

Howe's That

Does history repeat itself? Well, the last time there was big tornado damage in Howe, a motor vehicle accident happened in town one day prior. Before the tornado of March 12, 1971, a major car accident happened at Young Street and Denny Street when one car didn't see the oncoming vehicle. One day before the 2016 tornado, a major accident happened merely two blocks away when a driver failed to see the oncoming vehicle. Creepy? Also that same week, Norman Dickey was named Teacher of the Week and this week he will be named as one of the Hall of Honor members.

In another odd coincidence, on March 12, 1971, the number-one hit song in the U.S. was "One Bad Apple" by The Osmonds. Ironically, on April 26, 2016 no one had heard of the Osmonds since March 12, 1971.

In serious overtones, the community really could use a day to relax and fellowship and gather together as a community. It just so happens that Founder's Day will be this Saturday. And this ain't your papaw's Founder's Day. This year will have more to eat, to play, to do and to listen to than any other Founder's Day in the 30 years. The newly re-formed Howe Area Chamber of Commerce has totally reconfigured the event to be more like the great annual Fall Festival that was once held in Downtown Howe before the move to Charles R. Thompson Gymnasium

EF1 tornado; EF5 community

Howe youth gather on Stark Lane to remove debris and assist Grayson County Precinct 1.

On Tuesday night as Howe was getting ready for bed, smartphone apps started buzzing for local residents to take shelter immediately. Howe has not seen a destructive tornado in 45 years when a northwestern traveling twister destroyed homes in Howe on March 12, 1971.

This Texas tornado was on a different course than its 45-year-old predecessor, traveling northeast at 95- 100 miles per hour and was classified as an EF1. An EF1 tornado is considered a weak tornado, but don't tell that to the Calhoun family on Ponderosa Rd, or the Clements family, or Linda Rae on Stark Lane. Between 1950 and 2014 in the United States, 222 people have been killed by EF1 tornadoes, and 21 have been killed by EF0 tornadoes. Even the weakest tornado can kill, but fortunately for Howe there were no fatalities.

Gene Marshall, a truck driver making his way through Howe had his truck parked across from Howe High School. The tornado picked up his truck and threw it across the road which pinned him inside. Marshall said he only had time to sit and pray. Before the storm hit, he took a 'Zapruder shot' of the EF1 that would later take out his truck and so many houses.

Howe High School was damaged enough to have A/C units blasted from the top of the buildings which created holes above the gymnasium and other areas. This caused Howe ISD to cancel school for Wednesday and Thursday. To go along with the damage to the structures, power was out from Tuesday night until approximately 7 pm on Wednesday evening.

The heaviest damaged areas were the Tapia home on Smith Road just west of Summit Hill and on Stark Lane in northeast Howe.

"When mother nature comes, you can't do anything. When it comes, it comes and you can't do anything about it," Jose Tapia told CBS 11.

Maria Tapia was hospitalized with a back injury just after the tornado struck the home but was cleaning up the property the following morning. Her sons Marcos and Antonio were

Howe needs Founder's Day Saturday

A scene from the 2015 Founders Day Festival.

Perhaps this year's annual Founder's Day takes place at the most needed time in the history of the event. After the emotional week that the community has gone through with the tornado destruction, the festival comes as a perfect way to calm down, and fellowship as a community.

Howe will celebrate the 30th Annual Founders Day this Saturday, May 7. After a re-branding with a new time and original first Saturday in May date, the interest from vendors and car show enthusiast are at, perhaps, an all-time high.

had been at the building since early that morning and continued to use the church building for various matters (meals for crews, communication, etc).

Terry and Terri Calhoun's home was also one of the worst. "All of a sudden you heard the pop pop pop and then it the suction started and my husband grabbed me," said Terri Calhoun.to ABC News in Dallas. "

While the local Church of Christ was preparing for the worst, the community was giving their best. Howe ISD Athletic Director and Head Football Coach Zack Hudson had his athletes and many other students on Stark Lane cleaning up the debris from homes. Arriving at 7:30 am, Hudson found seven or eight Howe students helping people that they didn't know.

Local television, DFW television and even national TV crews were in Howe to cover the story. What they found was that the story wasn't so much the destructive damage of the tornado, but the love and support from the community members that helped those that were in need.

"It's a sad situation. You see some of these people that you go to church with and you work with - it's a sad situation," said Hudson on NBC News of Dallas. "We went house to house - about 30 of us at a time with chainsaws and trailers and tried to put some normality back into their lives."

