

Howe's That

Today is National Split Personality Day. This is easy for a man who keeps development secrets while also writing a weekly publication about what's going on in Howe.

What's that you say? You're schizophrenic? Gee, that makes four of us.

This Saturday evening in Downtown Howe, the chamber invites everyone to be a part of a somewhat historic event. The Howe Area Chamber of Commerce is hosting a wine-tasting mixer at 6:30 at the chamber home in downtown. Homestead Winery will host the event and tell you how the grape gets from the ground to the glass. There is no charge for the event, but the chamber hopes to have more individuals join the chamber and become involved in the community. Personal memberships are $25 and business memberships are $75 - annually. Keep in mind, it's a wine-tasting, not a wine-gulping.

Signs have been placed on seemingly every corner of North Texas for months, hoping to gain your vote tomorrow in the primary election. You can make your voice heard no matter whether you are red, blue, black, white, brown, or yellow. And that, my friends, is the greatest thing about this country.

Last week was that time of year for mud, sand, and the sweet smell of the Texoma Exposition and Livestock Show that most people just refer to as "Loy Lake" by the event taking place on the grounds of Loy Lake Park. Howe FFA had 53 students involved in showing steers, pigs, goats, rabbits, poultry, and even welding projects. Jorie Seibold placed first in her division with the

The nomination process recently ended for the Howe Hall of Honor Class of 2018. Voting began on March 1 and will conclude on March 30. This is the fourth class to be inducted for the honor established by the Howe Area Chamber of Commerce. The chamber sends voting out for two categories of deceased and living. The top two in each category that receives the most votes will be enshrined on May 4, 2018, at a 6:30 pm ceremony. The May event serves as the kickoff to the Founders Day Festival which takes place the following day starting at 2 pm. The Hall of Honor ceremony is also the night in which the chamber announces other local awards including Business of the Year and the Norman J. Wallace Citizen of the Year.

Last year's inductees included Jean Norman, Donal Gilstrap, J.J. Chisum, and Bob Walker. The 2016 class included Norman Dickey, Steve Simmons, and Jimmy Bearden.

Howe's initial Hall of Honor Class included Jabez Haning, W.P. Thompson, A.M. Ferguson, Mame Roberts, Charles Thompson, Arthur Boyle, Tony Brinkley, L.B. Kirby, Norma Wallace, Ray Bledsoe, Carrie Waller, and Elmer Schenk.

oldest continuous business in Howe as Hanning Garage and Wrecker Service.

He was a member of the First United Methodist Church of Howe, The Howe Masonic Lodge #430 for 36 years and the Scottish Rite in Dallas.

He was a doctor of automotive technology. Hanning kept vehicles running for people he knew could not afford new and improved cars. Sometimes, he did it without charge. He worked through bad weather in all seasons, and deep into many nights to help whoever he could. With a wry sense of humor and a grin, he contributed to the lives of other wrecker drivers, police and Department of Public Safety Troopers.

Hanning was honored as a co-Citizen of the Year in 1985.

Overton Jay, Nov. 17, 1916 - Aug. 11, 2001. He was a hometown boy and a third generation native Texan. Jay was a member and elder of the First Christian Church of Howe. He was a graduate of Howe High School and attended Austin College on a track scholarship. As a US Army tank crewman in World War II, he worked for the Corps of Engineers on the preliminary survey for Lake Texoma. He later worked in transportation at Perrin Air Force Base as a Civilian Traffic Management Officer for 21 years before retiring to his Howe farm.

Throughout his working career, he was also a servant to his hometown of Howe by serving as a long-tenured city council member.

Marshall Robertson, Nov. 27, 1919 - Sept. 16, 1993. He was a pillar of the Howe business community for many years. Owning and operating Marshall Robertson's Texaco filling station on Highway 5 and later to Highway 75, Robertson became entrenched in the public eye and was always an ever-ready neighbor and servant to the community. He operated Robertson Texaco until his retirement in 1980.

In the early 1960s, Robertson joined other key local businessmen and lobbied Austin for a bank to be independently operated in Howe. Howe State Bank opened in 1964 thanks in part to the efforts of Robertson, who served as a director until health reasons forced him to resign.

The children of Howe loved him and knew they could always count on him for a piece of bubble gum.

He was a longtime member of the First Baptist Church of Howe and was honored as a co-Citizen of the Year in 1985.

Tommy Skipworth, Feb. 14, 1945 - Nov. 4, 2005. Originally from Sherman, Skipworth made a name for himself as a superb multi-sport athlete at Sherman High School and later Austin College where he was eventually inducted into the Austin College Hall of Honor in 2014. Upon graduation from Austin College in 1967, he began a career in the education field at Howe I.S.D. that ended in a legacy. He served as a teacher, varsity basketball and baseball coach, counselor, and principal, all while furthering his own education with a master's from East Texas State University.

Artie Callaway Stockton, Sept. 16, 1889 - Feb 8, 1979. Artie Callaway was the first valedictorian of Howe High School in the first graduating class of 1908. Becoming the Mrs. George Stockton, she and her husband owned and operated Stockton's Drug Store beginning in 1910 until 1961. Perhaps Howe's first true businesswoman, Stockton would travel by train during World War II to purchase 1,000 yards of cotton print and sell it to the ladies of Howe for $0.49 per yard.

After high school, without a college requirement, Stockton took a county exam and gained her certificate to teach.

She was a life-long member of the First United Methodist Church and was an advocate for Mame Roberts' Prettiest Little Town in Texas project as Stockton arguably maintained the prettiest yard in the prettiest town.

In a 1972 interview with the Howe Enterprise, she said, "I just love life. There's just not anything I don't like to do."

