

Howe's That

Hats off to the chamber board members this week who delivered a wonderful weekend for Howe. Chamber President Robert Cannaday, along with board members Sheryl Bentley, LeAndra Beckemeyer, Sarah Whitt, and Tom Defrange worked tirelessly to help honor and entertain for Howe. If you see them, thank them.

Having been gone for a week (Sunday through Thursday), this is one of the few times I've ever had to put a publication together in virtually 24 hours. Thankfully, most of today's news happened over the weekend and the news that did happen early in the week, I was able to get some help on. Thanks to all that send me information. Without you, I'm not sure how this would get done.

Back to being gone, if you think Howe and Van Alstyne have a rivalry outside of high school sports, you're wrong. Jodi Carr of the Van Alstyne Economic Development Corporation and I spent the week in the same learning sessions at the University of Oklahoma Economic Development Institute. We even discussed with certain Austin officials on projects that we might even be able to work on together. Jodi started one semester before I did, therefore, she graduated this week and walked the stage where I have two more classes left. I did NOT boo her as Van Alstyne finished ahead of Howe. Not out loud anyway (I kid). Actually, while our towns are very similar externally, they are vastly different internally and it's interesting to learn how different two similar cities can be.

Congrats Jodi and the Van Alstyne EDC on your EDI diploma! I'll catch you in August.

A couple stopped by the chamber office to inform them that they rode their motorcycle from Weatherford to a town they'd never heard of just to see a good band and enjoy the downtown festival. With over 60 vendors including food options, the 32nd Founders Day Festival surpassed the 2016 event as the most attended and the most fun. Tomlin Investments sponsored the headlining band Texas Flood which not only rocked the downtown area, but also drew people to Howe from the metroplex.

Todd Creekmore once again won the Advantage Business Machines Lawnmower race (Samuel Cherry was disqualified for sprinting with a push mower).

The event saw barbecue, street dogs, popcorn, shaved ice and more. Kids were able to enjoy a bounce house, obstacle course and a kid train. Limbo was a huge hit with the kids this year.

A wine-tasting event took place at 5:30 with four local wineries involved.

The chamber wants to thank all who helped make this year a huge success.

Lady Bulldogs march to the regional round after winning on Saturday. Michelle Carney/Howe Enterprise.

Thursday, but rain led to wet fields which pushed the playoff round to Sunnyvale, however, that was also canceled leaving Rockwall as the final stop in somewhat of musical chairs in playoff scenarios.

A one-game series with lots of rest was just what the doctor ordered with their 4-year starter Torrey Stubblefield in the circle in a win-or-go-home situation. Stubblefield did her job by only allowing one earned run on the day, but it was the bats that fueled the area championship. The Lady Bulldogs collected 11 runs on 16 hits including four blasts over the wall. Cassidy Anderson, Payton Griffin, Peyton Streetman, and Stubblefield each drove the ball out to help pave the way for victory.

Howe broke a scoreless tie in the bottom of the second inning when Courtney Hopper scored on a fielder's choice by Karsyn Fleming. Moments later, Hannah Dwyer singled to score Griffin.

The Lady Bulldogs scored four more runs in the bottom of the third inning when Streetman led off the inning with a blast over the wall. Hopper later doubled home Stubblefield and Griffin followed with a 2-run bomb to give Howe a 6-0 lead heading into the fourth inning.

Alba-Golden scored two unearned runs in the fourth inning, but the Lady Bulldogs bats stayed hot in the bottom of the fourth when Anderson took one deep for a 2-run homer and Stubblefield made it back-to-back homers to give Howe a 9-2 lead headed to the fifth.

Alba-Golden then scored another unearned run in the fifth and two earned runs in the sixth to cut the gap to 9-4.

Howe added their final two runs on a hard grounder up the middle by Fleming that scored both Stubblefield and Hopper.

The first seven hitters in the lineup had multi-hit games for the Lady Bulldogs. Erin Blackburn, Streetman, Anderson, Stubblefield, Hopper, Griffin, and Fleming each had two hits in the game. Hopper had the games only double. Fleming's three RBI led Howe as Griffin and Anderson trailed with two each.

Stubblefield struck out 10 batters in her 7-inning performance. She allowed four hits and four walks and surrendered only one earned run.

Howe (14-11) will face Mineola in the region quarterfinals this week.

Donna Jarma, a former associate of Norman Bennett and teacher at Howe High School, had the pleasure of introducing him to the audience. Jarma played the emotions as being comical and yet serious during her introduction and themed her talk about "Nice guys do finish first." She told stories and brought a memento which was Bennett's tennis hat that he had given to her. She introduced him by saying, "Hats off to you."

Bennett's speech was humble, yet dazzling and often had the crowd in tears of laughter. He first asked everyone to pass up their homework to him. He then remarked that he couldn't have been in a better (Hall of Honor) class as he taught Tommy Skipworth, and taught the children of Harold Taylor and Bob Williams.

Harold Taylor was appreciative of the honor and thanked the audience. He gave credit to his leadership style to his former

Bulldogs eliminated in the first round of playoffs

It was a tumultuous Whitesboro 6-run first inning that did the Howe Bulldogs in on Friday night. With the Bearcats winning game one on Thursday, the first inning Friday proved the be the proverbial burst of the balloon for the 'Dogs.

Whitesboro (18-3) took Thursday's game from Howe (12-9) by a score of 7-3. Peyton Reagan pitched three-and-one-third inning and allowed three earned runs on six hits. The Bearcats took a quick 1-0 lead in the top of the first and added a run in the third, two in the fourth, one in the fifth, and two in the sixth. Howe got a run in the fourth and two in the seventh against the Bearcats' Scout Sanders.

On Friday, Bryce Krantz got the call on the mound and struck out the first batter of the game, however, that's where the fun ended for the Bulldogs. Krantz hit the second batter then allowed three straight hits including a two-run triple. After a strikeout, Whitesboro then singled, doubled, was hit by a pitch, and drew a walk which all accounted for a 6-run inning.

The Bearcats starting pitcher Lake Longford faced one over the minimum hitters through four innings as he silenced Howe's bats. For total, Longford went all seven innings, allowing only three hits, and one walk. Both of Howe's runs were earned which came in the sixth inning when Kyler Anderson tripled home Chase Barnett and Layton Elvington.

Howe's three hits in game two came from Anderson's triple and singles from Reagan and Dyson Dillard.

In game one, Cirby Coheley had the only multi-hit game for Howe by going 2-for-3 with an RBI. Howe's eight hits were scattered by Cade Courtney, Spencer Akins, Reagan, Krantz, Garret Johnson, and Mason Riggs. Riggs pitched effectively in game one by going two innings and allowing no earned runs on one hit.

The team was coached by James Beebe and Bill Jehling.

teacher Maxine George who helped him adjust to a new school back in the early 1940s.

"I wanted to be just like her and I've tried to live by that rule of doing unto others as you would have done to you," said Taylor. "I told my boss when I got the postmaster job here that I would do my best to treat people right and not try to be a big boss or a power. I just wanted to be a common ordinary postmaster."

Jay Skipworth was emotional as he accepted the honor for his father Tommy Skipworth. "It's truly a great honor and he would have greatly appreciated this."

Betty Williams was in attendance to accept the honor for her late husband Bob Williams.

"Bob was a great guy and we've missed for 18 years," said Betty Williams. "Thank you to everyone for voting for Bob. This is a great honor for our family."

Howe's Economic Development Director Monte Walker stated that it was important to recognize leaders that have paved the way for future leaders to take their place.

"Their impact not only serves our generation but future generations because the things that Mr. Bennett taught me, those get instilled in my kids," Walker told the audience. "Leaders like that make huge impacts for half a century or a century so I think it's important to honor those who come before us and trailblaze a path for us."

The event was catered by the Howe PTA and funds generated from ticket sales will go towards the purchase of banquet chairs or the chamber of commerce.