Immediately after it was announced that Howe had suffered significant damage, the Howe Church of Christ became a "command post" and donated items started to pour into the church. Howe Church of Christ Pastor Toby Soechting said that as of 8:00 am Wednesday morning there had been no real need for shelter for local families. However, emergency relief and work crews

Lady Bulldogs capture bi-district championship again

The Howe Lady Bulldogs captured another bi-district championship with a two-game sweep of Henrietta on Thursday and Saturday.

In game one Thursday, The Lady Bulldogs' three first-inning runs built an early lead that helped bring home a 6-1 win..

The Lady Bulldogs scored in the first on a fielder's choice and a two-run single by Emily Sanders.

Madisyn Hargrove looked sharp in the circle. Henrietta managed just two hits off of the the Lady Bulldogs' pitcher, who allowed no earned runs, walked six and struck out five during her seven innings of work.

The Lady Bulldogs posted one run in each of the third, fourth and sixth. In the third, the Lady Bulldogs scored on a sacrifice fly by Hunter Brockelman, bringing home Sanders.

In the fourth inning, Henrietta pushed across its only run of the day on an error.

On Saturday, the game moved to Argyle after a Friday rain storm. The Lady Bulldogs and Henrietta passed the lead back and forth four times, but in the end the Lady Bulldogs pulled out a 6-4 win in eight innings over Henrietta .

The Lady Bulldogs took the lead in the eighth inning and held on for the victory. The Lady Bulldogs went up for good on an RBI single by Maddie Mullens off Campbell, scoring Payton Griffin.

Griffin had a hot bat for the Lady Bulldogs. Griffin went 2-4, drove in one and scored two runs. She singled in the first and eighth innings.

Hargrove's 10 strikeouts were enough to push the Lady Bulldogs past Henrietta . Hargrove allowed four earned runs on four hits and three walks over eight innings.

Campbell couldn't get it done in the circle for Henrietta , taking a loss. She allowed six runs in eight innings, walked three and struck out five.

The top of the first saw the Lady Bulldogs take an early lead, 3-0. The Lady Bulldogs' threat began with a single by Hargrove. The Lady Bulldogs then tacked on more runs when Anderson scored on an RBI single by Griffin and Griffin scored on an RBI double by Sanders.

With the series win, Howe is now ranked #9 in the state. They will face Grandview in the area round of the playoffs starting this Friday, May 6 at 7pm in Sunnyvale. It's a chance for revenge as Grandview knocked the Lady Bulldogs out of the basketball playoffs back in February.

A shy, would-be online newspaper owner at the first Founder's Day Festival in 1986.

Performance at the 2005 Founder's Day

The newly formed Howe Area Chamber of Commerce has taken over the responsibility of putting on the long-standing Howe festival. Without an active chamber, the responsibility fell to individuals and the enthusiastic atmosphere dwindled and was nearly cancelled in 2014. However, Keep Howe Beautiful was formed about that time and have been coordinating the event for the past two years and building it back up gradually. After barely having a festival in 2014, the group made vendor fees no charge in 2015 and grew the interest to around 33 vendors who had lobbied for an all-day festival instead of the traditional 9am - noon style event. It was successful prior to noon, but citizens had been trained for years that the event was over at that time and from noon - 6pm, downtown was full of vendors without people. The chamber hired the Chris McCandless Band to give a free concert at 6pm downtown in which only two dozen people attended.

The newly formed chamber had been challenged to run the Founders Day Festival in 2016 which serves as the 30th annual event. Trying to break the tradition of everyone leaving at noon, the chamber decided to move the entire event to an evening festival from 2pm to 8pm similar to the successful Fall Festival. Vendor booths were still no-charge and an early promotion allowed for over 50 vendors to register quickly. The event has attracted bounce houses, face painting, pizza, kettle corn, homemade ice cream, shaved ice, food truck, cakes, pies, cookies, scavenger hunt, Touch A Truck, car show, live music, dance performances and everything anyone could want in a small-town festival. There are even events to register for such as a lawnmower race, 42 domino tournament and a horseshoe tournament. The only thing missing is a parade and that could be added next year.

The Founders Day weekend will kick off with the Howe Area Chamber of Commerce Awards Banquet that will induct Norman Dickey, Jimmy Bearden and Steve Simmons into the Howe Hall of Honor. The chamber will announce the Norma J. Wallace Citizen of the Year, Business of the Year, New Business of the Year, and Volunteer Organization of the Year.