Bob Williams, May 12, 1933 - March 14, 2000. Bob Carl Williams was born in 1933 and grew up in Sherman, Texas and was a 1952 Sherman High graduate. His contributions to Howe are well documented during his 23 years as Senior Vice President of First Bank Howe. Williams was a charter member of the Howe Band Boosters, as well as serving as president of the Athletic Booster Club, and president of the Howe Lions Club. He was also involved with the Upper-Elm Red Water Conservation Committee and served on the Loy Lake Livestock Board of Directors. Williams used loaning money for FFA projects to teach students a lifelong lesson. He would take extra time to explain the details of a loan with each FFA student. Most of all he wanted them to learn responsibility, that if they kept their end of the agreement he would be there the next time they needed money.

Williams was often taken for granted as he quietly did whatever needed to be done for Howe, especially for the youth in the community. He worked in many places not seeking recognition for his deeds but doing all for the community he loved.

He was the recipient of the 1999 Norma J. Wallace Citizen of the Year.

Norman Bennett

Norman Jamison Bennett was born in 1932 and raised in Gainesville, Texas. Shortly after graduating from Southern Methodist University, Dallas, he moved to Sherman where he taught math at Sherman High and coached the tennis team in the late 1950s and 1960s. He then taught at Howe High where he taught in three different decades at Howe High School.

Bennett was known for his contagious smile, his knack for math, his ability to connect with and "mesmerize" his students. He would write math problems on the board with his eyes on the class the entire time.

While involved in his teaching career, Bennet also starred in plays and musicals at the Sherman Community Players Theater. Working at KXII TV, he hosted an afternoon movie show, "Dialing for Dollars", had roles in commercials, and was the weekend weatherman.

After his children were grown, Norman Bennett decided to earn extra money by auditioning for commercials in Dallas. In 1983, he starred in two movies - "Terms of Endearment", starring Shirley MacLaine and Jack Nicholson, and "Tender Mercies", starring Robert Duval - both movies winning Academy Awards. In "Terms of Endearment", he played the role of banker Edward Johnson, one of Shirley MacLaine's suitors. In the movie "Hope Floats", he starred opposite Sandra Bullock and Harry Connick, Jr.

Harold Taylor

Taylor is a hometown boy, graduating from Howe High School in 1956 from his class of 13. After attending North Texas State University, he began a 37-year career with the United States Postal Service including the last 13 as the postmaster in Howe from 1984-1997.

Taylor is the only person to ever be selected as the Norma J. Wallace Citizen of the Year twice (1987, and 1997).

Taylor was an active Howe Chamber of Commerce member and served as the treasurer of the Howe Lions Club for many years where he helped less fortunate children obtain eyeglasses. Taylor also served as Scout Master and Assistant Scout Master for many years for Howe's Troop 45.

Taylor was also a supporter of Howe ISD by becoming a charter member of the band boosters and also a supporter of the athletic booster club.

He and his wife have been faithful members of the First United Methodist Church of Howe for 59 years.

Linda Wall

Wall could easily be argued as the most important figure in the history of the Howe Chamber of Commerce. Her supreme volunteering spanned five decades in various organizations.

Coming to Howe during the 1970s during the Texas Instruments boom, as so many others did, Wall immediately became involved with the First United Methodist Church of Howe and her first volunteer activity was as a Cub Scout Den Leader. Being active in PTA and helping to push forward a plan to start a band program in Howe ISD, she joined other Howe community leaders such as Jean Norman to help form the Friends of the Library.

Her volunteer work with the Howe Chamber earned her not only respect but also the 1997 Norma J. Wallace Citizen of the Year honor. Her latest volunteer achievement was the upkeep and organization of Howe's free clothing distribution center known as Peggy's Porch.

Donna Wormsbaker

A hometown girl, born Donna Moses to previous Howe servants, the 1968 Howe High School graduate returned to teach in her hometown in 1976 as Howe's second ever kindergarten teacher. She's a lifelong member of the First United Methodist Church in Howe where her family has served for over half a century.

After a 38-year teaching career in Howe and 43 overall, Wormsbaker set off on a volunteer rampage dedicating her time to her city. The former teacher became involved with the Howe Area Chamber of Commerce, Peggy's Porch, and the Save the Church organization. But her true skills are seen as her work as executive director and president of the Keep Howe Beautiful organization. KHB annually holds a Trash-off as well as plants flowers throughout the city. Just as Hall of Honor member Mame Roberts did in the 1940s, Wormsbaker's dedication has helped lead Howe to be a cleaner and more attractive place.

KEEP HOWE BEAUTIFUL
YARD OF THE MONTH NOMINEE

Miss Mame Roberts, Texas school teacher who got her dander up and spurred her neighbors to make Howe a beauty spot. Rakes, hoes, and flowers did the trick.

"With a united effort we can make the place in which we live clean, wholesome, attractive. We can make the crowded city dweller homesick to come back to us and real living. We can bring new life, new business, new beauty, to the little towns." - Mame Roberts

An ordinary man with an extraordinary mission

Like many of you, I'm very sad about Billy Graham passing away. Those who are younger will probably not have the familiar connection with him like some of us older folks, but nonetheless, I'm sure his books and recordings will continue having a beneficial impact on future generations. Throughout my childhood, I remember my parents always dialed in our old television set to watch Billy Graham evangelistic crusades and even though as a typical child I thought church services were somewhat boring, I would still sit and listen. In fact, I may not have realized it at the time, but I'm convinced his messages had a positive effect on my spiritual calling and helped influence me into a life of ministry. Here is one of his more popular statements, "Being a Christian is more than just an instant conversion, it is a daily process whereby you grow to be more and more like Jesus."