Howe Church of Christ celebrated 85th anniversary last Sunday

The former Howe Church of Christ building on Highway 5

The first church in Howe to be known as the Church of Christ began meeting during the years of the Great Depression in the Howe High School Building which was the Marshall Bean College in the location where the present administration office is located. Clyde Carter assumed a great deal of responsibility in the work. Records show that the average attendance for that first year was 52. By the following autumn, attendance had grown to an average of 62, and the church moved its meeting place to a store building owned by W.A. Wilson (which later became a fire station and now a free parking lot). Rent was $4 a month but later increased to $5. A borrowed tent for a gospel meeting was demolished by a wind storm, but the debt was forgiven. It's probably a good thing because the treasury record showed a balance of "sixty-two cents cash-on-hand!" Sickness and bad weather added to the harshness of those years and there was never enough money to pay a preacher regularly.

Despite the hardships, destitute families were given benevolent aid, money was sent for missionary effort, funds were sent to Boles Home and Tipton Home orphanages, and everyone pitched in to make the meeting place more commodious.

In February 1937, the church began meeting in another store building owned by Mrs. George Stockton, near the center of the business section of Howe. Records show some signs of prosperity as rent was $8 per month and attendance grew to more than 80. Plans began to be made for erecting a church building.

The following year, their building plans began to materialize when Mrs. Kreager (mother of Willis Kreager) donated a building site in the second block south of Highway 5 (near First Baptist Church). With more able members contributing generously, and everyone giving their time and means, the white framed building was completed in December 1938.

In June 1968, the congregation began meeting a new brick building that they had constructed near Highway 75 (now housing Community Bible Fellowship). The rapid growth of Howe in the late 1960s renewed the growth of the church with new families compromising an active part of the congregation.

In the early 1990s, the church once again constructed a new church and again on Highway 75, just a little further to the North to its present location at 1205 N. Collins Freeway.

Howe City Council remains with incumbents winning all three seats

Howe City Councilman Sam Haigis at a July 2017 council meeting. Haigis received the most votes in 2018.

Although results are not final until the mail-in ballots have been tallied by tonight's end, it appears very unlikely to be a change in the current electronic ballot figures from the city elections held on Saturday. All three incumbents for the Howe City Council will return for another two-year term. Sam Haigis led all vote-getters with a total of 60 (30.93 percent). Georgia Richardson and Darren Foster each received 58 votes (29.9 percent each) to secure their seats for another term.

Total ballots cast for early voting plus election day were 194. Often times voter turnout is much higher when citizens are unhappy with the way things are going which could indicate the townsfolk are okay with the direction of Howe.

Around 430 votes were cast in Van Alstyne for each of the mayor and alderman elections. Around 240 voted in Whitewright. And Tom Bean had 152 votes in their council election. The Pottsboro council election saw 382, but 1,157 for school board.

"With a united effort we can make the place in which we live clean, wholesome, attractive. We can make the crowded city dweller homesick to come back to us and real living. We can bring new life, new business, new beauty, to the little towns." - Mame Roberts

Have any Tips for Buying Stocks with Confidence?

Taylor Kovar

Hey Taylor - I've had money sitting in an Ameritrade account for months, and I have yet to move on any stocks because I'm afraid I'll have immediate buyer's remorse. Any tricks for picking out good shares so I can buy with confidence? – Martin

Hey Martin - If you don't mind, let's replace the word "tricks" with "strategies." There's not really a code to crack when it comes to trading stocks. Instead, it's on you to develop a strategy that keeps you honest and helps you find the best value. Here are a few things to keep in mind.

Stay within your wheelhouse. For whatever reason, people are constantly buying shares in companies they've never heard of. I can't think of a crazier thing to do with your money. That's like giving a stranger a thousand bucks, asking for a yearly return, and not signing a contract. If you're going to invest in a company and stake your own money on that enterprise's success, don't you want to know what the company does? Better yet, don't you want to believe in the product that company sells? If there are items you constantly buy and use, you're probably a fan of whoever makes those products. I'd much rather you buy shares of a business you trust and understand than some highly-touted tech company which you have no idea about.

Balance creative thinking with controlled buying. To find good value you need to think about what markets, industries, and services are poised for growth. Once you have a sector in mind, consider the peripheral businesses and industries that influence the market in question. For example, if you're interested in electric cars, you might want to research businesses that manufacture innovative batteries. By finding smaller organizations that bigger companies depend on, you could discover an excellent business that's undervalued by the general public. If you're still investing in companies you trust, a little creative thinking can be a good way to diversify your portfolio without taking on too much risk.

Don't be afraid of a sale. The stock market is the one place where people don't seem to like a bargain. If the price drops on plane tickets, you rush to book a flight; when the asking price for a stock goes down, people run for the hills. If you have confidence in a particular company, buying after the stock price plunges can be a smart move, but be sure you have good reason to believe the company will recover from whatever caused the dip.

The long and short of my stock-buying advice is to be smart about it. Buy within industries you know, get shares of companies you like and understand, and then stay the course. As long as you don't try to outsmart yourself, you and the Dow should get along just fine.

God does not force us to love Him

For those who are interested in the life after this one, there is no doubt some curiosity about where we are going and how to get there. The followers of Christ place their faith in His promises and believe He has the power to save and secure a place in heaven for them. Others who prefer to live their own way are somewhat more skeptical and independent in their thinking. As a minister, I spend most of my time thinking, talking or writing about our spiritual life and most of the time the conversation will include questions about our progress according to God’s perspective. On one hand, the Bible is a simple instruction manual teaching us how to live the Christian life and on the other hand, it’s perceived as a complicated and mysterious collection of messages that most of us cannot understand. This is why it’s crucial to pray and invest our time asking Him for the heavenly interpretation of what He is trying to say. Knowing God personally and obtaining His wisdom is not easy. It requires diligence and perseverance and is much like searching for buried treasure.

I probably attend more funerals than the average person because of how often I officiate them. When families are grieving, it’s very difficult to find words that comfort and I’ve learned that most of the time silence is golden. We do not like funerals or cemetery’s because they remind us of the end of life and especially for those who are not ready to face God, this explains why they choose to avoid them. Funerals are an occasion where we are not only paying our respect for the one who has passed on, but many also sense anxiety as they are reminded of their own fate. I believe it’s good to discuss this because we should not deny that death is a part of living. In fact, a funeral is a perfect opportunity where God can clearly speak to someone’s heart and have their attention long enough to introduce Himself. Yes, we are given a choice to follow Christ but just because we are convicted by our need to surrender our life to Him does not mean we will go through with it. He will never force anyone to love Him.

When I’m at a funeral, I’ve noticed there is always someone declaring the deceased as now living in the glories that are beyond the imagination. For the Christian, this is a wonderful truth but being an heir unto salvation is more than being a hard worker and having an easy-going personality. Evidently to the masses, these attributes, whether they were a Christian or not, allows everyone a guaranteed passage to the eternal joys of walking on the streets of gold. I’m not trying to sound negative, but this idea is confusing because I cannot find the Biblical confirmation. Of course, we cannot know what is in someone’s heart or judge their intentions but as followers and messengers of God’s Word, we know that God does require everyone to be accountable to the gospel. If society teaches there is no responsibility or commitment to have a personal relationship with Jesus Christ, this sends a dangerous message of false security to those who still have a chance to be redeemed.

There are many people today who are convinced that everyone is going to heaven, and if funerals are being used as an indicator then it does seem so. However, from God’s view, we are told that it’s all about the spiritual association with who we loved and considered our Lord while we were alive. Inviting Christ into our heart and allowing Him to be the Master of our life is our response to receiving His atonement. Knowing God is the purpose and meaning of everything. Salvation is not based on us being a decent person but rather on His grace and no amount of good deeds could ever be a substitute for being born-again. There is no need to dread a funeral or a cemetery because those who are in covenant with Jesus Christ are celebrating their victorious release into a sin-free realm where they will live in peace with God forever. The ultimate concern and consideration is to make sure we are prepared to meet Him.