The very first Founders Day was held May 10, 1986 as a part of the Texas Sesquicentennial celebration. The Howe Lions Club held a PRCA Rodeo on the grounds where the softball field are now located at the east end of Davis Street. Events in the first Founder's Day included a beard contest, tobacco spitting contest, cow chip throw, horseshoe and domino tournament and an egg toss and bubble blowing contest.

Howe Elementary Assistant Principal runs in Boston Marathon

This was the third year in a row for Howe Elementary Assistant Principal Matt Boykin to run the Boston Marathon and sixth marathon he's run overall. His time was 3:21:35, which is a little slower than his previous Boston Marathons, due to, as he says, unusually warmer temperatures and	a medium headwind during much of the race. Boykin finished 5,336th place out of 26,639 runners. He took his wife and daughter with him this year and they were able to explore the town.	the spot where the Boston Tea Party occurred." said Boykin.	"I must have looked pretty funny hobbling around the elementary school for a couple of days after the race, as the soreness in my muscles worked itself out." said Boykin. "I was back to running this weekend and have been contemplating what challenges I would like to pursue next."

Faith

“And if you give even a cup of cold water to one of the least of My followers, you will surely be rewarded,” Matthew 10:42.

Jesus’ whole life on earth was spent giving. He had a body that grew tired just as we do so I’m sure there were times when He felt spent. But He never stopped giving. Jesus gave to the poor, to children and widows, to beggars and to the followers of His ministry. He gave to small crowds and to the multitudes. It is God’s nature to give. “So Jesus explained, ‘I tell you the truth, the Son can do nothing by Himself. He does only what He sees the Father doing,’ John 5:19. Jesus gave according to God’s purpose and grace. Christians are to mature to be more and more like Christ. You don’t have to wait for big opportunities to give and serve....give and serve daily.

Jesus didn’t give according to worthiness or response. He didn’t give to only who gave in return. Jesus gave because of simple grace. God notices and rewards even the smallest of kindnesses given to the least likely of people. Whether you give money, time, talents, an encouraging word, or a listening ear, it will all be rewarded according to your heart. Show God’s Love to those that He places in your life but helping them in a tangible way. The small community of Howe, Texas did just that when its residences suffered tornado damage on Tuesday night, April 27, 2016. The tornado roared in like a freight train around 10:15 pm destroying and severely damaging homes, Howe High and a business. The sleepy bedroom community woke up and with boots on the ground had an emergency shelter in place by midnight at the Church of Christ. By 6 am people were coming from all areas of Howe seeking places to serve. By 7:30 am, instead of packing backpacks for High School, a group of Bulldogs Students were at homes ready to serve the community that supports them. This out pour only grew. Churches were working together, neighboring townships working together, families and friends working together, clubs and teams working together. Hundreds of residents, most all the businesses and all the churches had no power. That did not stop anyone from serving. Several hundred sandwiches were made and sack lunches put together to be delivered by lunch time and then turn around and hundreds of hotdogs cooked and sack meals put together for dinner. Not only were meals provided to the tornado victims and relief volunteers but where there were people at home and no electricity. “Jesus did not give according to worthiness or response. He did not give to only who gave in return. Jesus gave because of grace.” This is what it means to be the hands and feet of Jesus. “To the poor, to children and widows, to beggars and to the followers of His ministry. He gave to the multitudes. A crisis will always expose the true heart of a servant. The heart of this community shined as the heart of Christ. “But when you give to the needy, do not let your left hand know what your right hand is doing, so that your giving may be in secret. Then your Father, who sees what is done in secret, will reward you,” Matthew 6:3-4. There has been Facebook and news coverage all over the town of Howe....that makes it hard to hide one hand from the other. That verse simply means without bragging on it. God always sees our actions and our heart. He knows the reason we do things. Pride in who we are as a community and pride that so many were willing to give of their time, resources, talents and money is certainly ok with God. We give God the honor and we help because of Him. Sometimes God calls us to give anonymously and if He does then resist the temptation to talk about it. That would be letting your left hand know what your right hand did. I hope we never stop talking about how we came together so quickly to help our neighbors in need....never forget the feeling of caring and giving to others. That’s Howe we do it! “In all things I have shown you that by working hard in this way we must help the weak and remember the words of the Lord Jesus, how He Himself said, ‘It is more blessed to give than to receive.’” Act 20:35. Everyone who needed help would agree that they would have rather been the one giving. “And the second is like it; ‘Love your neighbor as you love yourself,’” Matthew 22:39. Vintage tablecloths can be found with every imaginable motif—from brilliant fruit and floral clusters to cowboys to souvenir state maps. Many collectors are finding these wonderfully colorful tablecloths (and matching napkins if you are fortunate enough to find them) just right for their 1940s/50s kitchens or entertaining outdoors on the patio. These are great items for novice collectors; they are easy to find, reasonably affordable, and come in a wide variety of patterns and colors to match most kitchen decors.