He had such a mesmerizing voice and would speak with such passion that you could not help but feel this was a truth that was being relayed from heaven. I believe his sense of urgency along with expounding the ever-important subject about Jesus being crucified and where we are going to spend eternity caused his audience to be riveted to their seats. I recall when my grandparents would come to visit and if Billy Graham was on, my dad would tune in as his parents also appreciated Mr.

Graham's ministry. My grandmother would pull out her handkerchief and every now and then she would wipe a tear from her eye. I did not understand what was going on at the time but after I grew up I realized she was being blessed and moved deep within her soul.

In the church where I grew up, we had prayer alters around the stage and everyone was invited to come and kneel down and it was common to see them weep. Some would cry because of a crisis and some were repenting and asking forgiveness and yet others were often filled with joy. I believe this is a wonderful and natural reaction as we sense God's presence we can express how grateful we are for who He is. The determination to find a special place to meet with Him can open our spiritual eyes to how much we desperately need Him. We need more messages about yielding our will and inviting Christ to be the Lord of our life as Mr. Graham would always point out. At the funeral, Franklin Graham presented this quote from his father, "No matter what your problem is, if you and I could sit down and talk, I would want to tell you one great truth: God loves you, and He can make a difference in your life if you will let Him. God loves you so much that He sent His Son into the world to die for your sins. When we open our hearts to Christ, He forgives our sins and comes to live within us by the Holy Spirit. He also gives us strength for the present and hope for the future."

It's estimated that in his lifetime he preached to live audiences totaling over 215 million people in 185 countries. This along with his books and resources is more than anyone else has ever relayed the gospel of Jesus. He knew what God wanted to say and was used as a vessel of honor to demonstrate the authority of God's Word. Billy Graham was not perfect and I'm not trying to portray him as a saint, but it's obvious he truly loved people and had a burden to make sure everyone knew about salvation and eternal life. He was an ordinary man that God used to accomplish an extraordinary mission! It's never the charismatic personality, intelligence or ability of humans that can change another person, but rather it's the power of divine truth that convicts the conscience and allows God to transform a life. The opportunity for you to be forgiven and to accept the Lord is available right now as I close with this last quote, "God proved His love on the cross. When Christ hung, and bled, and died, it was God saying to the world, I love you."

glamorous interiors: they're easily tailored to fit various styles.

Glam design is synonymous with saturated jewel tones, mirrors (and mirrored furniture), eclectic figurines, metallics, richly tufted furniture, patterned wallpaper, and anything fancy.

So what are the different types of silver? The sterling standard is 11 1/10 ounces of pure silver in 12 ounces Troy weight of metal, and the remaining is copper. Troy weight is 12 ounces instead of 16. The U.S. Stamping Act of 1906 declared Sterling to be comprised of 925 parts of 1000 (.925, 92.5%) pure silver, with the remainder copper. American sterling is marked sterling or 925.

Prosperous folks in America in just about every city of any size took coins to the local silversmith to be melted down and fashioned into spoons, tankards, porringers, and other household items. The great majority of American coin silver dates from about 1790 to 1870. Master craftsmen were proud of their work and identified their items either with their initials or name on the back or bottom. In addition, the words coin, pure coin, dollar, standard, premium, or the letter "c" or "D" were placed on the silver to indicate that it was 900 out of 1000 parts silver—the standard of coins at the time. Some silversmiths added the town of origin or the American eagle.

German Silver is nickel, copper and zinc made to imitate silver, but it is slightly more gray in color. The name was dropped during WWI and the term nickel silver has been used.

Unlike the French and English, the Mexican government showed little interest in regulating the quality of their silver. Until the 1950s, Mexican silversmiths showed little regard for the 925 standard for sterling.

Silver plate uses the electroplating method of covering one metal with a thin layer of silver by electrolysis. Nickel, brass, white metal, and copper were commonly plated with silver. EPNS, EPBM, EPWM, EPC are the marks you might see on these pieces.

Quadruple incorporates electrodes used to attach 4 layers of ionized silver liquid to copper.

The number one rule however, is to not polish your silver, leaving it tastefully tarnished.

So incorporate tarnished silver in your décor and enjoy the soft glow of glam every day.

Silverplate and sterling silver decorative items had been out of favor among collectors and users for many years. As folks became older, they did not have use for silver pieces since they conducted formal entertaining less and less, and younger people did not want to waste time polishing something they considered too fancy for everyday use and too much bother for even special occasions.

That has changed with the increased interest of the decorating style called Hollywood Glam. Glam interior design is vastly different from popular styles like country, farmhouse, or shabby chic. It steals liberally from art deco, mid-century modern, and even industrial styles (just to name a few). It gives your home an ultra-elegant glow, whether you use luxe, high-end pieces dripping with crystals or tarnished silver or glittery gold. That's the beauty of

Lady Bulldogs win Chisum tourney

Torrey Stubblefield has been a dominant pitcher for the Howe Lady Bulldogs for many years now and she added to her shutout total on Tuesday with a 5-inning, one-hit 12-0 win over Rivercrest.

Cassidy Anderson had a monster game with six RBI going 2-for-4 at the plate including two triples.

The Lady Bulldogs racked up 15 hits with Payton Griffin, Erin Blackburn, Stubblefield, and Anderson each having a multi-hit game. Griffin led Lady Bulldogs with a 4-for-4 evening.

The Lady Bulldogs would later lose a pitching dual with Chisum, 1-0, with Courtney Hopper standing toe-to-toe with Chisum's Shelton. Howe only tallied six hits in the game in which Erin Blackburn had half of that total. Chisum scored their run in the bottom of the fifth inning, but Howe had the tying run at third in the top of the sixth, but couldn't push the run across.