Ruiz 4 Kids 2019 ‘mini-grants for teachers’ application on-line

Ruiz Foods, CA: Ruiz 4 Kids has opened the application process for the Mini-Grants for Teachers Program for the 2019 school year. The deadline to submit an application is Friday, July 13, 2018. Teachers must mail in the application to their local Ruiz Foods facility. Address information can be found on the application overview document on the Ruiz 4 Kids website.

“Investing in the education of our children, is investing in our future,” said Jeanne Ulcak, Ambassador, Ruiz 4 Kids Denison. “We understand that the needs of the teachers to provide a quality education should not weigh on just the budgets of the school districts, but come from all available resources. This is why we created the Mini-Grant Program. Our goal is to help teachers grow the creative side of education and show their students there is more to learning than sitting in a classroom.”

The grant is open to public school teachers in grades K-12 who are within a 50-mile radius of Denison, TX. Grant awards range from $300 - $1,000. To align with the objectives of the Ruiz 4 Kids organization, teachers interested in submitting a grant are reminded to ensure their intended projects are creative and will enhance their students learning experience. Grant recipients are also expected to report on the expenditure of grant funds and results of the supported project at the end of the funded school year.

The Mini-Grants for Teachers Program is funded solely by Ruiz Foods employee donations. Ruiz 4 Kids does not use any of the donated money for administrative or other costs. In other words, all funds donated to this program by Ruiz employees go directly to the Mini-Grants Program. In 2017 Ruiz 4 Kids donated $9,793 to area teachers. Since 2015, Ruiz 4 Kids has awarded $31,491 to teachers in the Denison, TX area.

For additional information on grant criteria which includes Funding Priorities and how to apply visit, <http://www.ruiz4kids.org/mini-grants/> and click on the links under “To Apply”.

Texas History Minute

Dr. Ken Bridges

American government is founded on the idea of ordinary men serving others. Bob Bobbitt served as a judge, legislator, and state attorney general. He spent a life dedicated to quiet public service. He took opportunities when he found them, but ultimately, he was, as he told many friends and family, an ordinary man looking to be useful.

He was born Robert Lee Bobbitt in January 1888 on a cotton farm near Hillsboro, just north of Waco. His father was a pioneer in the Hill County area, arriving after several moves west from what is now West Virginia to Missouri and eventually into Texas. He grew up on the farm and watched it steadily increase in size and wealth.

As was expected of children growing up on farms, he spent his childhood working the fields. His days were mostly long hours day in boiling heat or freezing cold tending to crops and animals or whatever else was needed, which was the experience of many children of that time. Bobbitt's father hired many people to work the farm over time, but he was still expected to work as hard as any of his father's employees.

As a young man, he enrolled at Carlisle Military Academy in Arlington, which is now the University of Texas at Arlington. He then transferred to North Texas State Normal College in Denton (which is now the University of North Texas). Though his family was one of some means, he worked his way through college taking a serious of odd jobs. He graduated from North Texas State in 1911. He then attended the University of Texas Law School in Austin, where he earned his law degree in 1915.

Bobbitt married in 1918. The couple later had one son who himself became an attorney. He served briefly in the army during World War I and was honorably discharged in 1919. After his service, he settled in Laredo where he became a partner in a prominent local firm. Bobbitt quickly became active in the Laredo community, organizing civic organizations and getting involved in politics.

In 1922, Bobbitt was elected to the first of three terms in the state legislature. During his time there, the state was still reeling from the fallout from the impeachment of Gov. James E. "Pa" Ferguson in 1917 over kickbacks and mismanagement of state funds. The sordid mess surrounding Ferguson deeply offended Bobbitt's sense of integrity. He led the fight to prevent Ferguson from regaining his ability to again run for political office, though he lost the fight in 1925.

Bobbitt was a respected figure among fellow legislators. He rose to become Chairman of the House Judiciary Committee. Fellow legislators honored him by electing him the 48th Speaker of the Texas House for the 1927-28 term. Customarily, speakers served only one term at a time in the Texas House, a tradition largely observed until the 1950s.

In 1928, he was elected district attorney for a four-county district in South Texas. He did not serve long in the position. In 1929, Attorney General Claude Pollard resigned to take a corporate position, and Gov. Dan Moody tapped Bobbitt to become interim attorney general. He ran for a full term in 1930, losing to Jimmy Allred in the Democratic Primary. Though disappointed by the loss, Bobbitt was not the kind of man to hold a grudge for long. He supported Allred in the fall election and in his later run for governor.

Bobbitt did not stay out of the public eye for long. He was soon elected as an appeals judge, moving to San Antonio once elected. In 1937, Gov. Allred appointed Bobbitt as chairman of the Texas Highway Commission. Over the next six years, Bobbitt worked to expand the state's network of highways and modernize as many as possible.

After 1943, he spent most of the remaining years of his life as an attorney in San Antonio, taking an interest in education as a trustee for Texas A&M University at Kingsville and later for the University of North Texas. He rose high in the ranks of Texas politics and emerged scandal-free.

In 1971, his beloved wife of 53 years died in San Antonio. Bobbitt's health declined quickly after that. He died in August 1972 at the age of 84.

Local charities receive checks from Sherman Service League a week following events

It has become a "must-attend" event on the Grayson County social calendar, and this year's Charity Ball, Run for the Roses has been hailed as one of the most successful to date, with the event raising more than $125,000.

There were more than 500 community supporters of the Sherman Service League volunteer-driven event who attended the Charity Ball at the Texoma Event Center on Saturday, April 14th, 2018. The annual community event allowed the Sherman Service League to fully fund the monetary requests of all 18 charitable recipients. With a renewed spirit, the event not only raised money to support the missions of the non-profits, but also fostered fellowship and deepened commitment to the community,

$125,000 has truly life-changing benefits for the selected 18 charities. "The ball brought together a fantastic mix of philanthropists, business people and partygoers all with one aim: to have a good time- DOING

GOOD!" commented the Charity Ball's Chair, Kate Corder. "With our guests, sponsors, the charitable horse races, the silent and live auctions, the wonderful food and the great band, the Sherman Service League members created an evening where everyone had a great time and left knowing that something worthwhile had been achieved."

The Ball's major Platinum sponsor was Ruiz Foods. Ruiz Foods, along with the numerous additional sponsors, allows the Sherman Service League to champion the needs of those less fortunate in our local community.

"The Charity Ball provides an opportunity for the Sherman Service League to communicate our cause and vision for impacting people in the community in a meaningful and deep way," said April Curran, President of the Sherman Service League. "The League is so much more than Charity Ball. We work alongside our recipients in volunteer hours, we donate food and services, and help any way we can."

Memories of joy not to be forgotten

Samuel Moore-Sobel is a freelance writer. He is currently working on a memoir and publishes a blog which can be found by visiting www.holdingontohopetoday.com Follow him on both Facebook and Twitter.

“Uncle Danny passed away,” my mother told me rather unexpectedly. I had just seen him about six months before, talking with him after the funeral of a distant relative. He seemed in good spirits, talking in an excited and engaging tone just as he always had. He was singing the praises of a woman he was dating, making his excitement over this newfound relationship known. “It’s the worst thing in the world to wake up in the morning alone,” he said. He spoke of the importance of companionship, an idea that transcends both time and age.

He looked to be in good shape, still golfing regularly and living actively. Despite his eighty-six years, I detected no signs that this would mark the last time I saw this man with a large yet gentle presence. “He was gone before he hit the floor,” a cousin told my father. His heart giving out, ensuring that his passage into the next life was presumably rather painless. Although this does little to dull the pain experienced by mourning family members and friends alike.