The first cloths were produced in the 1920s, but very few of these will be found—they wore out from use and were probably tossed out. The heyday for the cloths was the 1940s (the charming designs and colors helped uplift the spirits of housewives from the unhappiness of the war years) and the 1950s when men and women alike were ready for cheerful injections of color into their everyday lives. The cloths were inexpensive and sold in five and dime stores, although some of the better department stores sold them as well. Because they were economical many families owned four or five different patterns so they could change the look in their kitchens frequently.

Small textile mills in the South, New England and California produced the cloths. If you are lucky you may find cloths in an unused condition with paper labels such as Broderie Creations, Springmaid, and Town and Country. They were handprinted and made of 100-percent cotton, although some were made of rayon or linen. Their color-staying power was due to the fact that they were finely woven and made with colorfast printing and dyes. The permanence of the colors was achieved by vat dyeing developed in the 1930s and perfected in the 1940s. Vat dyes are insoluble in water and very resistant to sunlight, washing and drycleaning; the fabrics in the cloths do not bleed or fade.

Style and motif are the best gauge for determining age: linens from the 1920s had deco- and arts-and-crafts inspired motifs; fruits and flowers in naturalistic colors embellished the 1930s cloths; the 1940s patterns were more elaborate a la Carmen Miranda with bright borders and stripes and south-of-the-border and western designs; more fruits and flowers, western and geometric and abstract designs were introduced in the 1950s. Kitchen implements of every type (teapots, coffeepots, and appliances) took on the status of household icons when printed on the cloths.

The most common motifs are the fruit and floral pattern, but southwestern and state maps, although harder to find, are highly sought after. When people started taking car trips for vacations, state maps became popular. The most common states are the ones traveled to by tourists, like Texas, Florida, California, Alaska, and New York. Texas cloths are often exaggerations of the size of the state with quips and jokes featuring Texas brag about the animals, wealth, and historic sites. They often matched the same braggadocio as were printed on the “tacky” souvenir plates that were produced in the U.S. and in Japan.

My mother ALWAYS had a tablecloth on her table and my sisters and I have followed her in that tradition. The Howe Mercantile has a nice selection of vintage cotton tablecloths just waiting to be part of your spring outdoor dining. Many are priced under $20 so you can do as the ladies of the 1940s and have several to brighten up your kitchen.

Dr. Georgia Caraway, former director of the Denton County Museums for 14 years, and her friends opened the Howe Mercantile at 107 East Haning. Store hours are Thursday through Saturday noon until 8 p.m. She has written four Denton history books and has finished a 5th history about the North Texas State Fair and Rodeo that will be published in August. She hopes her next book will be the history of Howe. PLEASE SHOP LOCALLY. We can show you Howe!

Texas History Minute:

Dr. Ken Bridges

James Throckmorton was a pioneer, doctor, lawyer, congressman, and governor. In spite of an impressive career, he only found himself caught between the great forces of history that were tearing the nation apart. Throckmorton was born in 1825 in Sparta in central Tennessee. His father was a physician and moved often. Eventually, the Throckmortons made their way to Texas, and the family became early settlers of Collin County, settling not far from what is now Melissa in 1841 near the modern US Highway 75.

Throckmorton’s father died in 1842, and he had to help care for his seven brothers and sisters. Later, he went to Kentucky to study medicine. He returned to Texas in 1847 when the Mexican War erupted and served as an army surgeon. After the war, he established a successful medical practice in Collin County and helped establish a private school in Mantua. However, he grew disenchanted with medicine and turned to law.

He served three terms in the Texas House of Representatives from 1851 to 1857. While in the legislature, he focused on education and railroad development, two causes that would mark his career. In 1857, Throckmorton rose to the state senate and allied with Sam Houston against the rising forces of secession in Texas. Throckmorton became a close advisor to Houston, now governor, as the Civil War loomed, but the election of Abraham Lincoln as president in 1860 prompted a wave of secession that engulfed Texas.