Howe later beat Sam Rayburn, 8-1 to become tournament champions. Blackburn and Peyton Streetman went a combined 7-for-8 with six runs scored. Stubblefield gave up a leadoff triple to start the game that scored, but blanked Sam Rayburn the rest of the way.

Bulldogs beat Bells, Tom Bean

The Bulldogs beat Bells on Monday, 5-4 with Bryce Krantz getting the win on the mound. He went two and a third innings with four strikeouts. Dyson Dillard got the save. Peyton Reagan through four-and-a-third shutout innings at Tom Bean on Friday to help Howe to a 17-0 win. He also helped himself out at the plate by going 3-for-3, scoring two and driving in two. Howe combined for 17 hits. Six Howe batters had multi-hit games (Spencer Akins 3, Garrett Johnson 3, Kyler Anderson 2, Reagan 3, Dyson Dillard 2, and Cirby Coheley 2).

District play starts Tuesday at home versus Commerce.

Texas History Minute

Dr. Ken Bridges

Dr. Bridges is a Texas native, writer, and history professor. He can be reached at drkenbridges@gmail.com.

Muller was becoming increasingly renowned among scientists, and he was invited to serve as a special professor in physiology at the University of Chicago in 1925 before resuming his work in Austin. By 1926, Muller was able to conclusively demonstrate that x-rays caused lethal mutations in flies. The discovery cemented his reputation in the scientific community. By 1928, he was also able to show that high levels of radiation also caused fatal damage in other types of insects and in plants such as corn and strongly suggested that radiation also posed a danger to human beings. He came to write dozens of scientific articles outlining his many findings.

teach. Muller had a tremendous influence on his students, helping to train a number of important scientists. Dr. Wilson Stone, a longtime professor at the University of Texas, studied under Muller and continued his work on radiation and demonstrated how ultraviolet radiation affected bacteria and was later a consultant for the Atomic Energy Commission. Muller also helped train Dr. George Snell, who shared the 1980 Nobel Prize in Medicine for his work that showed the link between genes and successful organ transplants. Famed astronomer Carl Sagan also studied under Muller, working in one of his labs while still an undergraduate. Muller died at his home in Indianapolis in 1967 at the age of 76.

The gene is the fundamental building block of life. Genes determine how cells function and what traits are passed from one generation to the next. Little was understood about them when they were discovered in the late 1800s. However, the research of one Texas scientist and Nobel Prize winner, Dr. Hermann Muller, led to major breakthroughs in understanding the nature of genes.

Up to that time, very little was understood about the effects of radiation on animal tissues and cells. Scientists experimenting with radiation had reported strange burns and increased cancer rates for years. While the words “radiation” and “mutations” became embedded in the imaginations of many science fiction novelists, comic book creators, and the general public in the years to come, Muller’s experiments conclusively showed the destructive effects of high levels of x-rays on cells. The x-ray was quickly becoming an indispensable tool in medical diagnostics in the 1920s, but Muller’s discovery demonstrated the need to limit the power of x-ray scans and exposure.

Hermann Joseph Muller was born in New York City in 1890. His father was a metalworker, and his mother was a British immigrant. He became fascinated with biology at a young age. He graduated from high school at the age of 16 and entered what is now Columbia University. He ultimately completed his bachelors degree in biology in 1910 from Columbia and earned a doctorate by 1916.

Muller left the University of Texas in 1932 and spent the next several years working in labs and teaching at various universities in the United States and Europe. In 1942 and 1943, he worked once again at the University of Chicago where he briefly worked on aspects of the Manhattan Project, America’s top-secret effort to produce an atomic bomb during World War II.

In 1915, Muller was offered a position at Rice University in Houston as a biology professor and researcher. Rice had only been founded three years before, and its leaders were anxious to establish its reputation as a center for scientific research. He continued to focus his research on the genetics of flies and increasingly looked at genetic mutations. However, the lack of available lab assistants during World War I greatly limited his abilities to continue his research. He left Rice and teamed up with his former mentor at Columbia University. As part of the continuation of their work, Muller was able to determine by 1920 that the size of wings of flies was determined genetically, a major breakthrough in understanding genetics.

In 1945, Muller accepted a position as professor of zoology at Indiana University. In 1946, he was given the Nobel Prize in Medicine for his work in genetics, the most respected award in science. In his acceptance speech, Muller warned of the dangers of radiation, suggesting that there may not be a safe level of x-rays or other types of high-energy radiation. He spent the last years of his life warning about the dangers of nuclear war and radiation poisoning, calling for an end to the nuclear arms race of the 1950s and 1960s and calling for an end to nuclear testing.

He returned to Texas as a professor and researcher at the University of Texas in the fall of 1920. While at UT, he conducted some of his most important work regarding genetics. In 1923, he began using x-ray radiation in his genetic studies.

History of Howe schools as told from the lens of 1963

Marshall-Bean College located at the present location of the 1938 WPA Howe school (now administration office) on Denny Street.

HERE'S HOWE

By Mame Roberts

HOWE SCHOOLS

Dec. 5, 1963

The basic chapter of Howe is Howe schools. Howe schools have laid a solid educational foundation, from the beginning of the town and growing more solid as the years have passed.

No town could boast of a more brilliant educational leadership educators who led the crusade for a cultural community.

Beginning at the beginning, Howe was not always Howe, one time it was "Summit." A group of pioneer families from other states came seeking the opportunities and advantages that Texas had to offer. They chose this location because of its elevation, the highest point between the Red River and the Gulf of Mexico and other advantages for good homes. (Few remember the town Summit. There was a general merchandise store and a post office located along what is now known as East Young Street.)

With the coming of the Houston and Texas Central Railroad in the early 1870s, the town Summit was moved to the railroad and was renamed Howe in honor of a civil engineer, Major General Howe who directed the building of the railroad.