One cannot help but ponder the frailty of life in these moments. Here one day, gone the next. We know not the hour in which we will pass, our knowledge failing to extend beyond the reality that inevitably, our time will eventually come. A sense of urgency should seemingly surround our daily interactions, as we attempt to live a life of meaning with the time we have left; yet sadly, it oftentimes takes moments such as these to come to grips with the fragility of the human experience.

I had always liked this gregarious man, although I hardly knew him. Our interactions did not extend much beyond the yearly Hannukkah party, a handful of family events and funerals. Hence why the minute I heard this unexpected piece of news, my thoughts turned to my father. Uncle Danny was greatly revered in my father’s eyes – second only to my great-grandfather, for whom I am named.

“How are we related to him again?” My brother asks, unable to keep the confusing family tree straight in his head. My father launches into a convoluted explanation, unable to clearly articulate the nature of our relationship with this man we have always called uncle. “Because they are sisters,” my father says, referring to Danny’s daughters. Making a point entirely unrelated to the question at hand. My mother jumps in, as she often does, because she understands my father’s story far better than he knows his own.

Jewish families are known for the inclusion of far-ranging members, combining families in a manner that was quite foreign to my Gentile mother when she first entered the family. Uncle Danny was my grandfather’s brother’s wife sister’s husband. Completely clear? “We don’t share the same blood,” my father says. Proving that blood often plays only a minor role in determining the people we choose to love and respect.

Dad recounts some of the past advice this man offered him as a young child. Apparently, Uncle Danny stressed the importance of “discipline and getting a good education.” My father always says his uncle was far more adept at disciplining him than his own parents, a fact he was grateful for as he grew into adulthood. Regardless of his sound advice, Uncle Danny had a penchant for legendary practical jokes that were apparently related with smiles at his funeral. Even at a somber moment as this, the mirth that pervaded his life could not be tamped down.

Death can summon a set of complicated emotions previously thought to be adequately explored and resolved. Sometimes, grief can be more about what the person symbolized than the essence of the person and the life they led. For my father, this man symbolized what could have been. He longed for a closer relationship, believing the outcome of his own life would have undergone a dramatic positive shift. Whether or not is certainly up for debate; but for my father, it all seemed far too clear to not be true.

Days later, my father would attend Daniel Levin’s funeral, doing his part to honor the memory of this elusive yet looming figure by serving as a pallbearer. Those of us who knew Uncle Danny will miss his ready smile, warmth, intelligence and charm. We will remember the light he brought into every room he entered, along with the ever present twinkle in his eyes. He was, as they say in Yiddish, a true “mensch.” A real man, greatly respected by all he encountered. May he rest in peace.

Living with children

John Rosemond

Q: My 4-year-old daughter, when I do something that upsets her, like reprimand her for something, begins to cry and tell me that I don’t love her anymore. (She’s actually very obedient and well-behaved, so the incidents in question are quite small.) When I’m finally able to calm her down, I reassure her of my love and explain that Mommy getting stern about something she has done doesn’t mean I don’t love her. This began about six months ago, shortly after she turned four, and despite my reassurances, it’s getting steadily worse. Are some children just more naturally insecure than others? Is there something else I need to be doing?

A: It may be that some children are naturally at the high end of the “sensitive” scale and therefore more thin-skinned than most when it comes to being reprimanded. I’m not aware of any research on this issue, but enough parents like yourself have testified to having emotionally-delicate children to convince me that there’s some innate quality at work here. Then there’s the bell-shaped curve, which predicts that relative to a “sensitivity norm,” a minority of children will be hyper-sensitive and a somewhat equal minority will be hypo-sensitive.

Regardless, children – all of them – if given the opportunity, will produce great drama, and it would appear to me that you are certainly giving your daughter the opportunity. In the first place, you obviously take your daughter’s operatic outbursts seriously enough to think they warrant equally serious reassurances. In my experienced estimation, these comforting conversations you have with her are why her “sensitivity” to your discipline has become more and more of an issue over time. In short, she has an audience for her drama, so she puts on bigger and bigger productions.

Not that it is her conscious intention, but her drama also serves to distract attention away from her misbehavior and focus it on the rather silly issue of whether or not you truly love her. Granted, it’s not silly to her, but little does she know you would give up your seat in a lifeboat for her.

It is axiomatic that if one wants to raise up a child into emotionally-sturdy adulthood, one must treat said child as if he or she is, in fact, already emotionally sturdy. Children rise (or sink) to expectations. Therefore, my advice to you is to stop allowing yourself to become sidetracked by your daughter’s drama. The next time you discipline and she begins to cry and claim emotional orphan-hood, simply say, “We’re not having that conversation again...ever. You misbehaved, I reprimanded you, end of story. Now, if you need to cry, you may go to your room until you can get control of yourself.”

Children need equal amounts of love and leadership. Love is not your problem. You obviously need to begin working on strengthening your leadership muscles.

We've been using the prize-winners shown recently in the local project show, in our "favorite recipes" column. Last week we used a cake recipe by Gay Cooper, and missed the recipe for the frosting, which was on another page.

We've included it in this week though, so if you baked a cake from the recipe and don't have any frosting on it yet, get to work.

Winners Listed In Booster Club Ball Tournament Here

Winners in each division in the recent Booster Club volleyball tournament here were announced by the club.

First place winner in the men's division was Howe Independents with the Collinsville Rockets taking second place trophy and Howe State Bank team winning consolation honors.

In the girls' division, City Cafe of Pilot Point won first place trophy, with the Tioga Westerners taking second place and Collinsville Rockets, consolation.

The Booster Club expressed appreciation to all who assisted in the tournament. Proceeds will be used toward local athletic programs.

C of C Banquet Plans Complete

Officers and directors to head Howe Chamber of Commerce during the next year were named last Thursday night at regular monthly meeting held at the City Cafe.

Postmaster James Davis was elected president to replace outgoing president Ray Houston.

New officers will be officially installed at the chamber banquet Saturday night, May 11.

Other officers are Coy Pool, Vice-President; Fred Newton, treasurer, and Bob Walker, secretary. Directors named are: Pool, Chester Ruffin, Newton, and J. W. Reed. Holdover directors are Glyn Hestand, Davis, Roy Williams, Houston, W. E. Hightower, Doug Wortham, Bob Fagala, George Barnes, and Walker.

Lee Herring of Grand Prairie will be speaker for the banquet, to be held at the high school Homemaking department. Tickets are available from chamber members.

An outstanding man and woman of the Howe community will be honored during the banquet, selected by local citizens by ballot (the ballot is printed in this issue of The Enterprise). Deadline for returning the ballots to the chamber is Monday, May 6. Citizens honored at the banquet last year were W. E. Hightower and Mrs. C. R. Keeton.

Howe State Bank Deposits Nearing $3 Million Figure

Deposits at Howe State Bank reached an alltime high during the past quarter, a report of condition April 18 reveals.

Deposits at the end of the quarter totaled $2,744,584.05, an increase of more than $600,000 over a year ago.

Total assets of the institution stand at $3,163,046.14.

Fund Totals $516

Contributions to a "Karon Borden Fund" started here about two weeks ago totaled $516 Wednesday morning.

The fund was started to assist the family with mounting hospital and other medical costs following an auto accident in March in which Mrs. Borden was seriously injured. Contributions may be made at Howe State Bank.

Howe Methodists Change Name

In view of action taken by the General Conference of the Methodist Church now meeting in Dallas, the Howe Methodist Church will be renamed The Howe United Methodist Church, Rev. Norman Bouffard, pastor, said this week.

The name was actually changed last Tuesday, April 23rd, when The Methodist Church officially united with The Evangelical United Brethren Church in rites held at Memorial Auditorium in Dallas, which brought the two national bodies together.