In 1861, Throckmorton was a delegate to the secession convention and was one of only eight delegates to reject disunion. He remained close to Houston in the desperate weeks as Houston crossed the state pleading to save the Union. Because of their efforts, Collin, along with several counties along the Red River (including Grayson, Cooke, and Fannin), voted against secession in a February referendum. However, in the fevered atmosphere, most voted in favor of secession.

Throckmorton stepped forward and volunteered to defend Texas during the Civil War, rising from captain to general by 1864. In 1866, he chaired a convention of Unionists to draft a new constitution for the state, one that recognized the realities of the postwar South. The new constitution was ratified and Throckmorton was elected governor with 79% of the vote.

The war wrecked the state’s economy and violence plagued both whites and freedmen alike. Texas contended with this chaos as Union troops attempted to re-establish order. Throckmorton attempted to rebuild the state, emphasizing new schools and railroads. While the slaves had been freed, the policy of the United States government was that giving the freedmen the vote and equality under the law was essential to preserving the freedoms of the former slaves. While Throckmorton accepted the end of slavery, giving African-Americans the vote was a step he could not take, and he clashed with federal officials. Barely a year after Throckmorton became governor, Gen. Philip Sheridan ordered him and other elected officials removed from their posts for opposing Reconstruction.

In 1872, his ban on holding office was lifted and he plotted his political comeback. He was elected to Congress in 1874 and re-elected in 1876. A respected figure, he was named Chairman on the Committee on Pacific Railroads in 1877, an important position as the railroads surged westward across the frontier. He soon moved for higher offices. In 1878, he ran for governor but lost the nomination. In 1881, he lost a bid for U. S. Senate. The next year, however, he ran for Congress and won easily.

In 1886, he announced his retirement and returned to Texas. He resumed his law practice in McKinney as his health declined. He died in 1894. Throckmorton remained widely respected in his community, with residents later naming a street after him and erecting a statue in his honor.

Election this Saturday

Harvey Morris is the the first in quite some time to challenge for a city council seat. He will try and take the council place of one of the incumbents, Darren Foster, Georgia Richardson or Sam Haigis.

With Scott Renfro resigning from the board due to his relocation out of the Howe Independent School District boundary, that leaves a seat open for grabs for two to battle it out.

Amber Krantz- Dimayuga has ran for the school board for the past two years unsuccessfully and the HHS 1993 graduate is on the ballot again.

Jeff Denham, owner of Vaquero Underground Services will make his first attempt at a run for Renfro's seat.

Greg Akins, who serves as

president will seek another term on the board. Joint elections for city council and school board will take place May 7 at the Howe ISD Administration campus.

We had prepared to give a full dedicated column with each candidate's platform stances on their candidacy, however, the storm changed our plans and we were not able to give each candidate fair time. Our apologies to the candidates.

car. Volunteer workers, such as Howe Bulldog junior football player Mike Helpenstell, continued to help on Stark Lane. "This is my hometown. I'd do anything I can to keep it together."

Even middle schoolers such as Tate Harvey was on-site working to help those in need. "I think it's important for people to come out and help the community," said Harvey to KXII.

Some people think that you can't do as much in small towns - as much as other big towns can do - but we've really seen our small town come together and we've shown you 'Howe' we do it," said Catherine Honaker to KXII.

Howe Superintendent Kevin Wilson also told the local TV station that it's a testament to the Howe community and that the locals have each other's back.

Speaking of back, the backbone of the entire situation were the local churches and the Howe Church of Christ in particular. FBC Howe canceled Wednesday night services and took their group to help clean up and provided Gatorade for workers. New Beginning Fellowship worked with FUMC to coordinate deliveries of food and drinks and supplies to the work area. Kings Trail Cowboy Church set up a "General Store" area near the middle of the disaster area on Stark Lane. The shuttle crews of were delivering sandwiches, water and everything that workers and tornado victims might need. The majority of the items came from the Howe Church of Christ who had ladies working full staff trying to prepare meals and take in donated items. Over 200 and maybe even 300 sack lunches were made both Wednesday and Thursday. A representative from the church said that people from all over the area came to see what was needed to provide the meals. Individuals came from Van Alstyne, Tom Bean, Sherman, and elsewhere. Some of the people from out of town even stayed and helped make the lunches. Of course, the church had no power on Wednesday as did the rest of the city, so Pastor Wallace Rains of New Beginning Fellowship brought a generator to the church across town so that the work could get done. The deliveries were organized by Danny Watson and David Savage.