There was a need of a school. The first school taught in Howe was in a one room building. The teacher was Mr. H.D. Taylor, a lawyer from North Carolina. Mr. Taylor was a dedicated educator. He gathered the children together and taught them for two years with limited space and little equipment. He was the first Justice of the Peace Howe ever had. They nicknamed him, "Squire." Squire Taylor gave to the community seven sons and long years of service. One son, Henry, is a Howe resident today.

There was a need of a bigger school building. A two-story frame building was built just north of the now Kimball Milling Company's elevator and five teachers were employed. The well-known Texas educator L. Clyde Gee, was superintendent. The school had an outstanding music department headed by Miss Virginia Burke, and a room for the teaching of elocution.

As Howe grew so grew Howe schools. Marshall-Bean College, an imposing two-story brick structure where the present high school is located (Editor's Note: this location is block between Denny Street, Tutt Street, and College Streets), was the next step in educational advancement in Howe. Students came from far and near to enroll. The president, or head of the college, was the late J. Ray. He had a staff of ten teachers. Ray later became an Amarillo millionaire. The land for the campus of the college was donated by the late Captain W.H. Bean, a large community land owner. Captain Marshall, another colorful and prominent land owner in the Howe community furnished the money to help build Marshall-Bean College.

Captain Marshall came to Texas from Colorado in the early days of Texas' statehood and traded a horse and saddle for 140 acres of good black land west of Howe.

Other outstanding school superintendents were Will Mitchell, Professor Echols, and Hall Shephard.

Then Howe came into its own educationally. A new modern high and grade school building with a staff of 15 teachers and with a native son, Charles R. Thompson as superintendent, under whose administration the Howe Independent School District is quite enlarged. A ten-year building program is underway, a new elementary school building has just been completed, a new high school highlights future plans.

VOLUME IV

HOWE, GRAYSON COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 29, 1968

NUMBER 34

HOWE'S THAT ?

Guess 30 consecutive wins is not too bad a record, especially if that first loss is to a class 3-A school like Duncanville.

Howe girls dropped their first game, 48-40, Monday night in a practice game with the distant team. And, save for a few mistakes here and there, they would have beaten the hosts.

Like we said, though, 30 wins isn't too bad a record, and the girls' coach, Arthur Boyle, will probably be retained another year as coach.

Seriously, the girls have done a tremendous job this year under the guidance of Principal and Coach Boyle, and now face bi-district opponents, Celina in a best two-of-three series next week. I'm sure they would appreciate all the support that can be assembled for the contests. They deserve it.

Not mentioning any names, but an insurance salesman the other day was beaming over a life insurance policy he had just sold — to a 98-year-old man.

Said he: "You hardly ever hear of a man that age dying."

How many times have you forgotten your digits since Tuesday?

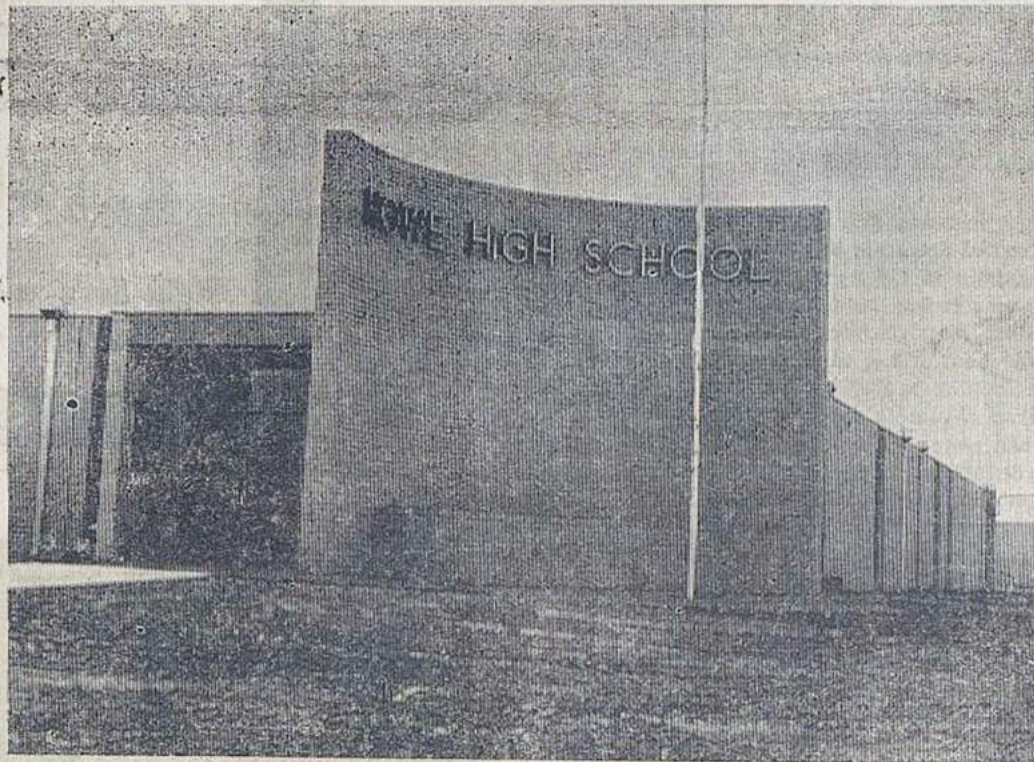

Since the changeover — the extended area service provided by General Telephone Company — providing toll free calls to Sherman, we're supposed to dial all seven numbers for both Howe and Sherman. Reason is, Howe's prefix, 532, ends the same as one of Sherman's, 892, and if you dial the 2 and four other numbers, a stranger may answer the phone.

Howe's Mayor Doug Wortham and Mayor Stephens of Sherman made the first "official" exchange Tuesday morning under EAS. Don't know what they said, but it must have been important.