This action will be part of the Fourth Quarterly Conference of The Howe United Methodist Church, held Friday night, May 3rd, at 7:30 p.m. at the Tom Bean Methodist - Presbyterian Church. This final business meeting of the year is most important because at the meeting all work of the year will be reviewed and consideration will be given to plans and proposals for the next year. Rev. Bouffard said. All officers of the churches are to be elected; some 74 different officers covering the whole range of the life of the church.

The pastor will give his annual report to the congregation and all the business will be run by the chairman of the conference, The District Superintendent from Sherman, Reverend Henry Mood. He will be free to question anyone, Rev. Bouffard continued, but especially such leaders of the church as Bob Armstrong, Chairman of the Board, Mrs. Harold Taylor, president of the Wesleyan Service Guild, Mrs. N. D. Moses, chairman of the Commission on Education, Wayne Gray, chairman of the Commission on finance, and Harold Taylor, church treasurer.

The meeting is open to the public, but members and officers of the church are expected and urged to attend, Rev. Bouffard concluded.

Father Of Mrs. H. K. Caldwell Dies Of Burns

Funeral services were held Saturday at Mineral Wells with burial in Elmwood Cemetery.

DEMOCRATIC PRIMARY VOTING SATURDAY; POLLS OPEN 8:00 A.M.

Howe area voters will cast ballots Saturday, May 4, in the same location as the recent city council election, in the old Taylor home directly north of First Baptist Church, Election Judge A. L. Reeves said this week. Voting hours will be from 8:00 a.m. until 7:00 p.m.

Eligible voters must bring a registration slip in order to cast their vote in this primary election, Reeves said. The registration slip did not have to be presented in recent local elections.

Another new rule in the election stipulates that candidates on the ballot who have no opponent(s) will not receive your vote if you do not place an "X" in the square beside the name of the candidate.

Included on the primary election ballot will be three propositions which "are only an expression of public opinion and have no force or effect as law".

The propositions are:

For or against enactment by the Texas Legislature of a law permitting the legal sale of liquor by the drink in wet areas only after approval by local option elections, and which sale would be subject to strict regulation, effective controls and taxation thereof."

For or against "enactment by the Texas Legislature of a law permitting horse racing with pari-mutual wagering on a local option basis; creating a Texas Horse Racing Board with power to regulate same; granting two per cent total pari-mutual pool each day to each county where there is a licensed race track; and apportioning among all other counties one-half of the total state net revenue from that source;" and

For or against "enactment by the Texas Legislature of a law creating the Texas Dairy Commission with the power to regulate and fix the retail and wholesale price of milk."

Offices and candidates on the ballot, in the order listed, are as follows:

For Governor:

Preston Smith
John Hill
Johnnie Mae Hackworthe
Dolph Briscoe
Don Yarborough
Eugene Locke
Waggoner Carr
Edward L. Whittenburg
Pat O'Daniel
Alfonso "Al" Veloz

THAT

Don't throw away those Easter baskets, kids.

Come Saturday, if the water isn't too deep, the Chamber of Commerce sponsored Easter egg hunt will be held.

If this weather continues, however, it may be rescheduled for July 4, or somewhere thereabouts.

Anyway, the Chamber has the eggs, and we can't eat the things, 900 of them.

Lake Texoma continues to rise, as the rainiest season in several years continues. Local fishermen probably remember the spring of 1957, when heavy rains caused the lake to hit a peak of 6.40, and go over the spillway, something the engineers in charge of constructing the thing said wouldn't happen in 100 years. Maybe not, but it's close to doing it again, as resort roads, picnic tables, etc. in several areas are already under water.

We were staying at Texoma a couple of weeks during the 1957 rains (or trying to) and witnessed the fast rising water and flooding. And believe it or not, we caught more catfish during that time than we ever had before. Fishing was limited, however, as the resort owner where we were trying to stay made the rounds almost nightly, warning of tornado alerts and the like, and a couple did hit in the area, at or near Perrin Field.

Several people were observing the cfm's at the dam last Sunday afternoon, while others were lined up and down the river banks trying to intercept fish coming upstream. It's all an unusual and rare sight.

Another year of education is almost over, giving teachers two or three months to recuperate and prepare for the coming year, and students an opportunity to plan strategy for the year.

One final bit of knowledge by a youngster in the elementary grades:

The youth had a bad habit of saying "darn", of which his mother voiced disapproval.

"Dear," she said to the boy, "Here is a dime. It's yours if you will promise not to say 'darn' again."

"All right, mother," he said as he pocketed the loot.

"I promise."

Departing with the dime, the youth added:

"Say mother, I know a word that's probably worth a dollar."

City-wide cleanup week, approved by city council at last regular meeting, will get underway Monday. Schedules for city pickup of garbage and trash were announced this week.

In addition to regular runs of the garbage truck, the city trash wagon will cover the entire city Wednesday, according to City Clerk George Barnes, and will pickup in the area south of Haning Street Thursday afternoon, and north of Haning on Friday afternoon.

Anyone having trash placed for pickup which happens to be missed by the city crew may call the city office and the trash will be removed, Barnes said.

To coincide with the cleanup program, city is currently enforcing the ordinance relating to unregistered and unlicensed vehicles. Ordinance calls for the notification by mail to the owner, who then has ten days in which to remove the vehicle or qualify it as an operable vehicle.

Garbage ordinance will also be enforced, council decided at last meeting. Following cleanup week, which ends next weekend, city crews will no longer pick up garbage in containers which do not qualify under the ordinance, which calls for a maximum of 30-gallon containers, either metal or plastic. Council was told crews have been picking up the garbage in paper sacks, which fall apart due to rains, buckets, and other containers, which slow operation of the collection system.

Bank Debentures Approved

$100,000 debentures, voted and approved by stockholders of Howe State Bank in January, received final approval by the directors of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation this week, Joe Wallace, chairman of the board of the bank, announced Tuesday.

Revenue from the debentures will increase the capital structure of the bank to $340,000, Wallace said.

The debentures, in denominations of $500, are available first to stockholders of the bank owning 75 or more shares, to protect shareholders interest in the bank.

The Howe Corporation, a subsidiary of the bank, will buy and sell purchase rights for the debentures at 10c per share, Wallace said. Thus, smaller stockholders may be able to purchase rights from the corporation which will in turn, entitle them to purchase debentures, which yield 8% interest, paid semi-annually.

Since the debentures are actually equity in the bank, and not deposits, Wallace continued, they are not insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. The debentures will be convertible to stock in the bank after the first year at option of the holder or the bank, at $50 per share or at two times book price, which ever is greater.

Stockholders will receive a notice of offering of the subordinate capital debentures and their availability "probably by the end of next week" Wallace added.

Scouts Camp At Lake Texoma

Webelos scouts and Boy Scouts and dads camped out last Friday night and Saturday at Camp Grayson on Lake Texoma. Those attending were: Webelos, Paul Johnson, Tod Corbin, David Norman, Ricky Perkins, John Martin, Tom and Dave McCullough, Stacy Raney, Tracy Goldston, Kevin Mitchell, Timmy Woodbridge, William Kelly and Dr. Ned Culp, Webelos leader. Jack Norman, Assistant Webelos leader; Sam Haigis, Cubmaster, Tom Johnson, Terry Corbin, Cadar Perkins, Glen Mitchell, Boy Scouts: Tony and Tommy Wall, Johnnie and Jamie Jones, Clark Sutton, Jerry Taylor, Glen Culp, Brooks Haigis, Scott Mutchler, Roger Sandman, Travis Emery, Dennis Willis, Chuck Burroughs, Jim Sutton, Scoutmaster, Harold Taylor, Assistant Scoutmaster, and Tom Wall.

Webelos scouts prepared breakfast of bacon and eggs and the Boy Scouts cooked hamburgers for lunch Saturday. Cracker Barrel Friday night was furnished by the Boy Scouts.

Rev. Tom Johnson made hickory whistles for each boy and showed them how to make one.