People brought enough food and the ladies made enough sandwiches that they had too many left over and ended up taking them to the crisis center.

During the relief efforts, many businesses stepped up and offered to help. Lowes donated boxes of tarps for the houses, boards, lumber, hammers, nails, etc. Magni-Fab delivered four dozen work gloves. Douglass Distributing brought a truckload of Subway sandwiches and gas cards for the generators. Walmart sent two volunteers door-to-door to get a list of immediate needs in which they delivered. Walmart delivered chainsaws, 2-cycle oil for chainsaws, toilet paper, toothbrushes, toothpaste, deodorant, soap, towels, wash cloths and sheets. Tyson Foods is making a contribution along with Walmart to a fundraiser that is in the works for the immediate future. Abby's Restaurant will have an $8 spaghetti dinner that will go towards relief efforts on May 11 from 5 pm - 8 pm. T-shirts can also be purchased as a fundraiser. FUMC has set up an account that will house the tornado relief funds.

Miss Pat Thompson

We give you today the account of a home-town girl, Miss Pat Thompson, who is going places and doing things.

It seems but just yesterday when blonde, blue-eyed Pat Thompson was a little girl in the Howe schools. She was always so friendly, always smiling.

All too quickly she has grown-up, graduated from Howe High and then on to college; graduating from Abilene Christian College, with a BA degree in education. She received her Masters degree from East Texas State.

Choosing teaching as her profession, she became a member of the faculty of the Kermit schools where she taught for five years.

The school year of 1964-5 promises to be one of excitement for Pat. She is taking a year's leave of absence and will go to teach at Harmon Air Force Base in Newfoundland. She will be accompanied by another young Texas teacher, Miss Peggy Kennedy, also a teacher at Kermit.

Newfoundland is a long way from Texas, and these two young women are gathering all reading material available and learning as much as possible about the strange land where they will be teaching next term.

Some of the out-of-the-ordinary things they can look forward to is seeing are unusual and magnificent scenery—an average snow fall of 120 inches which begins in November and continues till April. They will be going whaling, watching ice flows and seeing many other exciting sights.

They will be teaching the children of the United States service men, which means that their work will be in English—they will not have to learn Eskimo.

They will be leaving the States by August 1st. They will be taking along a 55 mm camera with a lot of color film and slides. They must get together much warmer clothing.

BASEBALL

Boys, ages 13 to 15 inclusive who are interested in playing Pony League baseball are requested to meet at the diamond Saturday, May 2nd, at 10 a.m. Come and let's have a good team this year.

There will be a Little and Pony League Baseball meeting Monday, May 4th, 7:30 p.m. in the new school building for the purpose of electing officers, managers and to discuss other business of the forthcoming season.

I wish to express my thanks and appreciation for all the cards, gifts and flowers I received during my stay in the hospital.

Mrs. Doug Bell.

High School Burglarized

Burglars broke into the Howe High School building Monday night. They first tried to open windows, but after trying two, which they only jammed, broke the lock on the front door, then forced the north door. They then knocked off the knob of the safe, drove out the pin and took some $200.00. These are various funds kept there. They also took about $150.00 in unindorsed checks, however they left about $25.00 of these in the yard and were picked up the next day. A bar used by the vandals was also found.

Beside the loss of the money and checks, damage to the amount of about $150.00 to the building.

Mr. C. R. Thompson, superintendent, stated that the damage was "pretty well covered by insurance."

Mrs. J. R. Bell was admitted to the Wilson N. Jones Hospital Monday with a stomach ailment, but she was released Wednesday and is much improved according to the latest information. We hope her a complete and speedy recovery.

Dr. and Mrs. Mm. Baxter of Odessa visited his mother, Mrs. Jesse Baxter Tuesday. Dr. Baxter has been attending a dental convention in Fort Worth and is now going to another convention in Mexico City before returning home.

Howe Middle School Students
Study Envirnomental Issues

GRANDMOTHER OF THE KING² Recently I told you that my grandson, Jordan, was entered in a Baby Pageant. Well, he was crowned "king" of his age group (see photo and story on page three).