Howe's that...

TEXAS INDEPENDENCE DAY was yesterday, March 2. On March 2, 1836, a group of brave and dedicated persons signed the Texas Declaration of Independence. That declaration was followed four days later by the fall of the Alamo to the Mexican forces led by Santa Anna. "Remember the Alamo!" has long been a part of Texas history, and proud Texans can remember the courage and determination of the men of the Alamo who fought to give Sam Houston time to put together the forces which finally won Texas her freedom at the Battle of San Jacinto on April 21, 1836.

The commander of the Alamo, William Barret Travis wrote the following letter "To the People of Texas and all Americans in the world:"

"I am besieged, by a thousand or more of the Mexicans under Santa Anna — I have sustained continual Bombardment & cannonade for 24 hours & have not lost a man — The enemy has demanded a surrender at discretion, otherwise, the garrison are to be put to the sword, if the fort is taken — I have answered the demand with a cannon shot, & our flag still waves proudly from the walls — I shall never surrender or retreat. Then, I call on you in the name of Liberty, of patriotism & everything dear to the American character, to come to our aid, with all despatch — The enemy is receiving reinforcements daily & will no doubt increase to three or four thousand in four or five days. If this call is neglected, I am determined to sustain myself as long as possible & die like a soldier who never forgets what is due to his own honor & that of his country — Victory or Death.

WILLIAM BARRET TRAVIS

HEARD ANY GOOD RUMORS LATELY? - Election time always seems to incite the rumor mill. Rumors are sometimes based on half truths, semi truths and non truths. I would like to offer the services of the Howe Enterprise in ferreting out the truth. If you hear a rumor, let me know and I will personally check it out. Since I don't accept anonymous letters, I will need your name, but your name will not be printed in the paper in connection with the rumor you have heard. If you don't want to check it out with me, please do check it out with someone in authority and please be sure to get your facts and figures straight before you pass it on to someone else.

CORRECT YOUR HISTORY BOOKS - China has announced the discovery of 62 more miles to the Great Wall. This section was discovered during excavations in China. So add 62 miles to the previous amount of 3,600 miles to keep your history book up to date.

EAT YOUR OATMEAL - Dr. Roger Shewmake, chief of nutrition at North Texas State University, has released the result of studies at NTSU that says a bowl of oatmeal each day keeps the cholesterol down, along with nasty fats that contribute to heart disease. Shewmake added 3 ounces of oatmeal to the daily typical American diet of 10 volunteers. He said oatmeal contains "dietary fiber" which is beneficial in the following way: bile is stored in the gallbladder, and after a meal it is dumped into the intestinal tract. After the bile has done its work breaking down fats, about 90 percent is reabsorbed by the body - unless you eat dietary fiber, which carries bile out of your system. That forces the liver to use fats and cholesterol to make more bile, thus reducing the amounts present in the bloodstream. The fiber also decreases your ability to absorb fats - and that is very helpful to dieters, too.

According to Shewmake the oatmeal may be eaten any style - boiled as a breakfast cereal, baked in cookies, griddled like pancakes, or other appealing recipes.

Easter Seal Telethon To Feature Local Talent

Mrs. Virginia Carter, chairman of the 1983 Easter Seal Telethon, has announced that preparations are underway for the fourth annual event which benefits the handicapped. The telethon will be broadcast March 26 and 27 on TV station KXII, Channel 12. The entire telethon will be done locally, using talent from the Sherman-Denison area.

The Easter Seal Society is a non-tax supported non-profit organization associated with the National and Texas Easter Seal Society. About 45% of the budget comes from United Way. The telethon and mail campaign are the major fund-raising events which make up the remaining funds needed to operate the local center. 92.5% of the funds raised by the telethon and the mail campaign stay locally for use in the care and treatment of handicapped children and adults who come to the center for rehabilitation.

Most area residents are familiar with the Easter Seal program in the Grayson County area. Many children and adults from the county come to the center for services such as physical therapy, occupational therapy, social services, speech therapy and preschool for the handicapped. Psychological and audiological testing are also available at the Easter Seal Center, 1216 Hillcrest, Sherman. All persons are eligible for services, regardless of race, creed, age or financial circumstances. A patient determined fee is used, with no person refused treatment due to lack of ability to pay. Children with birth defects, speech and hearing problems, and brain damage, due to accident or disease are treated at the Center. Adult patients consist of stroke victims, accident victims, hearing problems and various types of crippling conditions caused by disease.

Anyone interested in performing during the telethon may call Mrs. Hartman at the Center, 893-7457. The Center is open, 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Crop Insurance Deadline Nears

March 15 is the last day to apply for insurance coverage for cotton, corn, grain sorghum, and peanuts grown in Grayson County, Texas, according to Bruce Hottel, Director for District 7 of the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation (FCIC).

"Several new features for 1983 are available to producers who insure with FCIC," Hottel says.

A new Individual Yield Coverage (IYC) plan is available for producers of corn, cotton, dry beans, flax, grain sorghum, rice, sunflowers, and soybeans. This plan allows producers to establish a production guarantee based on their individual farm yield data. Farmers need to initiate requests for IYC through their local Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) at least 15 days prior to the closing date for that crop.

Producers who feed a portion of their crops to livestock and poultry may be eligible for an Individual Certified Yield (ICY) plan offered on corn, barley, grain sorghum and oats. "Having last year's production records qualifies producers for this plan," Hottel says.