Scouts and dads participated in a rope contest Saturday with Glen Mitchell as time keeper. Teams of five took four pieces of rope and tied them together with different knots. The first boy tied a fisherman's knot, the second a square knot, the third a sheep bend knot and the fourth threw the rope over a limb and the fifth took the rope and tied a bowline knot around himself. Last, the other four had to pull the rope to lift the fifth.

A nature hike was taken and Saturday afternoon tired Scouts and Dads returned home.

Next Boy Scout meeting will be Monday, May 14.

Chamber Buys Girls Softball Equipment

Chamber of Commerce members last Thursday night approved purchase of $310 in softball equipment for the proposed girls league here. Wes Lankford was authorized to purchase the equipment, including bats, balls, protection equipment, bases, etc.

Lankford said enough girls had signed for the program to create ten or more teams.

Playing field, to accommodate two teams at one time, is planned by the chamber on city property near the West Access road. Construction of backstops has been delayed in recent weeks by continuing rainfall.

In other business, members voted to accept a Van Alstyne invitation to participate in that city's Centennial parade in July;

Voted to sponsor a fall festival here, with dates to be set later;

Heard a report on the "Newcomer program by Mrs. Mozel-

Howe's that...

RAMBLINGS - Sometimes when I go to Denison to get the paper printed, I just get a soft drink and crackers for lunch. The other day that is what I did and my daughter who saw the empty soft drink can said, "Mom, have your been eating junk food again?" I guess if we mothers can scold them for such bad habits, they should be able to scold us!

It is better to laugh and forget than to forget to laugh. How true. If something bad happens, just remember in 20 years no one will even remember!

The rain Monday was nice, wasn't it? The biggest problem I had was getting in and out of the car with an umbrella and not getting wet. I did not manage it very well. I haven't figured out a graceful way to do it.

The electricity was out for a short time Monday morning in parts of Howe. One of my daughters at the middle school was pleased. She said the "blackout" came during a math test.

THE FIRST AMENDMENT to the Constitution of the United States guarantees the freedom of the press. Newspapers can print fair comment or criticism of government and public officials without fear of censorship. No one can tell a newspaper what to publish or what not to publish (within guidelines of libel and privacy laws).

However, a newspaper has a responsibility to serve its community, its readers. In keeping with that responsibility the Howe Enterprise attempts to fairly represent all people of the community who wish to express their opinions in "letters to the editor" or who wish to have an item published concerning birthdays, parties, awards won, new babies, social and school groups, etc. We invite and encourage reader participation in "your home town newspaper."

'Friendly Visitors' Needed

The Texoma Area Agency on Aging, in conjunction with the Grayson County Extension Service Aging Committee and the Grayson College SAVE program is looking for 20 interested volunteers to become a part of a very needed service in Grayson County - THE FRIENDLY VISITOR PROGRAM.

'Friendly Visitors' will be invited to attend a short one-hour program orientation on Tuesday, May 10, at Grayson College. At this time, the purpose and role of the 'Friendly Visitor' program will be explained, and a brief overview of Nursing Home policies will be discussed.

Presently, there are 12 Nursing Homes in Grayson County with nearly 1400 resident beds. Often many of these older individuals do not have family members close by to visit with them on a regular basis. Friendly visitors will be assigned to one or more residents to visit on a weekly basis and would be asked to donate at least one hour per week of their time to this project.

The quality of life of the older residents in Nursing Homes can be greatly enhanced through this special service.

For more information pertaining to this upcoming training, please call Janis Gray or Nancy Coffey at the Texoma Area Agency on Aging, 786-2855.

Kindergarten Pre-Registration

Kindergarten pre-registration will be held Wednesday, May 11, from 3 to 5 p.m. in the Kindergarten Room at Howe Elementary School. Bring child, birth certificate and shot record.

PICNIC TABLES - These members of the Howe High School Vocational Agriculture classes are shown putting the finishing touches on the picnic tables that the classes are building and selling as a fund raising project. These picnic tables, which sell for $100, give the students experience in metal working as well as woodworking in the Vo-Ag shop.

VHS Movies At Howe Library

It is time once again for a new group of VHS movies to arrive at the Howe Public Library for your viewing pleasure. As most of you know, we get a new shipment of movies every two months and we are expecting our next packet of films next week. Here is what will be available for library patrons to check out in the months of May and June.

Amarcord - Magali Noel, Bruno Zanin, Pupella Maggio - R. Federico Fellini's nostalgic look at life in a small Adriatic town during the 1930s.

Murder By Death - Eileen Brennan, Truman Capote, Peter Falk - PG. An eccentric millionaire invites the world's greatest detectives to his home to involve them in a baffling murder case.

Mickey Mouse & Donald Duck Vol. 3 - 6 cartoons starring Mickey Mouse, Donald Duck, Pluto, Goofy, Chip 'N' Dale.

Klute - Jane Fonda, Donald Sutherland - R. Klute, a private eye, searches New York City for a sadistic killer.

Close Encounters of the Third Kind - Richard Dreyfuss, Teri Garr, Melinda Dillon PG. The story about man's face-to-face encounter with aliens from outer space.

Mary of Scotland - Katharine Hepburn, Frederic March, John Carradine. Hepburn plays the Scottish queen sentenced to death by jealous English rival Elizabeth.

Romeo & Julie-8 - Animated feature in which two robots fall in love and run away on a tour of the universe.

Blood & Sand - Tyrone Power, Linda Darnell, Rita Hayworth. Peasant boy rises to become Spain's greatest bullfighter.

Flower Arranging Made Simple, Part 1 - Lee Maher teaches the fundamentals of flower arranging.

The Last Wave - Richard Chamberlain, Olivia Hamnett - PG. A lawyer becomes submerged in ancient ritual when he attempts to defend an aboriginal tribesman accused of murder.

An American in Paris - Gene Kelly, Leslie Caron. A lush original musical built around George Gershwin score.

Adventures of Huckleberry Finn - Mickey Rooney, Walter Connelly, Mark Twain's immortal classic tale of a young boy's life in early 20th century rural America.

Sergeant York - Gary Cooper, Walter Brennan, June Lockhart. Biography of the once pacifist Sergeant York, World War I hero, who captured over 100 German soldiers single-handedly.

Ordinary People - Mary Tyler Moore, Donald Sutherland, Timothy Hutton - R. A drama about a family torn apart by guilt and the lack of communication.

Let It Be - Beatles. A filming of the sessions that were required to produce their hit album "Let It Be."

Friday The 13th, Part 2 - Amy Steel, John Furey, Adrienne King - R. Five years later at Camp Crystal Lake and the gruesome killings continue.

Wallace Is S&L Examiner

Steve Wallace, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Wallace of Howe, is working as examiner for the State Savings and Loan Commission working out of the Dallas office.

A graduate of Howe High School, Wallace played football at Texas A&M as a walk-on for the 1979 Aggie Football Team. He also was a member of the Austin College Football team for three years. He graduated from Austin College with a BA Degree in Business Administration/Economics.

While attending Howe High School, Wallace was a member of the football, track and tennis teams. An honor graduate of HHS, he was senior Class Vice President and Football Captain. He made the All-District Football team for two years and was voted Mr. HHS and Mr. Touchdown his senior year.

SPECIAL COUNCIL MEETING

Does Howe Need A City Administrator?

Howe Mayor Jerry Kirby has called a special meeting of city council for Thursday, May 5, 1983, at 7 p.m. at the Howe City Hall.

Items on the agenda are:

1. Discuss position of city administrator - whether to retain the position, or the man;
2. Discuss the ordinance pertaining to the above subject.

Mayor Kirby said the entire meeting will be open to the public, and he encourages people to attend the meeting. If the crowd attending is too large for the City Hall building, Mayor Kirby said the meeting will be moved to the Community Center (the former Christian Church building located on the corner of Denny [Hwy. 5] and O'Connell).