All of us in his family think he's a pretty special baby, but now we find that the judges agree with us! Lots of folks brag on him to us and we sure do like to hear about how cute and sweet and alert he is. He is now crawling and getting into things. He is also babbling a lot of "da-da-das" and "na-na-nas" (is that Nana he's trying to say?).

Sometimes we all get discouraged with all the bad things in the world, but all we have to do is look at a sweet, innocent child to see that some things in this world are pretty good. Someone has said, "Babies are God's way of saying the world should continue."

DON'T FORGET TO VOTE - Saturday, May 4, is election day. Be sure to vote. Polling place for Howe residents for Howe ISD and City of Howe election is the Howe Middle School. Dorchester voters for the Howe ISD and City of Dorchester election vote at the Dorchester Baptist Church. Polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m.

Candidates for Howe ISD Board of Trustees are Alton Norman, Carolyn Cavender, Kirby Rideout, Barbara L.

To the Editor:

I am enclosing a copy of my letter to Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock, "Why the Public Should Be Against the State Income Tax."

Would your newspaper please print the news article ... so that taxpayers and citizens in your area may be informed that the individual members of the Texas Association of Concerned Taxpayers, the North Texas Taxpayers League, and Grayson County Taxpayers Association are opposing the state income tax, and will inform the Governor, Lt. Governor, and members of the Texas legislature of their opposition to the proposed state income tax.

by Jimmy P. Horany

I was greatly disappointed in Lt. Gov. Bob Bullock's announced support of a state income tax to be assessed against individuals, businesses, and corporations to help pay for the $4.5 billion alleged shortfall in the Texas budget.

I am protesting this proposal on behalf of myself, as a Democrat, and for my friends and associates and as the regional vice president of Texas Association of Concerned Taxpayers, with members in more than 130 counties.

The state economy is in a recession; almost a depression, similar to that of the 1930s. The tax burden has been increasing each year for the past 10 by the federal, state, county, city and school district

Texas is one of four states without a state income tax. Because of this, we have attracted businesses and individuals from other states who come to Texas to get away from the state income tax. Let's keep Texas free of a state income tax to continue to attract new business and more jobs.

If Bullock's proposal for a state income tax becomes law, it would create a new bureau and agency that would bring added expense to state government. Taxpayers would have to pay for tax reports as well as the income tax.

I realize the legislature and state officials are under pressure from the Supreme Court to equalize school funding and because of the alleged $4.5 billion shortfall in revenues for the 1991-92 budget year.

I understand the budget will be about $49 billion, not including the shortfall. I suggest that you and governor, with the legislature, approved a 10 percent across-the-board cut for all state departments and agencies save and except classroom teachers. This reduction would create about $4.5 billion in funds to off set the shortfall.

Howe Middle School students have discussed and studied various issues concerning the environment. There are many interesting facts that were uncovered. For instance, did you know that one American will generate an average of 1,000 pounds of garbage this year?

About 73% of this garbage will make its way to landfills. Many landfill sites have been closed recently in response to environmental concerns. This creates a problem America will quickly have to resolve. By the year 2000, the daily amounts of trash being generated could average 1,600 pounds a day.

There are several alternatives to landfill problems. The most immediate solution involves recycling. Recycling could be as simple as saving all aluminum cans. It could become more elaborate as paper, glass and other metals are added.

Source reduction is another of the alternatives. Source reduction is the more efficient use or reduction of packaging. By the time we unwrap some products, 75% may be packaging. If we use lighter weight paper, we can cut down on the amount of trash we generate.

Composting is a second way to reduce the use of landfills. Paper, food, and yard clippings can be composted. These materials will decompose into humus and can then be used in gardens, flower beds, and yards to increase the fertility of the land. A compost pile will decompose most effectively if oxygen and moisture can reach most parts of the pile.

Incineration reduces solid waste by up to 90%. In modern plants, the energy released by the burning can be recovered as electric power, heat, or steam. The major problem with this alternative is the release of pollutants during the burning process.

The fourth way to improve landfill problems is to recycle. Throughout this year middle schoolers have discussed and participated in this option. More and more communities are seriously looking at this option. Recycling bins have been placed in various places in many communities. (For a while the Volunteer Fire Department collected recyclables in Howe.)

Monday, April 22, was the day Americans set aside to celebrate Earth Day. The purpose of this day is to remind us to do what we can to improve our environment. Middle schoolers took part in various ways.

7th and 8th graders began their study of ecology and quizzed themselves to see how environmentally aware they are.