Farmers participating in the Payment-in-Kind (PIK) program should consider the FCIC increased insurance guarantees of up to 10 percent which are available to them for their 1983 spring-planted corn, grain sorghum, rice, and cotton. "Percent increases in the FCIC guarantee are based on the amount of acreage reductions above the regular farm program set aside," Hottel states. To obtain full details, producers are encouraged to contact an agent authorized to sell and service FCIC crop insurance policies before March 15. To select an agent, or for more information, producers should visit the local ASCS office as soon as possible, Hottel says.

Drill Team Sweeps 2A Honors

The Howe Highlighters attended the Blue and Gold Drill Team Contest Saturday, Feb. 26, in Commerce and received all awards possible for Class 2A division.

The group won a Sweepstakes trophy by receiving overall 1's in the three routine categories. A trophy was won for the best jazz routine; one for the best high kick, and one for the best prop. Also they were selected as the best drill team in Class 2A.

For the first time ever, the Highlighters also received the Presidential Award. In order to win this award, the drill team must receive a perfect score of nine 1's, a 1 from each of the three judges in all three categories. This accomplishment earned the girls the right to travel to Houston for state competition this weekend.

VOE Students Compete

Council Denys Zoning Change

The Howe City Council met in special session Monday, Feb. 28, at 7 p.m. and voted to accept the Planning and Zoning recommendation on a zoning change for property in the south end of town on Hwy. 5.

The P&Z Board voted in January to deny the zoning request for a change from C-1 to C-2 to allow an auto sales and repair shop. The matter was tabled at the Feb. 17 council meeting in order for council members to study the matter.

A number of residents on Sunset street (whose properties are just west of the area in question) had protested the zoning change at the Feb. 17 meeting. Many of them also attended the meeting Monday night.

Councilman Sam Haigis asked to address the group since he had made several statements at the earlier meeting. Haigis said he had heard from a number of citizens and since he was elected by the citizens he felt he should represent their wishes. He also stated that he feels the Planning and Zoning members spent a lot of time on the matter and if they recommended against the zoning change the council should go along with them.

R.L. Cate said that since he was presiding at the Feb. 17 meeting as acting mayor he had not commented on his own feelings on the matter. He said he was in favor of following the recommendations of the P&Z.

Haigis made a motion to accept the P&Z recommendation and Cate made the second.

Councilmembers Jack Berry and Jim Huckaby also said they support the P&Z. The vote on the motion was 4-0.

Candidates File For Office

Two more candidates have filed for Howe City Council, making a total of four candidates for the two seats on council. (Note: Filing deadline was March 2 - after the paper was printed.)

Jerry W. Campbell, 25, who has lived in Howe for four years added his name to the list last Friday afternoon. Campbell is a service manager at Catching Farm Supply in Howe.

Also filing for council is Dale Rideout, 38, who has lived in Howe for 10 years. Rideout, publisher of the Howe Enterprise, works full time at Anderson Clayton Foods in Sherman.

Those who filed for council last week were Duward Mills and William Burns. Only one candidate had filed for mayor at presstime. R.L. Cate who has served on council for 12 years is seeking the office of mayor.

Three have filed for Howe School Board. Those who have filed are Bobby Solis, Bill Estep and incumbent Glenn Fulton. Two three-year terms are to be elected on April 2. (Note: the deadline for filing was after presstime for the paper).

Howe's That . . .

DRINKING FROM THE SAUCER

I've never made a fortune,
And I'll never make one now,
But it really doesn't matter
Cause I'm happy anyhow.
As I go along my journey,
I've reaped better than I've sowed;
I'm drinking from the saucer
Cause my cup has overflowed.
I don't have a lot of riches,
And sometimes the going's tough;
But while I've got my kids to love me,
I think I'm rich enough.
I just thank God for blessings
That His mercy has bestowed,
I'm drinking from the saucer
Cause my cup has overflowed.
If you give me strength and courage
When the way grows steep and rough;
I'll not ask for other blessings;
I'm simply blessed enough.
May I never be too busy
To help bear another's load;
I'm drinking from the saucer
Cause my cup has overflowed.

FOUR HOT DOGS! That's what grandson Jordan ate last Friday when he stayed at Nana Lana's house. He ate two (without bun) when my husband and I each had some hot dogs for lunch. Then when my son came home from work and had his lunch, Jordan wanted another hot dog. And a little later he, pointed to the refrigerator again and got another hot dog. I guess he was hungry!

Some days he eats a lot and others not much. He is at that stage where he wants to feed himself so he likes things like hot dogs and peanut butter & jelly sandwiches.

By the way, note to parents and grandparents of small children. Be careful when feeding them things like hot dogs and peanuts. Small children can choke on them. Jordan is good about chewing the hot dog, but some children try to "inhale" a hot dog and this can lead to problems. When Jordan has a hot dog, I watch to make sure he is eating slowly and chewing properly.

Doyle Murley shows off some smoked ribs.

T-N-T BBQ opens in Howe

Cooking great barbeque runs in the family

by Dale Rideout

It truly is a family business and Doyle Murley loves to talk and will be glad to tell you about it. T-N-T BBQ is located at 130 N. Collins Frwy in Howe. That is on the west side access road. If you get close, you can see and smell the smoke that makes their cooking so great.

The Murley family lives in Van Alstyne, and have been in this area for a couple of generations. Doyle, along with his dad, Bill, set up T-N-T BBQ and began cooking on the spot a few weeks ago. Doyle had previously worked for his uncle, Roy Hutchins, at Randy White's Hall of Fame restaurant in Frisco. Roy also own Hutchins Bar-B-Que in McKinney. Doyle says he learned a lot from his Uncle Roy, but also learned a lot from years of cooking and trial and error. He would use different spices and seasoning in various amounts, testing to see which he like best.

Well, he turns out a mighty good rack of ribs.