The mayor requests citizens to speak their opinions on the matter, either for or against. "I will recognize each and everyone who wants to speak," he said. He added that the meeting would be conducted in an orderly fashion.

School Board

To Meet

The Howe School Board will meet in regular session Monday, May 9, at 7:30 p.m. at the Administration Office.

On the agenda are: approve minutes of April 11 meeting, approve accounts payable for May, review financial report, review athletic revenue report, review attendance report, enter into agreement-child nutrition program for 1983-84, enter into agreement-commodity division for 1983-84, establish board priorities for inservice program, enter into executive session - personnel.

Correction

In the City Council article in the April 28 issue of the Howe Enterprise, Councilman Sam Haigis was misquoted. Instead of saying that the members of the Baptist Church believe the tennis courts are the responsibility of the Haigis said in his opinion it was the responsibility of the church. We regret the implication that Mr. Haigis was speaking for the entire church. His intent was to express his own opinion on the matter.

News

Don't forget to go by the sale and treat mom to a cake for Mother's Day - Sunday, May 8.

The Howe Band Boosters are planning a bake sale for Saturday, May 7, beginning at 10 a.m. at the Tom Thumb parking lot in Sherman and at 10 a.m. at Super S in Howe.

"Ask The Mayor"

Do you have a question you would like to "Ask The Mayor"? Mayor Jerry Kirby has agreed to answer any question from the citizens of Howe in a weekly newspaper column to be printed in the Howe Enterprise.

If you have a question, suggestion, compliment, or gripe, please send them to either Mayor Kirby at Rt. 2, Box 197, Howe or to the Howe Enterprise at Box 488, Howe. Please sign your letter. The name may be withheld from publication if requested.

Howe's
That . .

FOUNDERS' DAY was a lot of fun last Saturday. If you missed it, be sure to plan to come next year. The parade was excellent and there were several fun events going on throughout the day. Lots of hamburgers and sausages on a stick were sold. Cake winners were named and cakes auctioned off to benefit the memorial park. More on this next week.

Jordan and Amber enjoyed the day. I think Jordan thought the town was throwing a party just for him. He thought he owned the downtown block of Howe. A couple of times he went out into the crowd when no one was watching him closely. He didn't get lost or scared, but his mom or grandpa quickly went in search of him. He especially enjoyed the spacewalk, or "jumping" as he called it.

Amber enjoyed the day too. She ate a snowcone, soft pretzel, and more. She also enjoyed the parade, especially the Howe High School Band.

I would like to say thank you to all the folks who helped the day to go so smoothly. Scott Jones was the chairman for the entire event and I am sure he appreciated all those who worked hard on their various events and jobs.

Steve Parish Joins
Incumbents On School Board

With close to 800 total ballots cast in the Howe School Board election, incumbents Gail Catching and Glenn Fulton were re-elected to three-year terms. Steve Parish was elected to the one-year unexpired term vacated by the resignation of Jim Lough who is moving out of the district.

The vote was canvassed and certified by the school board at a special meeting held Monday, May 3, at 5:30 p.m.

The results are as follows with the vote broken down by absentee, Dorchester and Howe boxes:

THREE YEAR TERM
Carolyn Ebey: 9 + 10 + 53 = 72; John Lewis: 8 + 11 + 56 = 75; Gail Catching: 66 + 55 + 307 = 428*; Glenn Fulton: 55 + 31 + 293 = 379*; Joe Freeman: 23 + 13 + 163 = 199; Debbie Thornton: 39 + 36 + 279 = 354.

UNEXPIRED TERM
Wayne Swineford: 30 + 15 +

192 = 237; Sherry Kelley: 14 + 15 + 88 = 117; Steve Parish: 49 + 24 + 212 = 285*; Barbara Lawson: 9 + 15 + 76 = 100.

In other business, the board accepted the resignation of Coach Billy Hill and voted to employ Elizabeth Ann Sullivan as special education teacher.

Bledsoe Re-elected Mayor,
Peters, Waller Win
Council Seats

Incumbent mayor Ray Bledsoe was re-elected by a margin of 8 votes. Bledsoe garnered 268 votes to 260 for challenger O.B. Powers.

In the city council race incumbent Duane Peters was re-elected and Carrie Waller, a former city council member, was elected, both are taking two-year seats on the council. Peters received 404 votes and Waller received 362. Others on the ballot were Kenneth Wilson with 115 and James Merriott with 95.

The city council met Tuesday night, after the paper's deadline, to canvass the vote. That meeting will be reported on in next week's Enterprise.

GCC Trustees Elected

Grayson County voters elected four trustees to the Grayson County College board of trustees in the May 1 election.

Jack Norman and John Chumbley, both from Howe, were re-elected to three year terms on the board. Norman received 3,501 votes and Chumbley received 3,982. Mary Moses, a newcomer to the board, was also elected to a three-year term with 5,472 votes.

Ruby Jo Williams, running unopposed for a two-year unexpired term, was also elected to fill the seat of Carol Shea who left to serve as a Grayson County Commissioner.

In the race for U.S. Senator,

Kay Bailey Hutchison, a Republican, and Bob Krueger, a Democrat appointed to fill the seat vacated by Lloyd Bentsen who was appointed to President Clinton's cabinet, will face each other in a run-off in about a month. Grayson County voters favored Hutchison over Krueger by 34.8% to 29.4% of the vote. Statewide Hutchison and Krueger each had 29% of the vote. The race included 24 candidates. Joe Barton and Jack Fields were the nearest challengers each with 14% of the statewide vote.

Locally and across the state, the three school finance amendments failed to pass.

Lesa King Part Of Winning Team

Lesa King of Howe is a member of the Texas A&M University Student Chapter of the National Agri-Marketing Association, whose student team won the national marketing team competition for 1993. The competition was held April 19-20 in conjunction with the NAMA Annual Convention in Orlando, Florida.

King was one of the 15 students who prepared and presented a detailed marketing plan in competition with teams from 25 universities. The Texas A&M team developed their plan for a hypothetical pharmaceutical product. The product, called Pas Vac-Lk, is a vaccine for Pasteurella pneumonia, a major contributor to bovine respiratory diseases which cause an estimated $700 million in losses annually. The written plan and team presentations in Orlando included market analysis, strategy, action plans, financial and contingency plans. A nation-wide organization for agri-marketing professionals, NAMA consists of 30 regional chapters with more than 2,200. King, a graduate of Howe High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe King of Howe.

Howe Middle School cheerleaders led an all-school TAAS pep rally for 8th graders during home room period earlier this week. The rally was to encourage test participants to do their utmost to excel in this round of TAAS test-taking.

The Howe Middle School Band under the direction of Elaine Rulla, provided the music.

It is expected that all students realize the extreme importance in this one way to measure academic skills. All teachers and students strive daily toward academic excellence under the administrative leadership of principal, Tom Skipworth.

There has been light snack-breakfast for all 8th graders, each morning before beginning the testing. Students have expressed appreciation for their extra special treat.

Eighth grade cheerleaders were inspired to plan this educational rally - go for the TAAS! They did an excellent job and appreciation goes to: Michelle Harmon, Tela Troxtell, Tiffany Orr, Whitney Farrington, April Taylor, and Shannon Mitchusson.

Howe's that...

by Lana Rideout

Saturday, May 3, the
Howe Volunteer Fire
Dept. will be holding their annual Car Show downtown
Howe, in the parking lot area behind Finn's Restaurant.

The show is set for 10 am to 2 pm and there will be activities for all ages. Door prizes will be given away all day. Go to howevfd.org for a form to enter the car show.
Be sure to drop by for all the fun and visit with friends and neighbors.

Texas is a fun place to live. Just about every day of every month you will find something interesting going on. This time of year especially you will find parades, festivals, citywide garage sales, craft shows, car shows, carnivals, and much more.