7th graders have just completed a 6-week project of collecting, pressing, and identifying wild flowers to McMillion and David L. Carson. Three are to be elected.

Candidates for City of Howe with mayor and two council members to be elected are:

Write-in candidates for mayor - Price Hanning and Ray Bledsoe.

On the ballot for city council - Robert Trapp. Write-in candidates for city council - Susan Brooks, Duane Peters, and Roger Luttrell.

Candidates for the City of Dorchester election with mayor and two city council members to be elected are:

cost of utilities, insurance rates, gas and luxury taxes and user fees for government agencies have increased.

In my opinion, it is time to stop increasing taxes and the rate increases specified above in order to prevent further bankruptcies, loss of business and loss of jobs that contribute to the unfavorable business climate in Texas.

Voter apathy and lack of controversy in this year's election were blamed for a low turnout Tuesday, April 23, for a "Meet the Candidates" forum held at Flesher Community Room. Approximately 35 people including candidates attended. Organizers of the event, Patsy Stephens and Carol Cox, served as moderators as written questions were given to candidates.

Candidates for school board who were there included Jimmy Don McMillion, Barbara Lawson, and David Carson. Those unable to attend were Carolyn Cavender, Alton Norman, Jim Lough, and Kirby Rideout. Scott Wortham read a statement prepared by his mother-in-law, Mrs. Cavender. Lana Rideout gave a statement for her son, Kirby.

City candidates attending were Price Hanning, Ray Bledsoe, Robert Trapp, and Susan Brooks.

Since all candidates were not in attendance, the ENTERPRISE will give the following brief capsule of experience and/or positions as expressed by the candidates at the the meeting and through contact with those not present. Voters with specific questions are urged to contact the candidate(s) who are all willing to speak to you concerning their positions.

SCHOOL BOARD

Seven candidates are running for Howe School Board with three positions to be elected. Candidates are listed below in alphabetical order:

David Carson has been the owner and operator of Southwest Auction for the past 7 years. He holds a BA degree in business administration from Texas Tech and an MBA from West Texas State. He and his wife Carolyn have four children, one has graduated from Howe and another graduates this month.

Election Is Saturday

He said, "The mandates set down by the courts and state have made it harder to maintain good educational standards at an affordable price to taxpayers." He feels his business background, as well as involvement with the school through his own children who are in the system, would be an advantage in working for decisions to help both the children of the district and the taxpayers.

Carolyn Cavender has served on the school board for 9 years and is seeking re-election. She is offering her experience as an advantage to helping make the right decisions for Howe ISD. During her tenure in office she has amassed 70 hours of training in workshops.

Because she is not employed outside the home, she feels this makes her more available to local taxpayers with concerns and questions. She is a graduate of Howe High School as are her two children. She says, "The Howe community is important to me and my family. I want the best (school) for all students and especially as my granddaughter will be entering Howe schools in a few years, I want the best for her and her future classmates."

Barbara Lawson was formerly employed by Howe ISD and feels she knows first hand many things about running a school district. Also she has regularly attended board meetings for the past four and a half years which has given her an insight on topics discussed and what is happening in the school district. Also since her two daughters have attended only Howe schools, she is interested in the Howe system.

Barbara said, "I'm running as a concerned citizen and taxpayer who will try to learn all I can to do a good job as a board member. I believe strongly in an open line of communication."

develop their environmental awareness.

6th graders learned about the impact pollution has on health. Dirty air and dirty water promote the spread of germs and harmful bacteria.

5th graders discussed ways they personally could improve the earth. Some students committed to making improvements with their family. They completed at least three improvements in cooperation with Red Lobster. They will receive a free child's meal from Red Lobster for their efforts.

In addition, 5th graders studied the process of recycling paper. Using old sheets of paper, they tore them into tiny pieces and blended them with water. A screen frame was used to drain the excess water. The class was surprised to discover they had the ability to make paper!

All middle schoolers are participating in a landfill decomposition study sponsored by Keyes Fibre Environmental Experiement Activity. They have placed three kinds of disposable plates in mesh bags and buried them in soil. One plate is formed plastic. Another is made of styrofoam and the third is made from molded paper. Keyes Fibre Company manufactures molded paper and other disposable products.

The containers are kept in a warm place and the soil is kept moist. In another week and a half, the students will look at the three plates to see which is decomposing best. They will then be covered again and looked at on the last day of school. The students have made their predictions and are anxious to test these hypotheses.

"Howe Haw '91"