He uses only Baby Back Ribs. There is also brisket, sliced or chopped. The chopped brisket is simmered in sauce. Add some smoked sausage, hot links, turkey, ham, beef ribs, and by special order he will even fix chicken wings. Any for these great smoked meats can be ordered by the pound, by the plate, sandwich, or in family packs or party packs.

They also do catering and custom smoking including whole hams and turkeys. He even told me that he did a wild hog for someone recently. If you have any questions, give them a call at 903-771-6545.

Back to the family part of the business. Doyle's dad is Bill Murley and has been doing home remodeling for many years. Doyle worked with him until he health would no longer allow construction type of work. You'll often find Bill hanging around and selling the goodies. Bill's wife is Bea and she is retired from Bea's Child Care in Van Alstyne. I'll bet Doyle learned a lot about cooking from his Mom.

Doyle's wife for the past 29 years is Beverly. She brings some of her expertise to the business. She is a manager for Subway. Heath, their son, will sometimes be around when he is not busy working on his education. He is in the 3rd year of study with the University of Phoenix. Daughter Amber is the mother of two grandchildren, a boy 10 and a girl 3. Daughter Kelly may be around helping when she is not at her job with Golden Corral.

All this great Bar-B-Q is meant for take out, but if you stop by and are really hungry, they will find a table and chair and let you eat it there. You can also get chips and soft drinks. It makes a great lunch or dinner and by adding all the fixins you can entertain a group royally. Give Doyle a call or stop by and try his cooking. They are open Mon. through Saturday from 11 am to 8 pm, and on Sunday from noon until 7 pm.

Howe's that...

by Lana Rideout

As I write this, Tuesday morning, March 4, I can look out my window and see a beautiful sight. Everything is covered in piles of fluffy white snow. The sun is shining and the snow is melting, but earlier it was a fantasy winter wonderland like those you see on Christmas cards or calendars.

Area school children had a chance to play in the stuff because school opening was delayed until 10 am. I heard about a few snow people who decorated various yards in Howe, but I was unable to get out to take any photos. I did take a few photos from my yard.

All I can say about the snow is WOW! I am not sure just how much snow fell but "my best" guess estimate would be six inches or more. One report I read online noted that northern Grayson County was expecting up to 10 inches of snow Monday night.

Sadly, most of it will be gone in a few hours. I write this at not quite 10 am and the snow-laden trees are constantly dropping their bounty.

I was reminded of the following verse from the Bible, Isaiah 55:10 - For as the rain cometh down, and the snow from heaven, and returneth not thither, but watereth the earth, and maketh it bring forth and bud, that it may give seed to the sower, and bread to the eater

I believe there is another Bible verse that says something about the "treasures in the snow" - but I could not find it while I was working on this article. I do remember hearing one of my Bible teachers many years ago telling that snow has properties that are very beneficial to the earth, helping plants grow. (If you know this verse, please email me at lanarideout@cableone.net).

Helping children adjust to Daylight-Saving Time Change

by Michael J. Breus, PhD

Sunday, March, 9 at 2 am signals the beginning of Daylight-Saving Time (DST), when children across the country will have their clocks turned ahead and lose an hour of much-needed sleep each night - making the morning routine, daily school activities and extracurricular commitments that much more hectic. But with a couple of well-planned adjustments, the time shift needn't be a difficult one. Because children's sleep needs do not decrease and remain vitally important to their overall health, it's important for parents to consider the potential negative impact of losing just one hour of sleep - especially in light of the fact that many children age seven to 12 gradually begin to have later bedtimes.

Daylight-Saving Time, which affects a quarter of the world's population and entails a one-hour change twice a year, reflects a change in social clocks - not just biological ones, and new studies are showing that children don't actually adjust to these changes in time so easily - especially the "spring-forward" one. And for parents, this minimal loss of sleep can wreak havoc on children's natural sleep systems. Here are 10 tips parents can follow to ensure their children gain a good night's sleep despite the time change:

*Make sure that your child is well rested, prior to the change.

*Maintain your child's regular sleep, wake and nap times. Try not to compensate for the lost hour by delaying

Howe's That

by Monte Walker

I just thought that I was going to be neighbors with Paris Palacios. Technically, we have been neighbors downtown since August, but I haven't exactly moved in yet. By the time I move in, she will have moved out.

Paris' idea of downtown was the same as mine. She envisioned it to be fun. The downtown area was fun when Paris decorated for Halloween. She spearheaded the downtown candy giveaway and made it a downtown tradition. After I bought the building next to her, the first thing she wanted to know is if I was going to get my freak on for Halloween. I think she was a little disappointed in me. Well, a lot disappointed in me.

I guess the torch has been passed again. It seems like yesterday that the buildings were owned by Bob Estep. With the sell from Paris to Tom and Leslie DeFrance, the downtown district seems like the floor of the New York Stock Exchange.

Please drop by anytime, Paris. You will always be a part of downtown.

Another downtown building sold

103 E. Haning St. has sold from Paris Palacios to Tom and Leslie DeFrance

On Friday, the paperwork was finalized for the 103 E. Haning St. building to change ownership from Paris Palacios to Tom and Leslie DeFrance. Palacios has ran a hair salon called Designer Cuts in the building since 2005. After being downtown for 10 years, she said she will miss it greatly.

"I'm going to miss my building," said Palacios. "I love my building, but it's going to somebody who cares about the town and the integrity of Howe and that makes me more comfortable to let it go."

The sale of the building makes six of the seven units having been sold to new owners in a little over a year. The building that houses Don's Smokehouse was the first to sell. In August, M.E. Curtis sold the corner hardware store to Monte Walker, who is currently renovating it to become the Chamber of Commerce and Economic Development office. In January, Georgia Caraway purchased the three buildings, 107-111 E. Haning St. and is refurbishing those units as well. The entire row on the south side of downtown are
