so happens that last week (maybe due to the Tony Brinkley article) that we saw 31 visits from Japan. I can't tell who is reading, but it does tell me how many. Don't worry, I can't tell who you are. All I know is that you're there and loyal to our great city.

With all of these numbers, I can report that the state of The Howe Enterprise is strong.

Howe Mayor comes up short in JP race; focused on Howe

Howe Mayor Jeff Stanley said he was dissatisfied but not devastated by his loss to Rita Noel in the Justice of the Peace, Precinct 4 run-off held last week. Stanley is in his third term as mayor in which he was elected in 2009. The mayor