I picked up a few brochures at the Texas Travel
Information Center in Wichita Falls last Friday. One in particular was of interest to me. It is called "Guide to Depression Era Roadside
Parks in Texas."

I remember taking vacations with my family back in the 1950's and early 1960's. We would pack up a picnic lunch and off we would go. We stopped at a roadside park when it was time to eat. These concrete and brick tables and benches under the trees provided a lot of memories.

When I looked at the brochure, I noticed that one of these roadside parks is in Grayson County, on Hwy.
693.5 miles north of Denison. I think I remember stopping there with my husband and children when we were on an outing up toward Lake Texoma.

The city of Tom Bean was awarded a $125,000 grant from the Office of Rural Community Affairs (ORCA) on Monday for water improvements/upgrades. A celebration was held at the Community Center in which several dignitaries, city employees and media were on hand for the awarding of the "big check" shown in the photo. From left to right included Blake Moore (Texas House of Representatives District Coordinator), Alexandra Gamble (ORCA), Cathy Pugh (City Secretary), Tammy Phillips (Court Clerk), Freg Griggs (Public Works), Sherry Howard (Mayor), David Phillips (Public Works), Tim Glendening (Planning and Management Consultant) and Chris Reynolds (ORCA). HOWE

Council holds short meeting

by Lana Rideout

The Howe City Council finished business in seven minutes for their April 22 regular meeting.

Mayor Michael Jones proclaimed May as Motorcycle Safety and Awareness Month.

According to DPS, the 852,781 licensed motorcyclists in the state can improve their own safety by following this advice from DPS:

- *Attend a professionally taught motorcycle safety course. (Call 1-800-292-5787 for information.)

- *Wear protective equipment, including a helmet, whenever riding.

- *Ride defensively.

- *Avoid risk-taking behavior, such as speeding, weaving in between traffic and riding while intoxicated.

Nationally, almost half of all motorcycle fatalities involve alcohol.

In 2006 (latest statistics available), 346 people in Texas died as a result of motorcycle crashes-63 percent of those were not wearing a helmet. Texas law states that in order to be exempt from wearing a helmet, a person must be at least 21 years of age. In addition, they must successfully complete a motorcycle safety course or be covered by a health insurance plan providing at least $10,000 in medical benefits for motorcycle-related injuries. DPS recommends all motorcycle riders wear helmets. Drivers in vehicles other than motorcycles should realize that motorcycles are sometimes difficult to see, so keep an eye out for them. Don't cut them off, and give them extra space.

City Administrator Steve McKay discussed proposed changes for use of city buildings and facilities. He plans to clear out the small building across the east alley from City Hall and make room for two desks and office space for Jerry Campbell and David Wortham. The building is currently used for storage. McKay said he can find space for the stored items in the City Hall building.

City Hall has received a makeover in portions of the building and McKay has a few more minor changes in mind to help make the best use of the space.

An application by Ken Gracy for subdivision plat 18.321-acre tract of land situated in the J. W. Hayhurst Survey, Abstract No. 530 was withdrawn from the agenda.

The consent agenda was approved as presented and Rick West of IESI was unable to attend the meeting to present information on recycling. The item will be on the May meeting agenda.

Statement by Kathleen Hartnett White, Director of the Center for Natural Resources On Gov. Rick Perry's request to waive the federal ethanol mandate

"The Governor is correct to call for at least a partial waiver of the federal mandate for grain-based ethanol. Our federal government's policies to subsidize and mandate the ever-expanding supply of ethanol are causing massive distortions in our economy, multi-billion dollar losses to our livestock producers, and severe hardships for Texas families.

"It takes 21 pounds of corn to produce one gallon of ethanol. One person could be fed for an entire year from the corn that we're instead cooking for a single pickup tank of E-85.

"This year, the United States will convert 30 to 35% of its corn harvest into ethanol. Federal mandates and subsidies for ethanol production are generating a supply that will be far beyond what the United States is able to use.

As the Governor noted, global food commodity prices have nearly doubled in the last three years, with corn rising even faster. Those higher prices are just now starting to show up on our grocery shelves, and Texas consumers are in for real pain unless we quickly move more corn back from our fuel supply to our food supply.

"A 50-percent waiver of the ethanol mandate is a good immediate-term step to alleviate the pain from spiraling food inflation. But with each new day bringing stories about double- and triple-digit increases in the price of food staples, domestic food rationing, and Third World food riots, the solution will only come when the U.S. Congress wakes up and reverses its mad rush toward ethanol."

VAN ALSTYNE

FM 121 bridge replacement Detour set for area east of Van Alstyne

Texas Department of Transportation officials began placement of project signs and barricades Tuesday, April 22, 2008 with representatives of North Texas Bridge Company, Inc. of Plano, Texas to discuss the upcoming replacement of two bridges on FM 121 at East and West Prong of Sister Grove Creek east of Van Alstyne in Grayson County. This project is federally funded and is part of the States on system bridge replacement program designed to upgrade deficient bridges on the State highway system.

The work will consist of replacing the old bridge structures with new bridges that are 44 feet wide and 297 feet long. Contract cost for the project is $1,138,591.42 and 59 working days have been allowed to complete the project. The contractor began placement of project signs and barricades Tuesday, April 22, 2008 with representatives of North Texas Bridge Company, Inc. of Plano, Texas to discuss the upcoming replacement of two bridges on FM 121 at East and West Prong of Sister Grove Creek east of Van Alstyne in Grayson County. This project is federally funded and is part of the States on system bridge replacement program designed to upgrade deficient bridges on the State highway system.

In order to expedite construction, two crews will be working simultaneously so that road closure time is minimized and the contract timeline is met. A signed detour will be in place routing traffic on to FM 2729 north, to FM 902 west, and then south on to SH 5 back to Van Alstyne.

The traveling public is requested to give attention to construction signs, barricades and flagmen, and to approach work zones with caution, courtesy, and patience.

Howe's That

by Monte Walker

1,359 miles separate Howe, Texas from Baltimore, Maryland. It seems as if it might as well be half way around the world as we sit in our comfy chairs in our sweet little town who's most confrontation seems to be whether to have the chicken fried steak or the chick fried chicken at Abby's at the noon lunch hour. I really shouldn't, but I giggle at the thought of riots and hate crimes in downtown Howe. And if it ever does happen, I hope it's not on a Monday because we can't have lunch in Van Alstyne - everything is closed on Mondays.

Speaking of downtown, Salvage Junky will be moving her store out of downtown to the 200 block of Denny Street across from the First Baptist Church. Just last year, Todd Creekmore's business of Advantage Business Machines moved out of the location into downtown. No word yet as to whether Georgia Caraway, owner of the three spaces on the north side downtown will expand her business, Howe Mercantile, or lease to a future tenant.

Lady Bulldogs shoot down Bowie for championship

Prior to Thursday's one-game, winner takes all Bi-District Playoff game against the Bowie Lady Rabbits, Lady Bulldogs head coach Adam Rupert was asked what it would take for his Lady Bulldogs to come out on top.

"Anything can happen in a one game series and Bowie is a very good team. They play in a very competitive district so you can throw seedings out the window. Should be a fun night!"

For the Lady Bulldogs it was a fun night at NCTC Darwin Fields, until the last inning that is. The Lady Bulldogs never trailed in the game and carried a comfortable 9-1 lead into the bottom of the 6th. It quickly got uncomfortable as the Lady Rabbits tallied five total runs in the 6th and 7th innings.

Chamber/KHB meet to revamp Founders Day "Festival"

The two organizations that are teaming together to improve all things Howe met together to discuss how they could improve the 29-year tradition of Founders Day.

The crowd was a tad larger than last year, but the extending of the event time from noon to 6pm turned out to be a flop.

Also, the Howe Fire Department was in competition with Denison for their annual car show that is normally a big fundraiser for the organization.
